FATE OF MADRID IN BALANCE NATIONALISTS PREPARE MAJOR OFFENSIVE DEFENDERS' MORALE REPORTED TO BE WEAKENING

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Paris, Yesterday.
Feverish preparations are under way in the Nationalist camp for the offensive against Madrid, according to the latest reports, scheduled to begin in a few days' time.

The opinion prevails in military circles that adequate defence of the city by the Government Militia is scarcely possible, especially in view of the rapid strengthening of the Nationalist positions. Moreover a weakening of morale and lack of determination in resistance is becoming apparent in the ranks of the defenders, according to reports from Seville.

The situation in Madrid is growing constantly more critical, a fact which no attempt was made to conceal in the recent session of the Cortes.

Government Anti-Aircraft Guns

Madrid, Yesterday. — Insurgent planes bombed the outskirts of Madrid last night, apparently aiming at the military aerodromes, but as far as is known no important objectives were touched. The Government anti-aircraft guns came into action against the raiders.—Reuter.

LOST — A "BUSH BABY"

Gallant British Navy Devastated

NOT A SOUL IN NAVAL YARD DRY-EYED

If anyone comes across a small animal about the size of a kitten, with long hind limbs, a lengthy tail and hands and feet not unlike a monkey's, he is advised not to make rash resolutions to take more water with it in future (which he is sure to regret sooner or later), but to report what he has seen immediately, not at the nearest branch of the Anti-Saloon League but at the Royal Naval Yard, where its owner is anxiously awaiting news of it. If, in addition to catching sight of the animal he is also able to catch hold of it, so much the better; because if he returns it to the Naval Yard, where its loss has left hardly a soul dry-eyed, he will be overwhelmed with possibly embarrassing tokens of affection.

Pink rats and purple elephants, crawling gracefully about the walls and ceiling, are pink rats and purple elephants, but this creature is a lemur—a close relation of the monkey tribe. It is, we are informed, a captivating little animal and quite tame and gentle. Its disappearance has caused such a stir as has not been seen since mother caught her thumb in the mangle. Search parties have been organised; the press has been informed; and naval sleuths are slinking about the place with magnifying glasses, peering into all sorts of odd nooks and crannies. Several ripe scandals have been unearthed, but no lemur.

FROM EAST AFRICA
This particular specimen came from East Africa, where the animal is commonly known as a "Bush Baby" — the parti-

A message sent out by the Nationalist broadcasting station at Burgos once more asserts that the President of the Spanish Republic, Don Manuel Azana, has fled from the capital and taken refuge in a Mediterranean port. According to reports reaching here from Spain, a new Cabinet crisis is imminent in Madrid. The reports add that an all-Communist Cabinet will be formed, which will probably be headed by the Communist leader, Senor Jose Diaz.

PICTURES RESCUED
Toledo: Thirteen canvases by El Greco, including the famous picture "The Flogging of Christ before the Crucifixion," whose disappearance from Toledo Cathedral had given rise to the fear that the famous works had been destroyed, were discovered in the vaults of the Cathedral during clearing operations. The pictures had evidently been secreted in the vaults of the Cathedral before the Red reign of terrorism began and thus escaped destruction by the mob which ravaged the city.

NATIONALIST ADVANCE
Seville, Later: Since the Nationalist forces commanded by General Franco have hitherto—in view of the rapidity of their advance on Toledo—been forced to restrict their activities to the occupation of most of the important strategic roads in this sector of the front, they have not yet been able to dispose of the large Red forces which are concentrated in the southern part of the province of Badajoz and in the region north cular bush, possibly gooseberry, is not specified. And anyway there are no cabbage-patches in the Naval Yard. The "Bush Baby," like its human counterpart, is chiefly nocturnal; it sleeps during the day and makes an infernal nuisance of itself at night. It is still hoped that it will turn up somewhere in the Yard carrying, like Mary's lamb, its tail behind it; but readers are earnestly asked to keep a good look-out and help to restore to our gallant Navy the only thing they want at present to recover all that polse which has made them what they are.

HARBOUR MASTER ROBBED

In a report to the Police, the Hon. Comdr. G. F. Hole, R.N., Retired, Harbour Master, states that while his car was parked outside the China Emporium at about 9.45 a.m. yesterday, some person or persons stole from it one Super-Ikanta camera, valued at £20, and one pair of reading glasses worth £20.

Shown, kneeling, left to right, Jeannette Lemple, Bay City, Michigan; Clara Livingston, Puerto Rico; Helen MacGill, Pittsburgh; Annette Gibson, New York, and E. W. Cleveland. Standing, left to right, are Grace Anderson, Phoenix, Arizona; Katherine Sul Fun Chung, Los Angeles; Marjorie Gage, New York; and Mrs. Grace Prescott, San Diego, California. They were the feminine contingent of the 34 pilots who competed in the Roth Chatterton air Derby, flying from Cleveland to Los Angeles, California, last month. They are here shown receiving final instructions from E. C. Cleveland, technical advisor for the Derby. Mrs. Prescott won last year, but failed to repeat her success this year.

TROUBLE BETWEEN FEY AND STARHEMBERG

Vienna, Yesterday.

Following the action of Prince von Starhemberg in expelling Major Fey and Major Lahr, Vice-Mayor of Vienna, from the Heimwehr, on the ground that they were aiming at destroying the unity of the Heimwehr, Chancellor von Schuschnigg, after a conversation with Major Fey, banned the publication of Prince von Starhemberg's communiques in the Austrian Press, and Major Fey declared himself supreme leader of the Vienna Heimwehr, and in the latter's name renounced all connection with Prince von Starhemberg, whom Major Fey says he will fight to the end.

He alleges that Prince von Starhemberg's neglect of the Heimwehr has weakened the society.—Reuter.

TINDALE BIBLE READINGS

Commemoration In Churches To-day

London, Yesterday.

Thousands of churches tomorrow will read portions of the Bible as first translated into English 400 years ago by Tindale in commemoration of the anniversary of his burning in Brussels, as a heretic for the translation.

The British and Foreign Bible Society has distributed 15,000 pamphlets in Great Britain and Ireland containing extracts from Tindale's Bible for reading to-morrow, showing the remarkable similarity of his translation with the Authorized Version, the compilers of which drew largely on Tindale in view of his unsurpassed scholarship and knowledge of Hebrew and Greek.—Reuter.

FIRM FRONT BEING OFFERED ACTION THREATENED IN CHAPAI AREA TENSION NEARS BREAKING POINT

(From A Special Correspondent)

Canton, Yesterday.

The situation in Shanghai is still tense, and the exodus of the Chinese into the French Concession continues. The Japanese bluejackets are still patrolling in groups at all the important points of the Hongkew district. Besides three Chinese and one American reporter arrested by them on Thursday last, Mr. John Thompson, a former British ship's officer, was also arrested yesterday morning, though all of them were released later.

It is learned that the Japanese authorities have requested the Shanghai Municipal Council to disarm all the Chinese Municipal constables because of the fear that they may interfere with the Japanese shops, residences and barracks. Rumours are current in Japanese circles that the Chinese Government has stationed 70,000 troops between Nanking and Shanghai. It is reliably reported that Mr. Wu Teh-chen, the Mayor of Greater Shanghai, has been instructed to lodge a strong protest against the presence of the Japanese marines in Chapel, on the ground that the place is a non-military zone in accordance with the Shanghai Truce Agreement. If the Japanese authorities do not withdraw their bluejackets from there, the Chinese Government will also dispatch troops to that region.

BRITAIN SHOWS CONCERN

Situation Regarded As Very Serious

London, Yesterday.

Well-informed quarters reaffirm that Britain is not disinterested in the present Far Eastern crisis. Stress is laid on the importance of British interests in China which would be affected either by a Japanese protectorate over the whole or part of China or by war between China and Japan.

British circles continue to regard the situation as not only very delicate but very serious. It is probable that the British views have already been made known to the Chinese and Japanese Governments.

(From A Special Correspondent)

Canton, Yesterday.

At 10 p.m. on Thursday, the French authorities in Shameen searched a gambling den in the French Concession.

Sixteen persons were arrested, about $2,000 being found on the tables for the different kinds of gambling.

It is reported that a large-scale gambling and opium-smoking house has been organised by certain foreigners in Swatow. The house is of two storeys. The ground floor is used as a dancing hall, while the upper floor is used for opium smoking and all sorts of gambling. The Swatow authorities have cabled to the Kwangtung Provincial Government to ask for instructions to deal with the matter.

JAPANESE SPOKESMAN GOES TOO FAR

Attempt To Discredit
News Story

ALLEGED AUTHENTIC REPORT DENIED FOR POLITICAL REASONS?

Shanghai, Yesterday.

A violent denunciation of Reuter by a Japanese Foreign Office spokesman, Mr. Eiji Amau, for publishing on the authority of its London diplomatic correspondent the gist of the new Japanese demands or proposals to China, elicits editorial comment in the Shanghai Evening Post to-day.

The newspaper says: "There is a familiar ring to Mr. Amau's words. Precisely such words were spoken against the Associated Press when, through the instrument of its Peking correspondent, Mr. Frederick Moore, it broke the story of the 21 Demands. Mr. Moore's story was true and the Japanese knew it was true."

"We do not think Mr. Amau's verbal gun went off half-cocked when he blustered against Reuter. His apparently reckless remarks, to the effect that Reuter's story was based on imaginary propaganda with an ulterior motive and the malicious intent of alienating China from Japan, impress us as thoroughly 'thought-out' and 'calm.' Frankly we think he acted under orders in an effort to discredit a story that is true, just as the 21 Demands story was true."

MADE SCAPEGOAT

"Our information upholds Reuter's version in all respects, and we believe that this agency is being made the scapegoat in an effort to prevent cold facts from hurting Japan's case before the world."

"News agencies and newspapers realise that they run the risk of such eventualities and accept frequent brickbats and much more occasional bouquets, in a spirit of uniform philosophy."

The demands to which Mr. Amau objected were:—

(1) The right to station troops at various points in the Yangtze for the protection of Japanese residents;

(2) The right to edit school-books to prevent the teaching of anti-Japanese sentiments to school-children in China;

(3) Autonomy for the five Northern provinces; and

(4) Economic co-operation between China and Japan.—Reuter.

CRITICISM RESENTED

Shanghai, Yesterday.

Following on the heels of the announcement from Nanking that newspapermen should not be unlawfully arrested comes a report from Hsienyu, Fukien, stating that another editor has been put in gaol by a district magistrate.

Mr. Teal Ming-liang, editor of the "Shang Pao," there, recently published a story about the corruption in the election of delegates to the National People's Congress and urged that steps be taken against those in charge of the elections.

It is stated that he was arrested on bail and "taken to the Red Cross Hospital."—Union

BLUE GILLETTES FOR CHEAPEST SHAVES

HARDER STEEL HERE THAN EVER BEFORE—TAKES A MUCH KEENER EDGE

The greatest shaving fallacy is to imagine that the cheapest blade provides the cheapest shaves. Try a Blue Gillette and see how many more perfect shaves you get. For Gillette's electrical tempering process, which puts two tempers in every blade, produces an edge which is keener and longer lasting — an edge which makes all the difference to your shaving comfort. That is why Blue Gillettes are, in the long run, the best and cheapest blades you can use.

THE SALE OF CLOUGH MANOR

By MAZO DE LA ROCHE

It was the first visit of these two young Americans to England. It was a kind of second honeymoon which came, not after long years of marriage, not even after a few years of readjustment, compromise, and matter of fact settling down to double harness, but after six months of complete happiness following their first honeymoon.

The young husband, Elihu Tarrington, was an analytical chemist whose father had been a prosperous hardware merchant in a large town in the middle west, and grandfather a farmer who had actually made money on a wind-swept, sun-scorched farm. Elihu had been a studious boy. He now held a responsible position and the firm which employed him had suddenly decided to send him to England to make certain investigations. He at once declared that Ruth must go with him.

Ruth had been quietly brought up. In her family money was scarce but books were plentiful. There had been copies of good pictures, too. When she was still a small child her mother had almost covered the walls of her bedroom with prints of European cathedrals and copies of the old masters. She had grown up with her thoughts fixed on a world very different from the hard materialistic life about her. She was full of romance.

It had been some quality of romance about Elihu Tarrington that had attracted her when first they met. He had an air of grace about him. His head was well set, his features sensitively aquiline. There was nothing aggressive in his face and his smile did not cheapen it, as, for some inexplicable reason, their smiles cheapened the faces of so many men she knew. There was something rather aloof about him, rather elusive. On his part he adored Ruth when he married her and their six months of life together had made him happier than he had ever imagined he could be. Now this unexpected trip abroad seemed the crowning of their bliss. Ruth would see the things she had so long dreamed of. He would be able to show her Clough Manor, the home of his ancestors.

He had been a little shy in telling her of his connection with the Tarrington family of Herefordshire. Once when he was a boy he had told some other boys of it and for a long time they had made him miserable by calling him "me lord" and dropping their attitudes when they spoke to him, in the belief that they were "talking English."

When he told her she had been so almost solemnly impressed, so deeply thrilled that he had again been embarrassed. But it was exciting, he agreed, to know that his grandfather had lived in a great old mansion, had been a younger son of a Viscount Tarrington.

He could remember his grandfather, a bent old man, always sitting close by the stove in the bitter winter days, his silvery hair rather long, his delicate nose bluish, his hands, spread to the heat, large-jointed from the work he had done. He would talk to the little boy by the hour of the wonders of Clough Manor, but to neighbours who came to the house he rarely spoke, except in courteous replies to their inquiries about his health.

It was not till long after his death that Elihu's father had told him the old man's story. A spoiled boy, the youngest of the family, he has been arrogant, almost uncontrollable. He had had wild friends and, through them, had got into rather serious trouble. He had had a terrible quarrel with his father, who, in the fashion of the day, had turned him out, expecting him to return before long, repentant. But the youth had been proud. He had cut himself off from his family forever. He had emigrated to America and said:

"What an awful disappointment for you, darling! Why, it's just terrible! I can hardly believe it." "Well, it is a sort of disappointment," he answered, "but it gives us the chance to go in and look about. Gosh! We'll go over the whole house! I never thought of anything like this." He started the car and sped toward the village.

They barely took time to notice the old black and white houses, to ask their way of the landlady of the ancient inn that bore the name of Tarrington Arms. The manor lay just beyond the village in a park where a herd of deer grazed under the red-brown branches of oaks. "Why do you suppose it's being sold?" asked Ruth. "I guess it takes an awful lot to keep up these grand places. Taxes are terrible here, they say. But I hope the family isn't ruined. I sort of hate to think of them being ruined."

"I should just think you would!" she cried. "After all, they're your own folks. O, Elihu, I'm certain they would be pleased to meet you!"

"Especially if they're ruined," he answered with a grim laugh. "They might like to borrow some money off me. Gee — here's the gate!"

"Are we supposed to drive under that?" She stared up at the ivy-clad arch of the gate house. "I'll say we are! Return of the prodigal! Hang on to yourself, Ruthie!"

The car alid along the drive and Clough Manor, a massive, ivy-clad pile, rose before them. It was larger, more noble in its proportions, than anything they had imagined.

Near the house one large tent and a smaller one had been put up. They seemed to be crowded with people though enough were left over for a scattering on the lawn. Elihu parked the car where he was directed by an official in charge. He and Ruth walked straight across the wet velvet grass to the front door. They felt transported into a new world.

"At the door a great disappointment awaited them. A stalwart policeman stood there on guard and refused to admit them. The sale was taking place in the large tent."

"It seems just too bad to be true!" said Ruth disconsolately. "Forget it, darling! When we started out this morning you'd no notion of seeing inside the house."

"Of course, I hadn't! But the moment I heard there was a sale I set my heart on seeing every corner of it."

Elihu turned to the policeman. "The family are still living here, I guess," he said diffidently. "Not them," said the policeman. "They're dead."

"All of them?" cried Ruth. "Isn't there a lord left?" The policeman answered rather stiffly, — "The new Viscount Tarrington has a place of his own. He is selling this. He is a cousin, I believe."

"Couldn't we just peek inside?" asked Ruth. "You see we've got a particular interest in the place because we're sort of —"

"American," put in Elihu, giving her arm a sharp squeeze. "We're interested in these old buildings. They're a real curiosity to us."

The policeman was not unfriendly but he was firm. "It's my orders," he said, "to let no one inside the door. But I see no reason why the lady shouldn't look in, if she wants to."

He moved the blue-clad bulk of his body out of the way and they saw the sweep of the carved staircase, the vaulted roof and stone-flagged floor. Opposite them leaning against the wall, were a number of oil paintings. The most conspicuous, a naked Adonis, very pink and forlorn.

"Them's old masters," said the policeman. "They were sold yesterday."

"O," said Ruth with a gasp. "How I wish I could have had one!"

The policeman answered almost severely. "I think you'd be surprised, ma'am, at the prices they fetched. Still — being Americans — perhaps you wouldn't be surprised. The sale is still in progress. Perhaps you could pick up something you'd fancy in the tent."

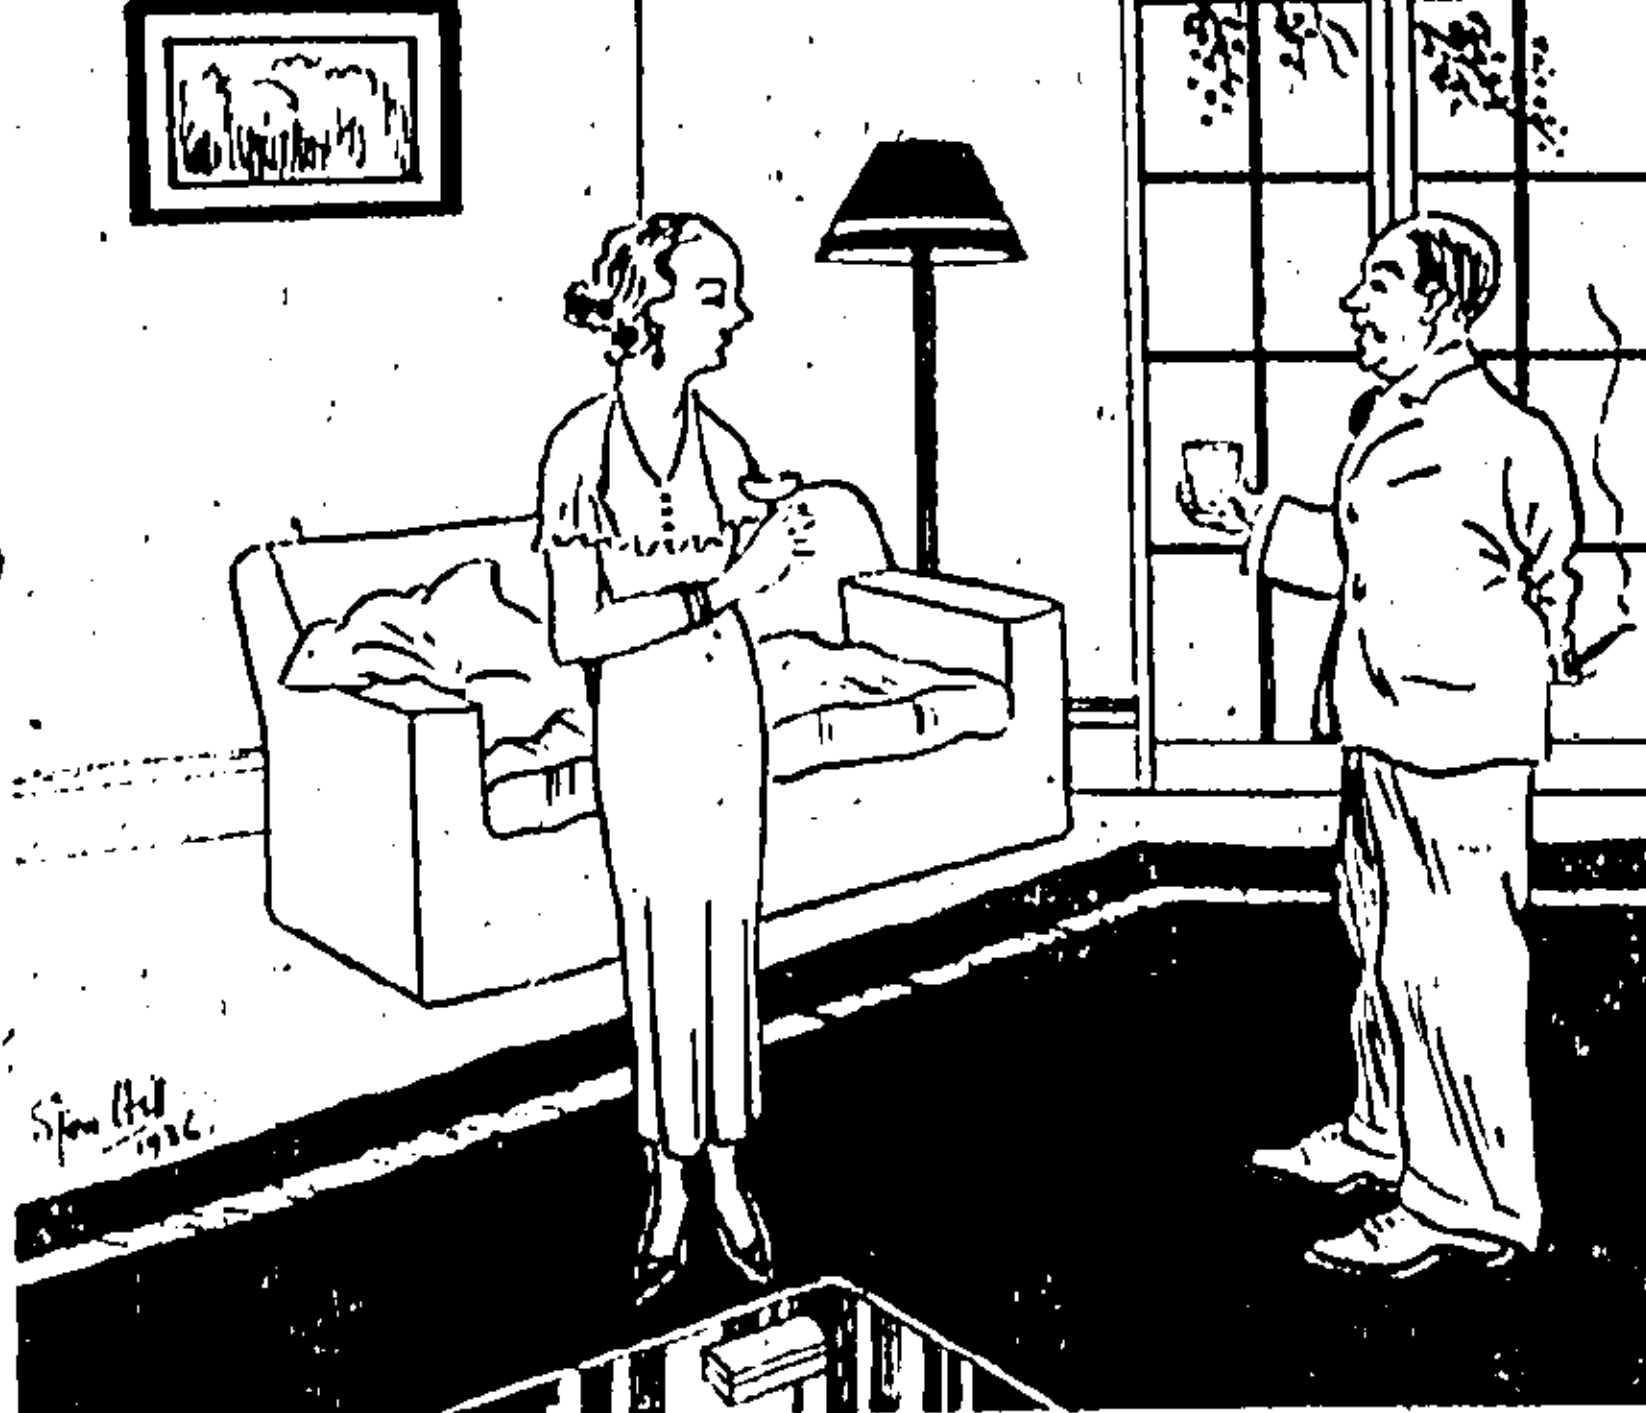

Ruth was fired by the suggestion. She almost dragged Elihu down the stone steps and toward the tent.

"I'm going to do it, darling! I'm going to have something out of that house to keep in our own house forever! I think it's a perfectly marvellous idea. I have all my savings with me. I intended to buy something over here for the house. Let's buy a lot of things, Elihu!"

In the smaller tent they found a baffling array of silver spread out on tables, from massive candle-labra to teaspoons bearing the family coat of arms.

"I'll buy a complete set of table silver," declared Ruth.

In the large tent there was not such a large crowd as they had expected. They were able to move about and examine the drawing

"Have you ever been boarded by pirates Captain?"

"Yes my dear, once when I stayed at a local boarding house."

room furniture which was to-day stood looking about him in a kind of dream. He pictured his grandfather as a young man, on just such a fine November morning as this, riding out with his brothers to the meet of the hunt, their horses' hoofs clattering on these very stones. His imagination moved to remote days. A vista of strange costumes, strange customs opened before him. He saw his people in a dim procession, proud, elegant, courtly, going out to battle, riding home victorious or defeated.

There was a chill in the cloisters. He found himself shivering. He would go into the sun and see what the other side of the house was like, explore the gardens.

He found that the other side was the front of the house. Its imposing facade looked serenely across terraced lawns that were deserted except for himself. It was queer, he thought, how everything seemed to be arranged so that he could have this solitary communion with the place. He stood perfectly motionless for a space, staring at the house, reappearing it with the figures of the past — his past.

A classic hunter was on either side of the steps where he stood, one wrestling with a wild boar, the other grasping a stag by the antlers, his hunting knife in his hand. Something of the vigour of these heroic stone figures entered into Elihu. He straightened himself and a proud smile curved his lips. He had a feeling of possession in all this. A mad thought entered his brain. Supposing the new Viscount Tarrington and his heirs in England died! Supposing he himself became the Viscount Tarrington! He pictured Ruth and himself moving into this great pile, taking up the responsibility of this estate.

And now she was in the auction room intent on acquiring a memento of the heaped up tradition of the past! The life of his family in the new world suddenly appeared blank as fresh fallen snow.

ANOTHER STOMACH OPERATION AVOIDED

by Maclean Brand Stomach Powder

"Round about the first week of February," writes Mr. M. B., "I became ill. The first symptoms were that I was very weak, could hardly walk, and could not eat because of terrible pain in the stomach, between the shoulders, and in the chest."

"This went on for a week, then I began to vomit. I could not keep even water down. I was in a terrible state and sent for the doctor, who told my wife I was very ill with gastric ulcers. I could not eat anything — even brought up the milk I was given. The doctor said he would have to send me to hospital."

"I started to take Maclean Brand Stomach Powder and in two days I was stepping vomiting, which was a wonderful improvement, and that if I continued like that, hospital was out of the question. I continued to get on nicely and could eat a little, but only very light food, and still had pain. A week later I got up, but was very weak and had pain, sometimes after eating only custards. I had lost one stone in weight. However, I improved each week, the pain was better, and I could eat a little."

"By now I am greatly improved, and have regained my weight. I have no pain, and can eat anything I fancy. It seems wonderful, as I thought I should never get better."

"I owe it all to Maclean Brand Stomach Powder, and thank you a million times."

If you suffer from stomach trouble get rid of it, as Mr. M. B. did, with Maclean Brand Stomach Powder, the one with the signature "ALEX. C. MACLEAN" on the bottle and carton. Also sold in tablet form. Never sold loose. If any difficulty in obtaining. Write to: Banker Co., Ltd. P. O. Box 636, Hong Kong.

compared to the inscrutable emotions that for long centuries had been absorbed by this air.

He turned away and followed a broad path between clipped yews to where he saw the tower of a gray stone church. He passed through the graveyard and went into the chill quiet of the church. If he had felt isolated within the past as he stood on the terrace, here he felt absorbed into its very heart. He was oppressed by its weight as he walked slowly along the aisle toward the chancel. The stained glass windows threw a delicate radiance on the recumbent marble figures on a tomb inside an iron grill. He went up the steps and looked at the tomb. The figures were of a man and woman in the dress of the day of Elizabeth. They lay with hands crossed on their breasts, their faces upturned, as though for Elihu's inspection. He bent over the figure of the man with a feeling almost of awe as he saw that the marble face was the face of his own father, the very face of himself. After the sale he must bring Ruth here to see whether his imagination had played tricks with his good sense. But it hadn't! He knew it hadn't! He pictured himself standing, beside the tomb with closed eyes and folded hands, so Ruth might be the more impressed by the resemblance.

I'm a blamed fool, he thought, as he found that his eyes were blurred. He could not clearly make out the inscription, but the man's name was Godfrey Tarrington. Godfrey — his own father's name. This Godfrey on the tomb had been the third viscount.

He examined tablets set in the wall and in the stone floor, but he did not find the name Elihu on one of them. He was disappointed.

He looked at his watch and was startled to find how much time had elapsed since he had left Ruth. He must hurry back to her. He did not hurry back to Ruth. He could not bring himself to pass a tiny cottage he discovered beyond the churchyard without exchanging a word with the old woman who was sweeping the dead leaves from her cobbled path with a broom. She made such a picture standing self-wheeled all about in his bath chair and he knew the troubles and happiness of every cottager. I've got to bring her to the point, he thought, and asked: "What relation was he to the one that went to America?"

She stared blankly. "The one that went to America," he repeated anxiously, afraid that she was having a lapse of memory. "What relation was he to the old lord?"

But she was quite clear in her head. She gave a scornful laugh. "Him! Him related to Lord Tarrington! Bless my soul—he wasn't anything to Lord Tarrington! He was my own brother, Elihu Hayball."

She's crazy, thought Elihu. She's in her dotage. She's got everything mixed up. He said: "I guess you're mistaken, aren't you? It was young Elihu Tarrington who went to Nebraska."

She stared at him suspiciously. "How should you know aught of him?"

He forced himself to speak in an offhand way. "Well, I used to live next door to the Tarringtons when I was a kid. I remember the old gentleman real well."

She peered inquisitively up at him. Good Lord, he thought, what if she sees my resemblance to them!

"What was he like?" she asked. "Is he long dead? What family did he have?"

"He was a nice old gentleman, though sort of proud and quiet with strangers. He's been dead twenty years. He left one son. He's dead, too."

"All dead, eh?" she repeated sadly. "All dead. Dear me, that's sad. That's very sad."

"I wonder what put it into that young Elihu's head to go out there," he said.

She gave him a shrewd look. "He had his own reasons. But they weren't bad ones. He wasn't a bad lad. He's just got into the sort of trouble many a young man does. But the master—that was the father of the one just dead—was hot tempered and pretty hard on him. And my own father was harder still—so he left. He flung off in a temper and went to America. And he did well there, too. He wrote to me three times and he told me he was doing well. He was engaged to the daughter of a well-to-do farmer. But he was vexed with me when I told him what I thought of him for changing his name. Hayball was good enough for his forbears and it was good enough for him. It was plain impudence for him to take the name of his betters, and so I told him. And I told him he'd no right to marry a girl under a false name. He might go to gaol for it, I told him. He was vexed at that and he never wrote to me again."

Elihu asked thoughtfully, "Why do you suppose he changed his name?"

"Well, he was always an uppish lad. He liked fine ways and fine names. And I think he had a feeling that if he took the old lord's name he was getting even with him for the injustice he thought he had done him. He'd never liked the name Hayball. He was an odd lad."

Still Elihu was unconvinced. He could not bring himself to believe this of his grandfather. Yet it sounded straight enough. He said: "I don't suppose you have a picture of your brother? I'd be interested to see if I could recognise in it the old gentleman I remember."

"Indeed, I have, sir. Come in and I'll gladly show it you." She led the way into the low oak beamed room. From the drawer of a dresser she took an old jacket box and out of it the yellowed photograph of a young man. Elihu recognised in it the duplicate of one he possessed. His father had had this photograph enlarged and framed. It hung now in Elihu's own home.

He had forgotten how time was passing. He might have stayed longer to talk with the old woman but a clock above the fireplace struck one. Ruth would wonder what on earth had become of him. He felt very unreal. He looked into the face of the old woman who was his aunt and saw in it a grotesque likeness to the face of Viscount Tarrington on the tomb in the church.

"It's funny," he said. "It's funny—but you look like the Tarringtons yourself. You look like that figure in the church."

She gave a low chuckle. Her eyes became sly. "Queer things happen in old families, you know," she said. "My brother Elihu and myself both noticed the resemblance and asked our father about it. He was shocked with us and bade us put nonsensical thoughts out of our heads. But our mother said she guessed that one of the young lords had, sometime in the old days, had a fancy for a pretty Hayball maid."

A fog had risen, obliterating the sun. The bulk of the house loomed dimly as Elihu retraced his steps. The trees were dim shapes, motionless as though watching him. All his pride in the place was gone, his feeling of possession. He was no longer one with the Tarrington family. He had no real right to the name he bore. Elihu Hayball....

Elihu Hayball.... He said it over and over as he walked slowly along the path.... But there was no doubt about it... the blood of the Tarringtons did run in their veins—there was no mistaking the likeness. And, though he had lost the family, he had gained the land. It was as though the fog had risen to blot out its vision of Clough manor, leaving him only the feel of the land beneath his feet, the shapes of the oaks and beeches about his path. On this land, among these trees, his fathers had worked, rolling the grass, planting saplings, pruning, sowing seeds. For generations they had knelt in the church yonder.

He would not tell Ruth. There was no need to destroy her illusion. He now began to stride quickly toward the tent, anxious for the reality of her presence after this fantastic delving into the past.

But, as he was passing the courtyard, her voice called to him. He found her eating an enormous sugared bun out of her hand. Her face was glowing with happiness. How stylish she looked, he thought, among all these women in their tweeds, with their heavy shoes and woollen stockings, and no powder on their faces!

"Were you worried about me, darling?" he asked.

"Good gracious, no! I didn't give you a second thought! The time has gone like the wind and, O, the heavenly things I've bought! And at such a price! I'm not going to tell you anything about them. Just wait until you see them! Do get yourself one of these buns. They taste perfectly delicious. I suppose that's just because, I'm so happy.... O, Elihu, to think that we'll have your own family silver—your own family furniture—in our home! Life's just too marvellous!"

whose hair is still healthy whose nerves are still steady whose vitality is still buoyant

They've escaped the most common complaint of civilised people—a shortage of minerals in the body. Teeth were meant to last a lifetime, hair to retain its colour and luxuriance, and the heart and nervous system should give carefree service for 'three-score years and ten'.

KOWLOON HOLD SOUTH CHINA "B" TO DRAW AT CAROLINE HILL

A. Wilson, the Club inside-left, above, contributed two goals to the Club's total of seven against Eastern yesterday in the First Division.

CLUB FIGHT BACK

Eastern Lead 2-0 And Lose 4-2

FUSILIERS SHOULD HAVE WON

In a Second Division soccer encounter at the Valley the Club succeeded in taking both points from Eastern, winning by a score of 4 goals to 2.

Eastern scored midway through the opening half though Hau Ching-to after Lee Wai-lam had shot wide from the penalty spot. The Club exerted themselves after the interval, but the first score again fell to Eastern, C. H. Lee collecting a rebound off the woodwork to beat Forwell. Stone reduced the deficit with a neat header and Milne levelled the scores at his second attempt, his first kick being punched down. The same player was again successful and towards the close Stone, bustling through, crashed home a great shot.

FUSILIERS MISS BOAT

An evenly contested game was witnessed in the Second Division at Prince Edward Road between the East Lanes, and the Fusiliers, resulting in a draw of one goal each.

Grindley was the outstanding man on the field, and had his forwards taken advantage of his passes late in the game, the Fusiliers might have won. Harwood and Ball tackled resolutely for the East Lanes, and Cox, at right-half, had hard luck with some fine shots.

The Fusiliers opened the scoring in the first half through Sullivan, and led until the interval. The East Lanes, attacked persistently in the second half, but only equalised just before the final whistle, Radcliffe netting from 15 yards.

PLAYER SENT OFF

A very unsatisfactory and scrappy game was witnessed on the Kowloon ground yesterday between the Royal Engineers and the Chinese Police in their Second Division soccer encounter, and though the soldiers were vic-

ST. JOSEPH'S HELD BY RECREIO
HOME TEAM SHOW LACK OF ORGANISATION
HUSSAIN BADLY MISSED

RECREIO have yet to record their first win of the soccer season in the First Division. Yesterday they just managed to hold St. Joseph's to a one goal-all draw at King's Park.

St. Joseph's fielded the same side as that which defeated the East Lanes, last week, with the exception of Castro, who deputised for Hussain, who was absent through illness. Gosano was absent from the Recreio side, Alves being moved to left-back, whilst Beltrao and Aquino filled the inside and outside-right berths.

Play was rather scrappy at times, the most noteworthy part of the game being the excellent defences of both sides. This fact, coupled with erratic shooting by both sets of forwards, rendered matters fairly even.

Souza and Costa played a really good game for the Saints, the latter in particular giving a very fine exhibition, moving up to relieve Castro at centre-half in the latter stages of the game. Marques, in goal, was never really tested, whilst the intermediate line appeared to miss the guiding influence of Hussain.

Amongst the forwards Leonard was the outstanding player, appearing to have recovered much of his old form. He was ably assisted by the Castilho-Delgado combination, who were appearing against their old team for the first time this season. For some unknown reason Ward was not the same player that played such a fine game against the East Lanes, last week, his shooting in particular being of an unsettled and erratic nature.

Recreio seemed to be suffering from too many changes, a lack of anticipation on the part of individual players being very apparent. Marques, in goal, gave a good account of himself, while Alves and Silva were mainly responsible for the Saints taking away one point.

Alves in particular being to the fore on most occasions. The half-back line were too busy stemming the Saints' forwards to pay much attention to the feeding of their own, Campos and Gomes having a loan time in consequence.

Amongst the forwards, Gomes, Alves and Marques attracted attention and were unlucky to find Costa and Souza at the top of their game.

The game opened in a gusty diagonal wind which tended to favour the Saints in the opening stages, a factor of which they took full advantage.

During the first half Gomes struck the cross-bar with Marques out of position. Early in the second half the Saints scored as a result of really good play on the part of Delgado, who paved the way for Leonard to net with a first class shot. Recreio equalised by way of a free kick, which was netted by Alves from 25 yards out.

EAST LANES. SURPRISE
Typically fast and attractive Army football was in vogue at Chatham Road yesterday, when the East Lanes, and Fusiliers met in their premier League encounter, and after a scintillating display on the part of both teams the East Lanes, secured a surprise victory by two clear goals.

All the honours in the match go to Smith, the East Lanes, inside-right, whose dash and marksmanship prove him to be the capable forward that he is. A great deal could also be written in favour of Sandford and Ridings, for they combined really well in the last stages. Thorpe played a very steady game at right-half, and the Steele-Swain full-back division was impenetrable.

For the Fusiliers, Parry at outside-right, was a huge success; he harassed the opposing defence constantly. Talbot also proved his versatility, but had an arduous task in getting anywhere near the goal area. Cresty was very steady in the pivot position and Keating was again a fine full-back.

There was no score until about halfway through the second half, when quite unexpectedly Smith raced up the field and sent in an extremely well-placed drive from 30 yards. Shortly afterwards Ridings increased the lead after Rowlands had failed to hold a high drive.

custodian no chance. Three goals to one in favour of the Chinese was the final score, but this tally was hardly in keeping with the run of play.
After 15 minutes Lee Piu-leung opened the scoring for "South China" and this was followed by a second goal, from Wong Kam-woon, just before the interval. During one of their sporadic raids Kowloon reduced the arrears through Winch, who netted with a well-placed shot.
In the second half South China never appeared to exert themselves until 10 minutes before the end, when Lee Piu-leung made the issue safe with a fast drive. Harkins missed a penalty for Kowloon.

Rivers Scores With Corner Kick

KOWLOON JUNIORS FAIL

At Chatham Road a spirited display was provided by the two ex-senior League teams, Stonecutters and Lyemun, in their Second Division game, this "needle" match terminating in a very appropriate draw of 2 goals each.

Gardner, the Stonecutters' centre half, played a magnificent game, while Hall was very cool in goal. Halliday and Lewis proved steady backs and the pick of their forwards were Moseley and Baylor.

Stonecutters were the first to score, through Gardner, who converted a penalty kick. No further score came until after the resumption, when Lyemun made a surprise breakaway on the left and Mackrill equalised.

In the closing stages both teams endeavoured to gain the lead and Stonecutters received this satisfaction through Baylor, who took advantage of a fine centre by Smith. It must have been very disappointing for Stonecutters when Rivers took a corner kick and allowed for the wind perfectly, the ball going under the bar for the equaliser.

SOUTH CHINA WIN

The Second Division encounter between South China and Kowloon at Caroline Hill provided several interesting passages, but these were all in mid-field and the spectators were seldom treated to thrilling episodes in either goalmouth. The goals which were scored were clear-cut affairs, all being well placed and giving the

OPPORTUNITIES GO ASTRAY
FIRST-TIME TACKLING HOLDS UP CHINESE
BUT HOME TEAM PROVIDE THE ARTISTIC TOUCHES

KOWLOON'S visit to Caroline Hill yesterday to supply the opposition to South China "B" in their First Division soccer encounter amply justified the optimism of the visiting team's selection committee if we are to take the result as a basis for this conclusion. A draw of one goal all was a fitting conclusion to a hard fought game, the balance of play throughout the match adjusting itself equitably. There were occasions when South China were definitely on top, but there were also similar occasions when the exact reverse was true.

South China supplied most of the football artistry but the first-time tackling of the Kowloon rearguard adequately made up for any lack of finesse in their efforts and they were at least effective if not inspiring. It was not until late in the first half that the Chinese came into the picture whilst the Kowloon attack had ample opportunities during the period to place the issue beyond doubt.

Shortly before the interval South China came well to the fore with several nicely conceived movements, and just before half time they opened their scoring account through Yuk Kon Woo, who snapped up a pass from Lai Shui Wing to give Minhinnet no chance with a first-time drive.

Kowloon settled down quickly the resumption and barely five minutes had elapsed before they had secured an equaliser, V. White cleverly nodding down a difficult pass from Honnibal to score with a terrific rising shot.

South China netted a few minutes later, but "Lady Luck" smiled on the Kowloon team, the referee disallowing the goal on the grounds that it had been scored after he had blown for a previous infringement.

Towards the close of the game rough play marred what had otherwise been a thrilling exhibition, but after the referee had cautioned one of the players the teams settled down to normal again and the last few minutes were amongst the brightest of the match.

South China "B": — Wong Wah-kai; Cheung Chi-yeung, Leung Yui-chau; Lau Tin-san, Lim Tak-po, Henry Young; Yip Yun-po, Chan Tink-fai, Yuk Kon-woon, Lai Shui-wing and Lee Shek-yau.

Kowloon: — Minhinnet; Eastman, Bowen; G. White, Bliss, R. Mills; W. Knox, Evans, D. Knox, V. White and Honnibal.

RIFLES RUN RIOT

A dazzling display of football by the Royal Ulster Rifles distinguished their game against the Police "on the Kowloon ground yesterday, where, in their premier League soccer clash the soldiers won by 6 goals to 1.

The Rifles centre-forward, Ferguson, and Hartigan, in the left-wing position, were in their best fettle and gave brilliant displays.

The soldiers settled down almost at once and within a few minutes Ferguson opened by netting a delightful goal from long range. The Police centre-half then badly miskicked, almost from the replacement, enabling Hartigan to send the ball again into the net. Ferguson, after beating four opponents, netted a third goal, and from the replacement Hartigan scored the fourth. The Rifles right-winger was given another opportunity soon after and chalked up the fifth goal.

Catching the Rifles defence napping, the Police forwards surged forward in a desperate effort and Johnston netted their lone goal, closing the scoring for the first half with the soldiers leading by 5 goals to 1.

In the second half the Rifles went further ahead through Hartigan, who thus registered his "hat-trick."

The Police defence did their best, but were outclassed by the perfect passing of the Rifles forwards.

Police: — McHardy; Blackburn and Parker; Brooks, Gough and North; Moss, Green, Johnston, Bone and Manning.

Rifles: — Connor; Pickering and Stevens; McGonigal, Moore and Millar; Erwin, Campbell, Ferguson, Doherty and Hartigan.

CLUB AT THEIR BEST

The Club's supporters were again treated to another spate of goals and had the satisfaction of witnessing their favourites play storming football to overwhelm the First Division newcomers,

Swain, the East Lanes' right-back, above, played a very fine game against the Fusiliers yesterday in the First Division of the League when the former won by two clear goals.

THIRD DIVISION

FUSILIERS' SURPRISE WIN

The East Lanes, collapsed late in the second half in their Third Division match against the Fusiliers at Prince Edward Road yesterday and were beaten by 4 goals to 1.

Good goalkeeping on the part of Manshapp, of the Fusiliers, featured the play.

Tatler opened the scoring for the Fusiliers in the first-half, but early in the second period Mulvey equalised. The Fusiliers broke away three times and Singleton and Tatler walked the ball through the East Lanes' defence for the former to score a "hat-trick" during the space of five minutes.

SAINTS BEAT RECREIO

In their Third Division soccer game at King's Park, St. Joseph's unexpectedly defeated Recreio by the odd goal in five after an exciting and robust game.

Figueiredo opened the scoring for Recreio in the first minutes of the game from a free kick awarded for "hands." Demea failed to increase this lead a few minutes later from a penalty, awarded for the same offence.

A. M. Omar equalised for the Saints by bundling the goalkeeper and ball into the net. A. Gutterez then netted Recreio's second goal, but Omar again equalised, Hussain netting the winning goal with a first-timer five minutes from the close.

opposing defence, Bickford and Fowler were given every opportunity to shine on the flanks. Neither was slow to seize a chance and both gave sterling displays.

Bickford and Fowler (2) scored in the opening half and Wilson (2), Fowler and Elliott added the remaining four goals after the change-over.

Club: — Rodger; Hill, S. Strange; Brown, Forrow, E. Strange; Fowler, Fleming, Elliott, Wilson and Bickford.

Eastern: — Tang Yat-ming; Ng Ying-kay, Lai Ting-choi; Tang Hung-wan, Geo. Yeung, Chan Yin-fai; Cheng Sin-hong, Lee Wing-on, Chang Yuo-tin, Soong Ling-sing and M. Sabhan.

Mild, aromatic, stimulating, refreshing. Yes, there are "cocktails" and "Cocktails". Nevertheless they are practically made everywhere to the same recipes. The difference lies less in the mixing than in the gin. Just try a bottle of Silver Top Dry Gin and mix a Martini. Or ask for once at the bar for your drink mixed with Bols Gin (although your barman will probably be using it already). That will be the best proof Bols Gin gives your cocktail a certain character which makes just the difference between the usual and perfection, between a "cocktail" and a "cocktail" as it should be.

INTERESTING SOCCER CLASH TO-DAY

K. Chinese Entertain Athletic

MAK SHUI-HON WILL BE ON VIEW

Two interesting struggles in the First and Second Divisions of the local soccer League are down for decision this afternoon on the Club ground, where the Kowloon Chinese entertain the Chinese Athletic.

The outstanding feature of the senior game will be the probable appearance of Mak Shui-hon, the Chinese Olympic full-back, in the Athletic line-up, in spite of the wholesale transfer of former members of the team to the Kowloon Chinese.

Last Sunday the Kowloon Chinese were outplayed by the quicker tackling Fusiliers and, in spite of several pretty mid-field movements, were never able to get within shooting distance except on two occasions.

Team Building

This afternoon the Kowloon Chinese will have to be much more lively if they are to avert a second defeat, while the Athletic, who are still in the process of team-building, should improve on last week's display, when they went down to South China "B" by 6 goals to 2 in their home encounter.

In the Third Division, the Ordinance Corps should account for Liga, but the Service Corps and European Police will be featured in a stern struggle. In the remaining two games, the two Service teams should win.

The following is to-day's programme:

FIRST DIVISION
K'loon Chinese v Chinese Athletic (Club, 4.30 p.m.)
SECOND DIVISION
K'loon Chinese v Chinese Athletic (Club, 3.00 p.m.)
THIRD DIVISION
Liga Portuguesa v Ordinance (Chatham Road, 3.00 p.m.)
European P. v Engineers (Kowloon, 4.30 p.m.)
Service Corps v Kwong Wah (Sookunpo, 3.00 p.m.)
Medicals v Chinese Police (Sookunpo, 4.30 p.m.)

Fusiliers' Boys Lose By 4 To 2

The Central British School beat the Royal Welch Fusiliers' Boys by 4 goals to 2, after sharing four goals in the first half, in a soccer match on the School ground last Friday.

Dwyer and Stone, both of whom scored twice, and Pryde were conspicuous for the School, while Lardner, who netted both the losers' goals, Shone, Prichard and Taylor, particularly the last named, were in the limelight for the losers.

Fusilier Talbot, the Colony Interporter, refereed the game.

"Y" DRAW WITH THE ARGONAUTS

Scrappy Hockey Encounter

A very scrappy hockey match was witnessed at King's Park yesterday afternoon when the Y.M.C.A. and a weak Argonaut team shared two goals after the Portuguese team had led at the interval by a goal to nil.

The Argonauts were without E. L. Gosano, their captain, who is away in Shanghai with the Colony Interporter cricket team, and L. Oliveira, their centre-half, who was participating in the University Swimming sports, while the Y.M.C.A. fielded two reserves in H. H. Mueller and C. Broch.

The game was very scrappy throughout and after the Portuguese had taken the lead in the first half through A. A. Alves, the home team equalised through S. A. Fowler.

HOCKEY DATE REVISED

The match between Police "A" and "Union" teams in the Inter-Section Hockey Tournament will be played off on the Y.M.C.A. ground, King's Park, on Thursday next instead of on Tuesday, when the ground is not available.

WANDA MORGAN WINS

Brilliant Play In Golf Final

Hayling Island, Yesterday. Miss Wanda Morgan, winner of the title in 1931, yesterday won the English Ladies' Golf Championship when she beat Miss Phyllis Wade, the 1934 winner, by 2 and 1 over 36 holes in the Final.

Miss Morgan played a brilliant game, her long driving and accurate putting on the greens resulting in a card of 70 for the morning round. Miss Wade, who was outdriven and outplayed, returned a card of 80 to be three down.

In the afternoon round, in spite of Miss Wade being two strokes ahead of her opponent at the ninth hole, where the scores read Miss Wade 39, Miss Morgan 41, the latter retained a lead of two holes.—Reuter.

WORLD SERIES BASEBALL

Yankees Beat Giants By Record Margin

45,000 SEE SECOND GAME

New York, Yesterday.

The New York Yankees beat the Giants by 18 runs to 4 in the second match in the World Baseball Series here yesterday, the scores being:

Yankees	18	17	0
Giants	4	6	1

Despite the fine, sunny weather the ground was not filled to capacity. There was, however, a crowd of 45,000 people present, including President Roosevelt, who threw the first ball.

Helped by Tony Lazzeri's home run in the third innings, when the bases were full, the Yankees trounced the Giants by 18 runs to 4, thus setting a new record in the World Series baseball matches for the number of runs scored in one game.

Lazzeri's feat had only been accomplished once before, in 1920.

The Giants tried five pitchers in a vain attempt to curtail the scoring, but Spree and Gomez were the only pitchers used by the Yankees.

Schumacker Fails

The Giants started with Hal Schumacker whose control proved to be bad. He was replaced by Al Smith in the third innings, when Dick Coffman was also tried. Frank Gabler was tried in the fifth and Harry Gumbert in the ninth, but Schumacker is credited with the loss of the game from the box.

The Yankees scored seven runs in the third innings and six in the ninth when Dickey homered with two men on bases. The Giants scored one run in the second, and three in the fourth, a single by Bill Terry sending in Jackson and Davis. Gomez, walking a man with bases full, scored Mancuso, Crossetti and Rolfe. After having scored in the first innings, the Yankees never lost their initial lead.—Reuter.

The result of the first game was:

GIN DRINKERS' BAY MANY WILD PARTIES IN DAYS OF YORE NOW DESOLATE PICNIC SPOT

(By A Special Correspondent)

GIN Drinkers' Bay, in itself a very intriguing name, is now a neglected and seldom-visited picnic spot though it was, in the early days, one of the most popular bathing beaches, and junk parties, every week-end, made a bee-line for that place. I use the term "junk party" because in those far off days, steam launches were things that were classed amongst the luxuries for the very well-to-do people only, and poor office workers had to be satisfied with hiring one of the fairly large-sized junks for their bathing parties.

It was from these parties, so I am informed, that the bay got its name, for visitors to the place used to throw empty bottles into the sea, and it was only when one of these discarded bottles was picked up that the label on it told the world in general what it had contained!

Be that as it may, however, the fact remains that the very name of Gin Drinkers' Bay used to hold out promises of very good times for those who visited the place, and it would be pertinent to ask here if the reason why it has lost so much of its popularity is because the place had been found out?

Quite apart from being a picnic spot, Gin Drinkers' Bay was at one time quite a busy little industrial centre. As far as I can gather from information given me, some mining concern had their concentration plant there as far back as 1898, as the Crown Lease of the property, for 75 years, was dated July 1, 1898. This mining concern used to bring their crude ore down from Kwangai and, after having been concentrated in the Gin Drinkers' Bay plant, the ore was exported. This went on till 1924, when the Texas Company (China) Ltd., bought the property, and from then until 1930, Gin Drinkers' Bay was the official go-down for the Texas Company who were then still importing fuel oil in cases, and as a result did not require any tanks for storage purposes.

Change in 1930.

In 1930, however, a change was made in the storage system, as oil was then imported in bulk and the Company moved its godowns from Gin Drinkers' Bay to Tsun Wan, where they have the most modern and up-to-date installation plant.

For the six years that Gin Drinkers' Bay had the official godown, however, a foreign godown superintendent had always been stationed there, and this necessitated the building of suitable quarters and offices, and though there was no means of communication between Hong Kong and the Bay, except by sea, a number of people paid visits to the godowns and on such occasions were received most hospitably by the Company's representative there.

I remember the one occasion on which I had the good fortune of spending a long week-end in Gin Drinkers' Bay, and though it was dreadfully hot in the city, we noticed a distinct change when we reached our destination. Fishing and swimming were the chief forms of pastime, but a tour of the village in Gin Drinkers' Bay proved most interesting, especially when we got into an old temple where lottery tickets were sold by the hundreds, with the assurance that, sold as they were in a temple, the tickets could not but bring good luck to the buyers. The fact that I am still in an office, toiling day after day represents my share of the good fortune that was to be had for the asking!

"Spear Fishing"

One particular form of pastime that was exciting as well as strenuous was "spear fishing." A

Picnic For The Blind

Offers of Cars have been received from Oscar May, Mr. A. W. Hayward, Anonymous No. 1 and "A".

party of about four or five would set out shortly before dawn and wade ankle deep in the water, carrying a spear (a long bamboo pole with a knife fastened on to one end) in one hand, and a flaming torch in the other, and if any unsuspecting fish should come near enough, an attempt would be made to stick it with the spear. It was good fun while it lasted, but the total catch, as a rule, was not worth the loss of sleep or energy expended. I mention this because, in my experience, this particular form of fishing is not practiced anywhere else in Hong Kong, except perhaps, by the native fishermen.

About a month ago, I paid a visit to Gin Drinkers' Bay, and while it had not changed very much, the very fact that the godowns are no longer there gives the place an air of desolation. When the tide is out, it is possible to wade about 100 yards out from the shore and I have seen a Chinese farmer take a flock of ducks out for a swim, and a very pretty picture these birds make too, about a hundred of them gliding in close formation over the water.

Its period of usefulness being over, insofar as the Texas Company is concerned, the Gin Drinkers' Bay property, comprising some 116,867 sq. feet of land and a few buildings, is now for sale.

Wise and Otherwise.

ECONOMY

"You've got your trousers on inside out."
"Yes—I'm saving the outside for best."

THE IMPOSSIBLE

"Don't you ever have a day off for your grandmother's funeral?" asked the first office boy.
Young George grimaced.
"Day off," he sniffed. "What a 'ope, with me working for the blooming Registrar of Births and Deaths!"

CONVENIENT

"Uncle, will you get into evening dress? Then I can throw my lantern slides on your shirt-front and you can be a talkie."

TEACHER'S FAULT

"Your teacher has written to say that he finds it impossible to teach you anything, Horace."
"There! I've always said he was no good."

TOUGH FAULT

A youngster fresh from school obtained a job in a butcher's shop. When it came to closing time, his employer told the lad that if he hung up the meat and locked the shop, he could go home.
The butcher returned to the shop next morning and found the lad still on the premises. He asked the reason for this.
"Oh," replied the lad, "I managed to hang up all the meat right until it came to the hamburger!"

RISKY

"The thing for you to do," said the doctor to the man with the frazzled nerves, "is to stop thinking about yourself—to bury your life in your work."
"Goah," returned the patient, "and me a concrete mixer."

HE'S RIGHT

Officer (to recruit who had missed the target every shot): "Good gracious, man, where are your shots going?"
Recruit (nervously): "I don't know, sir; they left this end all right."

TWO INCOMES NECESSARY

George: "Are you ready to live on my income, dear?"
Maud: "Certainly, dearest, if George: 'If what?'
Maud: "If you can get another one for yourself."

YOU TELL 'EM

Lecturer (in village hall): "Now you all know what a mole-cule is—"

Chairman (interrupting): "Most of us do, but perhaps you'd better explain for the benefit of those who have never been up in one."

BROAD HINT

Joan: "What do you think I should do if you tried to kiss me?"
John: "I have no idea."
Joan: "Aren't you inquisitive either?"

BAD NEWS

There had been a bad shipwreck, and one of the passengers, saved, and as it would seem, almost by a miracle, telegraphed to his brother: "I am saved. Try to break it to my wife."

LET'S HOPE SO

The daughter of the house was reading aloud from a book.
"Thomas means 'good,' I see," she said. "James means 'beloved.' She blushed somewhat. "I wonder what William means?"
"I sincerely trust, my dear, that 'William' means 'business,' put in her mother tartly.

THE LAST STRAW

Financier: "I dropped a cool twenty thousand to-day, and the worst of it is, ten dollars of it was my own money."

EXPERTS

Lady in car (to man she has knocked over): "It was your own fault entirely. I have been driving a car for ten years, and I am thoroughly experienced."
Pedestrian: "I am not a beginner, either. I've been walking for fifty years."

A BROAD HINT

She: "I'll fight for all I'm worth if you try to kiss me."
He: "Perhaps I'd better stop, then?"
"No; go on. I'm practically penniless."

FISHY

In a small New England seaport lay the good yacht Psyche. She had come from one of the southern yacht clubs and was taking in supplies. One of the older natives of the region was seen to return time after time to study the craft, and was also observed to shake his head.
Finally he could bear it no longer; he turned to a bystander, and in a disgusted voice said, "What a way to spoil fish!"

CANNY

Doctor: "Your recovery is largely due to your own powers of resistance."
Scott: "Then you won't be charging me your full fee?"

DISTURBANCE

"I put down a big disturbance last night."
"Plucky fellow! What was the trouble?"
"I ate three helpings of Welsh rabbit."

NAKAYAMA CASE VERDICTS

Two Men Sentenced To Death

JAPANESE PATROL CONTINUES IN HONGKEW

(From A Special Correspondent)

Canton, Yesterday.

Following the withdrawal of the barbed-wire barricades yesterday morning, the number of Japanese bluejackets patrolling in Hongkew increased again in the afternoon, since the First Special Court of Shanghai announced the verdict in the Nakayama murder case of November last. It is learned that Yang Men-tu and Yeh Hui-sen were sentenced to death and Chau Seh-weng was discharged.

Mr. Kuwajima, the Japanese Director of the East Asia Bureau of the Foreign Office, has left Japan for China to carry new instructions to Mr. Kawagoe with regard to Sino-Japanese relations. It is learned that Mr. Kuwajima will stay in China for some time to help the Japanese Ambassador to negotiate these problems with the Chinese Government.

A number of the Japanese women and children were seen on board a Japanese merchant ship returning to Japan from Shanghai. Fearing that troubles will arise, the Chinese in Greater Shanghai are still departing to the French Concession, though the Chinese police have done their best to advise them not to leave their homes.

ARMY APPOINTMENTS

General Ho Ying-ching has been appointed Director in charge of the Generalissimo's Whampoa Field Headquarters, and he will come to Canton to plan the national defence of South China. It is learned that General Pei Chung-hsi, the Chinese military brain, will be appointed Acting Minister of War after he has completed the reorganisation of the Kwangsi Army, which will be completed in the very near future.

The Nanking Government has taken over the Shek Tsang and Paklung arsenals of Kwangtung, and is now in control of all the arsenals of the country. It is learned that the Kwangtung arsenals will be reorganised and foreign engineers will be employed.

LONDON PRESS COMMENT

WAY TO PEACE IN FAR EAST

BRITISH CO-OPERATION WITH JAPAN?

London, Yesterday.

In a leading article on the Sino-Japanese tension the Morning Post points out that the Japanese demands are not in the form of an ultimatum, and says that the Japanese Government is doubtless willing to defer consideration of them. There is thus a hope that the present tension will not lead to future hostilities, but the disorder, of which the tension is a symptom, will remain until some remedy other than blood-letting is found.

The paper suggests that Britain could step in with advantage for peace and says that Japan lacks friends. Though she has no doubt made many mistakes there is ample evidence that she would, if not alone in the world, be willing to consider any proposal which would aid a peaceful settlement of the Far Eastern question.

In that way the Japanese interest lies for the restoration of China to be as helpful to her as to China. Working in friendly co-operation with Japan, Britain could help to rehabilitate China and so bring back peace and contentment to the Far East.—Reuter.

Slashing Attack On Roosevelt

UNFLATTERING DESCRIPTION OF FRANCE

New York, Yesterday. "Why should America, or rather the Roosevelt administration, rush to save the franc?" asks Mr. William Randolph Hearst, in the course of a slashing attack on the President in the Hearst press. He says: "The franc has gone to pot. Is President Roosevelt going to stabilise the rouble, which has also gone to pot?"

Describing France as the pet prize repudiationist of the world, Mr. Hearst denies America's right to lend her money, citing the Johnson Act, which does not permit loans to repudiationist countries, and renews his assertion that President Roosevelt is a Communist, surrounded by a Communist entourage.—Reuter.

CHANCE FOR DISARMAMENT BY PRECEPT AND PRACTICE

AIR FORCE FORMS MOST FORMIDABLE DETERRENT TO WAR

TERRIFIC RETALIATORY POWERS SHOULD GIVE AGGRESSORS CAUSE TO THINK

Margate, Yesterday.

Mr. Stanley Baldwin, the Prime Minister, has every expectation that by the time Parliament reassembles he will be fully able to cope with the heavy tasks then confronting him, declared Mr. Neville Chamberlain, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, addressing the Conservative Conference yesterday.

The Government intended proceeding with their rearmament plans whatever the opposition might say. No one could pretend that they had not given disarmament a fair chance, both by precept and practice, but since no one else followed our example but acted to the contrary, we should have failed in our duty if we had not taken steps to repair our deficiencies.

"When the rearmament programme is completed we shall once more have a Navy adequate to protect our vital lines of communication; an Army trifling in numbers compared with the vast conscript armies on the Continent, but equipped with the most modern weapons and mechanical devices; and an Air Force which in the speed, range and power of its machines and quality of its personnel will be second to none."

"The development of aviation had to some extent deprived us of our insular position, and the possibilities of what war might mean to our civilian population were very present in our minds; but let us not forget that those possibilities were even more present in the minds of other nations."

"I can imagine no more sobering thought to any ruler who might be contemplating aggression against a neighbour than the knowledge that within a few hours his action might be followed by retaliation from a force of such terrific striking power as our new Air Force possesses. I regard our Air Force as the most formidable deterrent to war that could be devised. I support its establishment with greater conviction and enthusiasm because everyone knows that it will never be used to make an unprovoked attack against any other country."

Mr. Chamberlain emphasised that the main purpose and desire of the Government was the preservation of peace. They coveted no one else's territory and had no wish to interfere in the internal affairs of any other nation. Indeed, the dangers of intervention could not be more forcibly illustrated than by the recent incidents in connection with the deplorable struggle in Spain. But for the courageous initiative of

M. Leon Blum, supported by the British Government, all Europe might have been drawn into opposing camps. Mr. Chamberlain welcomed the establishment of the international committee in London, to which Portugal now adhered, to supervise the agreed policy of non-intervention.

Regional Pacts

In the opinion of the Government the prospects of peace would be materially strengthened by the formation of regional pacts within the Covenant, under which the known storm centres could be made subject to mutual assurances by the nations vitally concerned. The Government intended to try to negotiate a pact respecting Western Europe.

Referring to Imperial matters Mr. Chamberlain said that whatever difficulties may have arisen over the interpretation of the Ottawa agreements they provided a new starting point for the exchange of respective viewpoints which had begun in a new consciousness of mutual sympathy. He could not remember any period when the harmony between the Dominion Governments and ourselves in all matters of common interest, foreign policy, defence and trade, had been so complete as during the four years since Ottawa.

RESOLUTION PASSED

The Conservative Congress at Margate passed a resolution urging the Government, in the interests of world peace, to reverse the policy under which Foreign Secretaries usurp the duties of trained Ambassadors. The mover of the resolution deprecated the Foreign Secretary's going abroad to deal with international subjects.

He emphasised that the resolution was no reflection on Mr. Anthony Eden, who was doing a herculean task.—Reuter.

The Franc And The Dollar

THE public's difficulty in understanding the financial conundrums which from time to time escape from the Bank Directors' rooms to make copy for cable-writers and editorial commentators is largely due to the fact that economists are so apt to deal in figures, and as soon as the general reader sees a page sprinkled with numerals and the words "pound," "dollar" or "franc" he turns to the sporting page or some other column in which he is directly conscious of having more personal interest. What connection, he will say, can the devaluation of the franc have with the business of a man who uses a currency more or less loosely connected with silver? There is also a great temptation to say that if nobody can prophesy the changes in the value of our money all the books written by the standard economists must have been sheer "bunk."

To the first question the answer is that all the nationalism in trade and finance has been quite unable to prevent every financial change in any one country affecting all the rest, and that this must be so until the amateur financiers succeed in completely killing selling and buying to and from the people of other countries, and that as they have not been able to do this after six years of desperate endeavour they will never be able to do it—in fact, the tendency is for everybody to discover the folly of the whole struggle, and for policy gradually to begin to conform to the renaissance of common sense. And no port in the world stands to gain more from a recovery of trade than Hong Kong. In this our outlook is quite international. Our interest is that the dealer in money shall retire to the back of the stage and the dealer in goods take the footlights.

The older economists did not write nonsense, but they wrote for a different set of circumstances. Finance was then the handmaid of trade, and had the function of making bargains easy. "Seasonal" variations could not be avoided, but their rugged edges could be smoothed off in half a dozen different ways, and as they came at the same period of each year they could be allowed for by the parties to a contract. What is it then that makes the difference? We are all heartily sick of the mention of war debts and reparations. We know that they led to wholesale repudiation that destroyed the old idea that a debt was a definite sum of money that had to be paid. Their worst effect was not that they had to be repudiated, but that they had destroyed the confidence of investors at the same time that vast sums made by profiteers within each country had accumulated without the usual outlet of industrial investment for the production of goods. The owners of this unattached money were continually anxious about its safekeeping, and shifted it about from one country to another in quantities that were too big for the machinery of commercial exchange to deal with. The general motive was to put it where the owner could have the option of calling for a refund in gold. There never was enough gold to satisfy such demands, and the Governments protected their stock by "devaluation," which means that when the owners of the money presented their cheques they were paid off with less gold than they had expected.

This vagrant money has been much diminished in its wanderings, but is still plentiful enough to do a lot of mischief unless the problem is tackled by clear heads. The trouble is the traditional worship of gold for its own sake. It is really just a commodity like any other, but specially valuable because it will not decay and will always fetch a price. The old gold standard system only worked because people were content to read that their five pound note would buy five sovereigns at the Bank. They never took the trouble to go for the sovereigns; it was more convenient to draw a cheque. What the Governments want is a "shock absorber" in the form of a Central Bank, with authority to issue notes at option, and to buy gold or sell it when it suits the Bank's convenience. By forbidding the export of gold both the United States and France demobilised their reserves at one stroke. In both cases there were enormous losses of foreign trade, not compensated in any way by big stocks of gold. 1929 and 1930 were the worst years of depression. England began to recover two years before any other country. Measured by quantities and not by cash prices, English trade was only 75 per cent. of the year before the crash. Last year it was 95 per cent. At present the quantities are back to the old figures.

MR. TOSHIYUKI KATSUNUMA

OUR personality this week is Mr. Toshiyuki Katsunuma, manager of the Osaka Shosen Kaisha. Born in Miyazu Kyotofu, Japan, Mr. Katsunuma received his early education there, before going to Osaka and later to Doshisha University, Kyoto, where he studied political economy. After graduation he entered the service of the O.S.K., being employed first in the Osaka Head Office. Later he served the company in Kobe and Yokohama. In 1919, however, he was sent to New York, where he remained until the following year. After that he spent 2½ years in Buenos Aires, returning again to the Head Office and later seeing service in Dairen, Shanghai and Singapore, spending two years at each place. From Singapore he went back to the Head Office for another period. Next he was transferred to Manila, and from there he came to Hong Kong, arriving last February. Mr. Katsunuma being a shipping man and a student of political economy, it was interesting to hear his opinion as to whether there were better times ahead for the Colony.

Mr. Katsunuma thought that the reason for the present-day depression is that Hong Kong has ceased to be a trans-shipping port, which is due to the fact that the shipping companies have established direct lines to practically all parts of the world. On the other hand, he feels that as soon as China's unification is completed and constructive work can be started on a large scale, especially the construction of railways, Hong Kong may look forward to a prosperous future. Railways will make it possible to reach consumers in the remotest parts of China, and naturally Hong Kong must benefit from such increased activity.

Mr. Katsunuma likes sport, but, as he says, only to help him keep fit. He plays tennis and swims, but finds his chief pleasure in golf.

Five Years Ago

(Extracts from the Sunday Herald of October 4, 1931.)

The 25th Anniversary of St. Andrew's Church was celebrated yesterday, the Church having been consecrated in 1906 by the Venerable Archbishop Banister. The preacher at the morning service was the Rev. A. D. Stewart, M.A. and in the evening the Rev. E. A. Armstrong, B.A.

High scoring was the feature of the official opening of League Football yesterday. The Club ran riot and netted eleven times against St. Joseph's three. Of the Club's total, Howe, a newcomer, scored eight, while Leonard scored the three for St. Joseph's, who were leading by the odd goal in five at the interval.

Miss Young Sau-king won the harbour race held under the auspices of the South China Athletic Association yesterday. Miss Yuen Pui-han and Miss Young sau-king were second and third respectively.

THE PASSING HOUR

BY A.N.M.

THE great race is over, and everybody will congratulate Scott and his partner on their victory, which is far from being a mere test of their machines. The conditions, which were devised by experts—excluding all time allowance for rest or refuelling—were genuinely sporting in setting up a trial of endurance that was not beyond the power of a very fit man, but should only be survived by a man that was absolutely fit. In the routine work of commercial flying the task would be divided amongst a relay of at least four pilots, and they would not have the nervous strain of the contest. There can be no doubt that the crashing of Captain Halse in making a landing for fuel must have been due to nervous exhaustion. Ninety-nine times out of a hundred he would make that landing without any trouble. South Africans would have liked to see one of their own men win, but that did not in any way chill the warmth of the acclamations with which they greeted the victor.

CAPTAIN HALSE

THE runner-up, who was within a few hours of his goal, is a genuine South African of the third generation. Only the most bitter racialisists of "the old population" deny the title to Englishmen born in the country, whose fathers were also born in the country. His grandfather was one of the hardy pioneers who had to defend their stock if not their lives against raiding natives on the Eastern border—in fact, his farm, many square miles in extent, was right on the boundary. There is now a railway handy, and a station called "Halseton." His father was a typically smart Inspector in the Cape Police, of the type familiar to us in the Canadian films dealing with the North West Mounted Police, the "Mounties." The winner, of course, needs no introduction. He has only added another laurel to his record flight to Australia. Evidently long-distance flying is another sport in which experience tells. No wonder in face of the competition of the plane that the voyage of the mail ships has been shortened to 14 days. For a number of years it has been 16, though several of the big new motor-vessels of the Union Castle line could have done it in less. Thirty years ago it was 18 days, but many of the transports in the Boer war, taking out men who were urgently needed, took over 30 days, some as many as 36.

THE PORTS OF CALL

TO anyone who can recall the days of the ox-wagon, the record of the stoppages of the winning fliers reads like a marvel. The ox was as particular as any French artisan about his eight-hour day and 40-hour week, and the earliest hop of all, from Salisbury to Johannesburg, took Jameson's Pioneers four months. In the early days when a prospector had a chance of finding a new outcrop on the reef of which Johannesburg was the centre it was a recognised six-months' trip to take up a load of goods from the coast and return. The delightful life can be recovered by readers of Sir Percy Fitzpatrick's "Jock of the Bushveld"—but there were no time records. Strangely enough the ox was so obliging in finding his own grazing and freights on the railways were so high, that for a long time the wagon could hold its own. When Halse was landing at Salisbury he must have felt he was practically home. But I myself remember well the first train setting out from that distant terminus in Cape Town. The Railway Administration stood free drinks to all comers on the platform.

THE NORTHERN DROMES

BUT the list of names of aerodromes further north suggests a far greater conquest of nature. Khartoum is the most famous, reminding one of the struggles with sand and the rapidity of the Nile in Sir Garnet Wolsey's weary march, when he arrived just a day too late to save Gordon, now commemorated by a large Native College. Thence to Entebbe, at the North corner of Lake Victoria Nyanza, where the first Christian Mission produced an sanguinary war between Catholic and Protestant converts. Uganda is now one of the most progressive and prosperous territories, and all in peace. The land journey of that hop can hardly yet be said to have been adapted to civilised humanity. It is a region of vast swamps and Nile floods, and shifting sand. Then Kisumu, a few miles from where Stanley said "Dr. Livingstone, I presume"—now terminus of the railway built by the Germans to Dar-es-Salaam on the East Coast. The thought of touching at all these places in one day makes an "old-timer" gasp. Is it as much fun as the trekking used to be?

OUR MEDICAL SCHOOL

DR. RIDE, in his very interesting lecture at the university on Thursday, might have taken as his text "Let us now praise famous men." One has to read books written in England to appreciate all that the world owes to Sir Patrick Manson, whose clue as to the little animal host of the malaria microbe was the key that unlocked so many doors of research. London has a "Manson House," and he is a patron saint of the School of Tropical Medicine. Is it not a disgrace that in Hong Kong there is not even a tablet to his memory, while the cause of research which was his inspiration as no endowment at all? Even the Alice Memorial Hospital, where his classes were first held, shows on its hoarding how slowly the painted line creeps along towards the goal of paying for the new building. Next year will be the golden jubilee of the Medical School, and it is all the more urgent that something should be done when one realises that retrenchment is going to hit the School very hard. And even the Boxer Indemnity Fund, in making grants to worthy objects, almost forgets Hong Kong. Maintenance of such a tradition is worth a big struggle.

ARE WE A COMMUNITY?

WHO is going to take hold of us and shake us out of our little ruts into a genuine community? The medical profession is not the only section where we find that the strength of a good team is wasted by not pulling all together. There are not too many lovers of music here, but there are enough to get far better results. One knows by sight all the people that one will see in the audience at the Helena May. On Wednesday an excellent performance of typical sacred music of the last three centuries, chosen with delicate scholarship, was given at St. Teresa's Church. Looking round I failed to see any of the familiar faces. The ferry is evidently broad enough to divide musicians into separate camps. Moreover, Father A. Riganti's playing of some of his own compositions revealed that we have in our midst a very talented composer. How many of us know that?

TO-DAY'S QUOTATION

"The secret of moral advance is to transform interest in oneself into interest in the Kingdom of God."
—CANNON B. H. STREETER.

We Are Going High Hat

Autumn and Winter hats have made their debut at Mayo's . . . and the customer is intrigued by their originality and brilliance. And the richness of the materials adds a note of high glamour. Plush, velours, soleils, velvet, and, best of all, soft easy-to-manipulate felt are Mayo's choice. Felts in loops, knots and bows, multi-coloured feathers, single or en masse, pairs of wings, ostrich tips and plumes and cockades invite extra interest. There may be a brilliant yellow humming-bird, a long, serpentine feather going straight over the crown, two perky black and white lacquered quills, or velvet ribbon in short strips, bunched in a solid mass to look like a pom-pom. And don't forget some butterflies, beetles and little animals and quaint figures.

And whether they're dunce, cone with pointed or inverted peak, the coachman type or the witch's they are high. The trim is toward the front and carries an air of going up and up — real "Fly-away Hats."

Mayo's favour berets too and off-face hats with rolled up brims, severe jutting-straight-up brims, some slit in front with felt folding over. With their youthful lines, feminine charm and picturesque touch they provide a novel and interesting hat treatment so harmonious with present-day clothes. And too, they suggest great variety. There is a black widow's bonnet with its white band and black chin strap, a taira brim bonnet and the off-the-face beret type with its embroidery band to hold it to the head.

And what's so grand about Mayo's is that whatever you fancy and can't get, they can make up for you — and to perfection!

FASHION FOIBLES

UNTIL the Renaissance, European brides wore red or scarlet. Anne of Brittany, the bride of Louis XII of France, started the custom of wearing white satin. Formerly, white was worn for mourning. In Austria to-day, peasant brides wear black.

THE victory of the French frigate La Belle Poule over the English ship Arethusa in 1778 started the vogue for a headdress where the hair was arranged in waves, on top of which was a frigate in full sail, with masts, yards, guns and tiny sailors. This headdress was flashed on the screen in the moving picture, "The Tale of Two Cities."

LITTLE TRICKS

IN the reign of hale and much-marrying King Henry VIII of England (1509-1547), it was the custom for men to stuff their clothes with padding so that the monarch's fatness would not be so conspicuous. And King Henry's daughter, Queen Elizabeth, favoured high ruffs because she wanted to cover up her long, thin neck.

A TABLECLOTH will last twice as long if, as soon as there is the slightest sign of wear, four inches are cut off one side and one end, and all hemmed again. This will bring the fold in a new place, as it is in the folds that a cloth wears first.

TAN shoes that are badly soiled and spotted should be put on shoe-trees and washed with flannel squeezed out of strong soap-suds. Absorb as much moisture as possible by pressing with soft rag. Leave to dry. While still damp, rub in a little castor oil, and, when thoroughly dry, polish as usual.

WHEN following directions from a cookery-book, lay a piece of clean glass across the recipe; this serves the double purpose of keeping the pages open and clean.

TO shell walnuts without breaking the kernels, place them in a dish and cover with boiling water. Then cover the dish and stand for half an hour.

TO drive moths from boxes and drawers, scatter cloves among them.

TO clean coloured blinds, rub the faded parts over lightly with linseed oil.

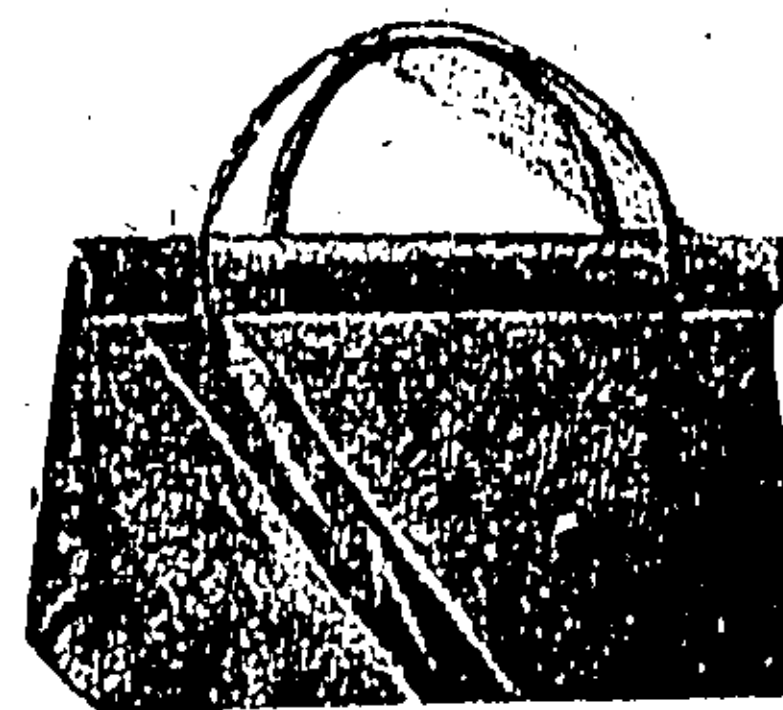

Little Tricks Of Feminine Vanity

DID you know that not so long ago all the little tricks of feminine vanity were looked upon as so much witchcraft? And now? Vanity cases. Hundreds and thousands of them. Flashing, glinting, gleaming, scattering powder to the four winds; clicking, snapping, outlining firm lips, deepening gray eyes . . . everywhere . . . everywhere . . . no end! And that's just as it should be! Vanity means sanity!

Vanity cases? Where to find the smartest, most intriguing compacts in our little city? At Henry and Co. — their's are the very newest of fashion's foibles. Compact and cigarette case in one; together with cigarette case and lighter, rouge and lipstick. Compacts in petit point. Cigarette cases with tiny watches attached that stand up and tell you the time when you command. Real winners! And lots to choose from — sheer metal, plain colours or designs that make us feel the times we live in.

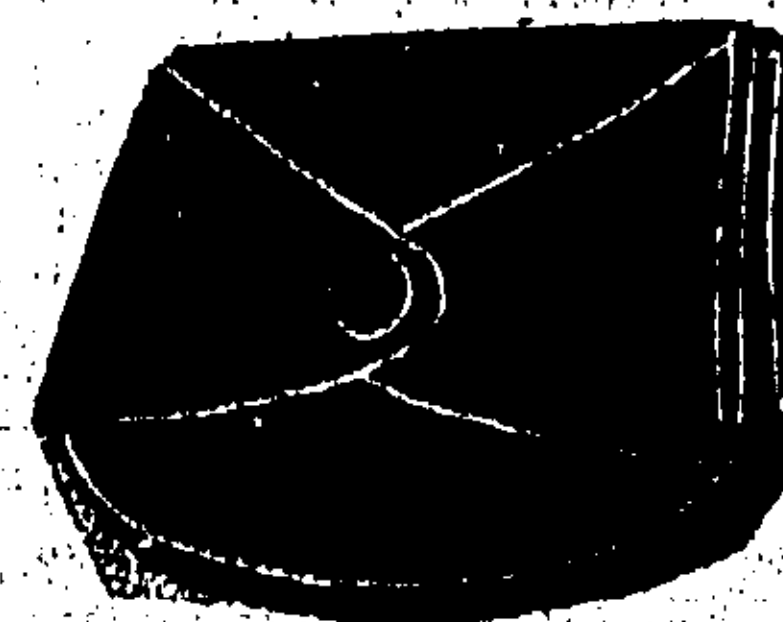

As for jewels . . . like flowers. Have you ever heard it said: If you can't wear the real thing, don't wear anything? — As far as jewellery goes, that is. Well Henry and Co. have the real things: what originality, glister and glow! There are the new earrings that venture high up the ears, the metal embroidery, the clustered brooch that can be undone and used as a pair of clips. There are hosts of bracelets, rings, pendants of all shapes, colours, and sizes. Handbags: satchel-like in supple calf or suede with the new squared-off bottom; or cobbler-stitched calfskin of ample size; the pouch bag, or the suede with double pockets that can be carried blithely by sturdy twin handles. Gold and silver evening bags; bead bags of the grandest shades.

To tell it all shortly. Some talk of the mirror trick: just sit before your mirror and smile back at yourself and you'll feel better. It's sure to work with you. But here's a better one: just visit Henry and Co. and you'll come out feeling stimulated, gay . . . hanging on to your vanity!

Hollywood Comes To Hong Kong...

"The screen is fashion's show window"—the words of one of Hollywood's outstanding designers. No doubt about it. Each star plays her part and is an exponent of style. And do you know that right here in Hong Kong you can get the stars' latest creations? You can have the very frock you gazed upon with longing when the shadowed form of your favourite star moved through her part. Where? At Vogue.

As soon as a film is released Vogue received pictures of the star's gowns and samples of the materials of which they are made. And they make their selection. Certainly it is a choice that could not be surpassed to-day. Present-day audiences are too fashion-conscious to permit of any but the most perfect dressing for their favourites. And so, indirectly, they ensure you the most modish designs in the latest, most luxurious fabrics — from Vogue. The world's greatest designers have let loose their genius for creation on the stars' gowns — and so too on those you may select from Vogue. And always they are wonderfully sensitive to the actual fashion trends; each is as beautifully worked out in detail as if it were to be worn by the world's most elegant woman in the smartest metropolitan setting.

Whether you favour Kay Francis, first lady of fashion; or Joan Crawford, her close rival, or the regal Garbo, or the chic Chatterton... Vogue will be able to satisfy you. And how they do it I don't know, but their prices are about the lowest in town. They are getting new shipments all the time — and, incidentally, now that the stars' waistlines are mounting, Vogue's are too.

A Footnote. You can have the most enchanting footwear too! Not only Vogue's gowns but also their shoes are of Hollywood design.

LINER QUEEN MARY
INFLUENCE ON FASHION

HAND BAGS, buttonholes, hats, and frocks have gone "to sea" in London. The giant Liner Queen Mary is responsible.

It is now fashionable to own a liner-handbag. The most popular are shaped and coloured to resemble the Queen Mary herself.

The bottom is black leather; the top quarter is white leather with holes punched to resemble portholes. The clasp is three red funnels. From the centre funnel to the front of the bag is a silver chain bearing a miniature anchor.

Sailor Hats

In keeping with these bags are the new round sailor hats.

These are like American sailor caps, and are worn in wool-and-silk mixtures of all colours, as well as in white pique. The little hats are exceptionally becoming and are splendid for motor-ing, as it is impossible for them to blow away.

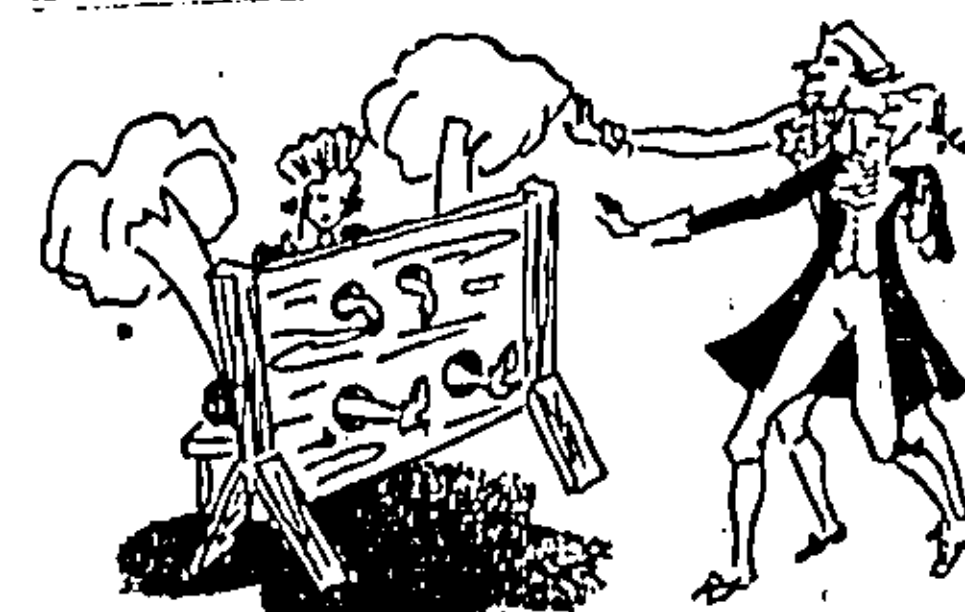

Frocks show the same trend. Heavy white silk or pique sailor-girl dresses with square collars are being displayed for tennis wear; while Queen Mary blue, a soft bluey-green seawater colour, is a new favourite for organdie blouses.

For travelling, there are new silk-covered rubber-lined zip-fastened toilet bags, decorated with a gay design of seagulls, anchors, and miniature liners.

NEW ARRANGEMENT OF BEDS CREATES NOVEL INTERIOR

MANY smart decorators are gaining a new effect in bedrooms, and at the same time economising, by placing twin beds together with lamp tables at either side, instead of apart with a table between. Such a placement gives a room an entirely new aspect and saves on bedspreads, as only one large one to cover both beds is necessary.

FASHION
FOIBLES

WHEN New Jersey was a British colony, a law was passed that: "All women of whatever age, rank, profession or degree, whether virgins, maids or widows, who shall after this act impose upon, seduce or betray into matrimony any of His Majesty's subjects, by virtue of accents, washes, paints, artificial teeth, false hair or high heel shoes, shall incur the penalty of the law now in force against witchcraft and like misdemeanors."

Preserves In A New Way

LEMON MARMALADE

TAKE 12 lemons (3lb. in weight), 7½ pints water, allow 1lb. sugar to 1lb. pulp.

Wipe lemons and cut them in quarters. Take out the pips and put them into a basin with one pint of the water and leave to soak for a few hours. Slice the lemon quarters very thinly. Put them into a preserving pan with the remainder of the water. Add also the strained water from the pips. Let this stand for twenty-four hours. Then boil it gently for about one to one and a half hours until the rinds are tender. Leave it to stand until the next day, then weigh it and add the sugar in proportion. Bring to boil and boil for about one hour, or until it will jelly.

LEMON JAM

TAKE 7 lemons, 6lb. sugar, 13 cupsful water.

Wipe the lemons well and cut in thin slices, put fruit in preserving pan with the water, and boil for two hours until tender. Add sugar, boil two hours longer. Half an hour before taking up, add the juice of two more lemons. Test a little on a saucer before putting into jars.

GRAPEFRUIT MARMALADE

GRAPEFRUIT as required, to each pound allow 1½ pints water and 1½lb. sugar.

Wipe and weigh the grapefruit and put into a preserving pan with the water. Cover with plates so as to keep them under water. Bring to the boil and boil gently for about one and a quarter to one and a half hours, until the rinds are tender. Leave until next day. Unless using an enamel-lined pan, it is advisable to turn the fruit and water into a basin when cool, as, if left in an aluminium pan for any length of time, it will discolour. Take out the fruit and drain it, then cut into quarters and scrape out the pulp and soft pith. Rub this through a sieve — it will nearly all rub through, with the exception of the pips. Measure the water in which the fruit was boiled, and if it has reduced to less than half, make up to half with water. Return it to the pan with the pulp and sugar, also the peel sliced thinly. Boil the pips in just a little water for about half an hour, then strain and add. Cook slowly until the sugar has dissolved, then bring to the boil and boil until it will jelly when cold, keeping it stirred and skimmed as required. It will probably take about one and a half hours.

EGGS covered with boiling water and left to stand for five or six minutes will be far more nourishing and more easily digested than those placed in water and allowed to boil for three minutes. This is a good hint for invalid cooking.

TO clean a clock, put a piece of cloth which has been soaked in paraffin oil in the bottom of the clock. The fumes will go up and clean away all dust and dirt, and the clock will work well.

TO remove red ink stains from linen, spread freshly-made mustard over the stain, and leave for about half an hour. The stain will disappear after sponging the spot.

TO fry onions quickly, place whole onions (peeled) in cold water, bring to boil and boil three minutes. Strain, slice, and fry as usual. They quickly turn golden brown, and there is no fear of burning.

HOW "COLD FEET" CAN BE CAUSED BY NERVES

COLD feet offer a problem of perennial interest, for, each winter, the attention of innumerable sufferers is drawn acutely to this form of discomfort. It is generally stated that cold feet are an indication of poor circulation. This is true enough; but poor circulation can depend on many causes, and the point of interest lies in determining the particular cause in the specific case in order to find a method of relieving it.

"There is an ailment in which coldness of the feet is induced by nerve action, so that the coldness recurs and even persists to a degree sufficient to cause real misery," says Julian W. Brandeis in Hygiene. "In neurasthenia and hysteria the action of the nerves, in general, has become topsy-turvy without any definite organic change occurring in them. Among other consequences of this disturbance is a perverted activity of the vasomotor nerves, producing a distressing state of cold extremities. To add to the difficulty, neurasthenic and hysterical persons occasionally suffer from the mere sensation of coldness independent of any real reduction in temperature."

One Illustration

Popular expressions are often a reflection of scientific truths. A good illustration is found in the "cold feet" of the scared gambler, for marked variations in the flow of blood to the feet are induced undoubtedly by such emotions as fright and anger. Indeed, the ghost's remark to Hamlet, "I could a tale unfold whose lightest word would . . . freeze thy young blood," must be interpreted as referring metaphorically to this phenomenon.

Cold feet of this type, Mr. Brandeis explains, result from a sudden narrowing of the arteries through stimulation of the nerves controlling them. There is a group of nerves, styled vasomotor, whose function it is to alter the calibre of the arteries according to the blood requirement of any organ at a particular moment.

Short Circuit

For example, during mealtime an impulse radiates from the nerve centre which dilates the vessels that supply the digestive organs, while other impulses diminish the supply to other parts of the body.

The circulation of blood through the body is accomplished by means of the projectile force of the heart acting as a pump, with the assistance of the arterial system of blood vessels acting as a resilient tubing to transmit the blood.

The feet, situated farthest from the heart, are placed in the poorest tactical position of all the members of the body in respect to the availability of blood supply.

The lovable sweet perfume; how securely it continues to hold its pre-eminence in the fashionable world!

It is the one perfume of which you will never tire, charming at all times and especially perfect for the informal occasion.

Mainly about WOMEN

Warring Against Shorts

HONG KONG Summer—and our Sunday morning peace of mind disrupted by an invasion of female hikers clad in shorts. But people grow lenient; there is little warring against them here, except perhaps on the ground of "too much anatomy and not enough common sense."

In America, on the other hand, there is a growing echo in Summer communities in various States to New York's protestations against shorts in the streets. There is still some confusion as to whether the issue is moral or aesthetic. But the greatest stress seems to be on the aesthetic side of the controversy. The vulgarity of "too fleshy bodies," not well covered, is the disturbing factor. Shorts, incidentally, can be bought up to size 52, which will accommodate a hip circumference of fifty-six inches. Mrs. Mildred Richardson Kelly attempted to rescue her sex with the suggestion that the Common Council to appoint a committee to include a physician with a knowledge of reducing, and a sociologist, to cope constructively with the situation. But no action was taken.

Authorities who wage the battle for covered legs are discovering what Thomas Carlyle's learned German professor, Herr Diogenes Teufelsdröckh, knew long ago, that "in all speculations they have tacitly figured man as a clothed animal; whereas he is by nature a naked animal." They have also to cope with the spirit, still alive, that Amelia Bloomer, pioneer feminist, showed when about 1850 she introduced in New York City the garment that bears her name.

Sun suits, silk or cotton outfits consisting of a detached halter and matching shorts, were viewed with alarm when they first appeared on the streets of Rye, New York. The local authorities thumbed through the local lawbooks and found a statute making appearance in lingerie in public subject to disciplinary action. They promptly classified sun suits as lingerie. Shorts are allowed on the beaches of Rye and in the privacy of a resident's backyard, but not on the streets.

Burgess Samuel A. Boyd, who backed an ordinance in Forty Fort, against abbreviated clothes, in public places, said he was not a "bewhiskered grandpop," but that in the full faculty of his senses, at the prime of life, he objected to pedestrians and residents who showed "too much anatomy and not enough common sense." What he termed "sanely stylish" costumes are appreciated in Forty Fort, but the shortest of shorts constitute indecent exposure.

Atlantic City has taken a unique attitude on the shorts question. There is no objection to bare legs on the streets of the city. Women may stroll about exposed from the thighs down without fear of fine or imprisonment. But men must keep watch over their own costumes. Those who wish to avoid penalties must wear bathing suit tops or jackets the moment they step off the beaches.

Shorts fell into temporary disfavour in 1932 when Bunny Austin, tennis ace, wore them at the Wimbledon match before the King and Queen of England. He was given to understand that Their Majesties objected. Miss Helen Jacobs brought them into the limelight for women's sports when she wore them for the first time at the national matches at Forest Hills in 1933.

Women ice-skating champions are also adopting shorts for speed competitions. Flaring skirts are still preferred for fancy skating. In December, 1933, Miss Maribel Vinson wore black velvet shorts and a matching jacket at an exhibition in London and created a furor. Three months later Mrs. Sue Davis King wore the same sort of costume at a national exhibition in Philadelphia, and also caused a sensation. Women wear shorts for the five-week Summer skating on the artificial ice at Lake Placid.

Health

The well-being of her children, and of every member of her family, is what every thinking woman holds most precious. It must never be left to chance. No other consideration will weigh with her like the certainty of good health.

It is for this reason that 'Ovaltine' is the established food beverage in the majority of homes throughout the world. Experience has proven that 'Ovaltine' is unequalled as the daily beverage for maintaining vigorous health, and as a "night-cap" for ensuring sound, natural sleep. Moreover, it is the food beverage most widely recommended by doctors everywhere.

'Ovaltine' is, in itself, a complete and perfect food, scientifically prepared by exclusive processes. It contains every nutritive element required for building up body, brain, and nerves, and it provides this nourishment in the most easily digestible and assimilable form.

Avoid haphazard mixtures of cocoa and chocolate which claim to be "just as good." There is nothing just as good as 'Ovaltine.'

About TOWN

THE Air Race, open to all competitors provided they are citizens of the British Empire, from Portsmouth to Johannesburg, was a magnificent bit of publicity characteristic both of the originator, Mr. I. Schlesinger, and of the city where he lives. He offered £15,000 for prizes, and the arrangements have been designed and effected so as to bring in the utmost element of sport and help on what is one of his hobbies, the object of making South Africa "air-minded." He arrived in South Africa thirty years ago as an immigrant from New York without much more than the proverbial half crown in his pocket which is supposed to be the first qualification for making a millionaire fortune. South African finance was then in a rather peculiar position. The occupation of most of the population was agriculture or to a still larger extent pastoral production of wool and mohair, neither of which industries offered much opening to a born speculator. Younger but more promising were the Diamond fields and the new goldfields. The banks had plenty of unused capital, but to place it all in those securities would have amounted to rather one-sided speculation. It was Mr. Schlesinger that saw the opportunity of expanding the area of investment by using the banks' money for them. His insurance company, the "African Life" is now a big affair. He pooled the cinemas — locally called bioscopes — he grew pine-apples for export and he financed "secondary industries" to supply the mines with essential equipment. He is, in fact the only man who has made really big money without being a mining magnate. During the post-war years there have been ups and downs, especially when wool became unsaleable at cost price in the slump of 1924 and he bought up practically the year's output. Recovery was slower than was expected, and bank dues were very heavy. In fact there were murmurs that Schlesinger received more consideration from the banks than anyone else could get. But the fact was that the banks had no option. If your account with a bank is big enough, it becomes a partner in your business and cannot afford to quarrel with you. Since the boom came all has been sunshine and champagne.

Johannesburg

WHAT Schlesinger did was to introduce American finance to a new sphere, and as the basis of the country's industry was sound, gold being more and more sought after by the rest of the world, the big risk has been abundantly rewarded. The present trouble is that as South African sterling is a separate currency kept at par with English sterling, the South African balances in London have grown unconscionably large, and any attempt to transfer them to South Africa would produce a premium which is not wanted. Aviation was exactly suited to the ambitions of the South African youth, who, being accustomed to ride or drive even short distances, had a great prejudice against enlisting for "the foot-sloggers" as they called the infantry regiments, during the Great War. There was never any lack of recruits for the Air Force—one batch, on a single transport, numbered 400, and included one or two who became famous aces. But after the war there was a reaction. These young men are very practical, and they complained that the pay in the Air Force was too small and the training left you in a dead end. This was true enough at the time when the only planes were a few machines discarded by the English R.A.F. and presented to the Union Government. It is not so true today, when "African Airways" aspires to take over, by agreement with Imperial Airways, all the flying south of the Equator, at least down the east side of the continent.

Opportunity Lost

THE Japanese World Olympic women swimmers who gave an exhibition in the European Y.M.C.A. swimming pool last Friday week, regretfully stated that they would have attempted to break some of the existing world records in yards as there are no pools in Japan where such attempts could be made. Miss H. Maehata, the World and Olympic breast-stroke champion, said that had she been notified earlier, she might have prepared herself for an attempt.

Aquatic Treat Next Tuesday

THE outstanding event in this coming week's sports diary is the probable exhibition swim by the Japanese Men's World Olympic swimming team in the European Y.M.C.A. swimming pool next Tuesday afternoon.

"International Aquatic Night"

THE first "International Swimming Night" in the winter swimming programme of the European Y.M.C.A. will probably be held towards the end of this month, when it is hoped to stage a series of Inter-Club and individual events. Special facilities for training will be given intending participants.

Pile's Unique Record

THE PILE, the Police footballer, who won the snooker championship of the Prison Officers' Mess recently, is favourite for the billiards title. He has reached the semi-final round. It is a curious coincidence that Pile has won the billiards title every alternate year since 1927.

Very Promising Swimmer

DAVID MORRIS, a Central British School boy, who won the Open to the Colony (Schools) race at the Army Schools Aquatic Sports last week, has the makings of an excellent swimmer and would be well-advised to take to this form of sport seriously. He would be even better if he could arrange to have a few lessons from some of our more experienced swimmers.

Novice Jockey Goes Home

THROUGH the departure for home by the m.v. Scharnhorst last week of Mr. H. S. V. Mossop, the Jockey Club has lost one of its novice jockeys. He was a very enthusiastic rider, but had to stop riding for a while last year due to serious accident on the Valley track.

Victor Turns Coach

G. F. VICTOR, who played for St. Joseph's senior football team for several seasons and who was seen on the right-wing last year in the absence of Lee, has decided to give the youngsters the benefit of his experience and this season will be playing among them. He hopes to be able to get together a good team after a few games.

By Judge the

Bad Luck On Ismail

S. A. ISMAIL, who has been a member of the Indian Recreation Club senior cricket team since 1920, will not be able to play regularly this season owing to business pressure. For the earlier part of the season he will be away from the Colony, and even after his return it is doubtful if he will be able to manage every Saturday afternoon.

I.R.C. Eleven Weakened

FUNISHING up last season in the runners-up position in the First Division of the Cricket League, the Indian Recreation Club will find it hard to field as strong a team again this time. In addition to S. A. Ismail's inability to play regularly, they will be without the services of M. el Arculli and A. R. Abbas, the two "babies" of last season's side, as they have decided not to take part this winter.

Iron Box Back In Ring

IRON BOX, the former lightweight boxing champion of the Orient, and holder of every title from bantamweight to middleweight in the Philippines at one time or another, is back in the ring again, but this time only as an instructor. He has started a school and already has a fair number of pupils.

C. B. A. Ladies' Captain

MISS N. WHITLEY, who was elected captain of the Central British Ladies' Hockey Section at their recent annual meeting, declined the post, and Miss Iris Woolley, the Interporter, has now accepted the position.

Indian Tennis Revival?

MR. A. WHITE, who has taken over the Headmastership of the Ellis Kadoorie Indian School at Sookunpoo, is giving the boys all the encouragement they want as regards taking more interest in sport. Mr. White himself is a very keen tennis player and it is hoped that this form of sport will be revived in the School which, amongst many others, has turned out players like H.D. Rumbhahn, A. H. Madar and A. R. Minu.

Sports Chatter

Police Hard Hit

THE decision of Stevens not to play soccer this season is a hard blow to the Police soccer team. His absence last week against the Club was very much felt and resulted in several positional changes in the forward line.

Alexander's Successor

NOW that C. F. Alexander has gone home, it has fallen on Laughlin to undertake the duties of Police cricket representative. Being himself a good and keen cricketer, he is well suited for the post.

Praise Is Earned

LO WAI MAN and Wong Shik-ling are to be congratulated on the work they did to enable the Chinese Athletic Association to raise a team in the Senior Division after the majority of their players had joined the Kowloon Chinese. Though the present team is not as strong as last year's, it has great possibilities and all footballers will wish them good luck.

Young Ismail In Training

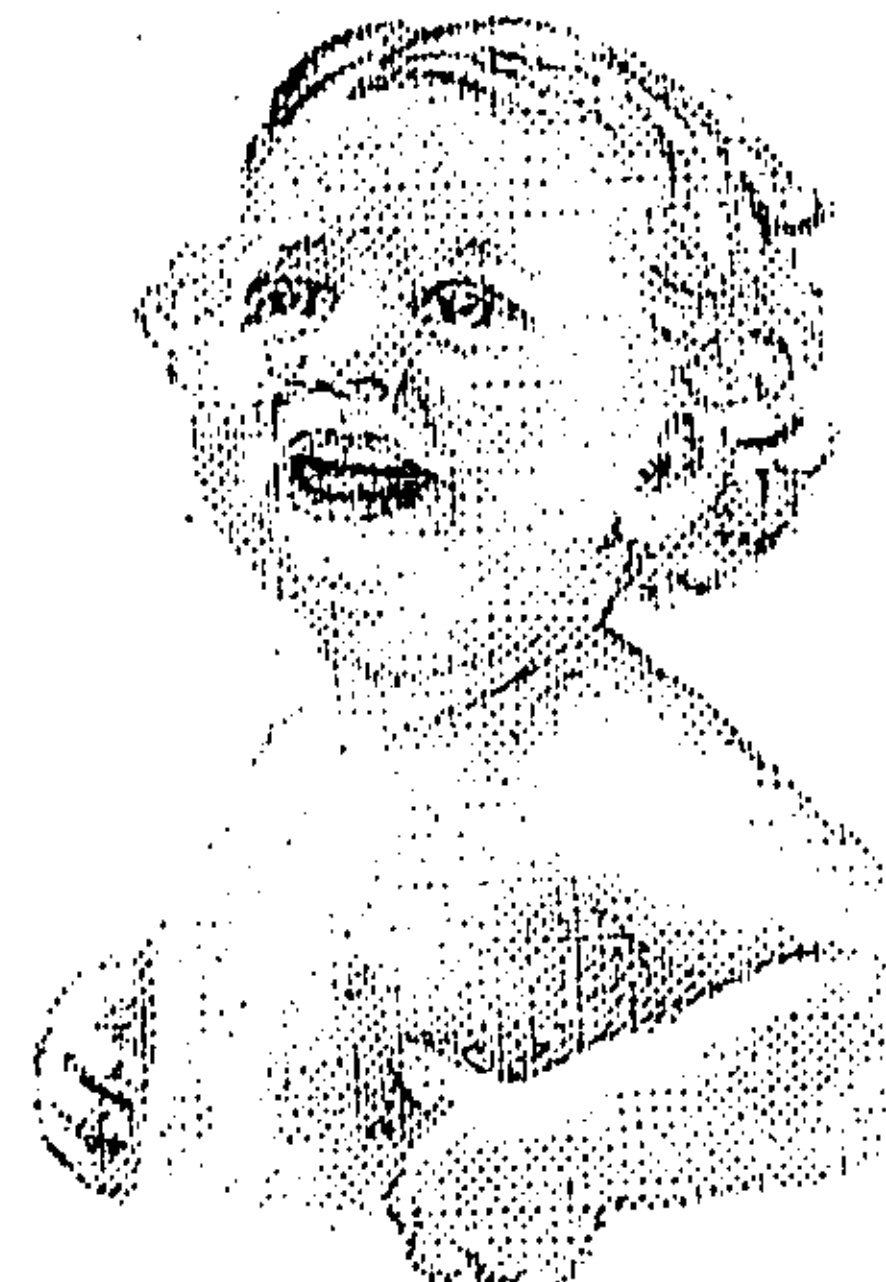

THE keenest interest in boxing is now being taken by some of the younger members of the Indian, Portuguese and Chinese communities, and following the tournament staged at the Chinese Y.M.C.A. recently, there is some talk about another tourney being held. Young Ismail, who won his fight against Souza at the last tournament, is now in the strictest training in preparation for his next bout.

P. T. At Queen's

PUPILS attending Queen's College are now required to take part in the physical training which has become a part of the College's curriculum. In the old days P.T. was optional and took the form, chiefly, of attending a boxing class, but this system has been done away with now and the different classes are required to go through their training at specified times.

Popular Sportsman Leaving

THE Army will be losing one of their most popular sportsmen shortly when Lieut. J. P. Williams, of the East Lancashire Regiment, leaves for home. He has been one of their stalwarts in both hockey and cricket, and but for an unfortunate accident, sustained in a trial match, he would have been picked for the Hong Kong Inter-port cricket team which is to meet Shanghai this coming week.

The above striking photograph of Asama-Yama, Japan's largest active volcano, was taken on the occasion of the third and largest eruption, which occurred at the height of the season recently. Immediately after the eruption a shower of ashes darkened the sky and held up activities in the district for three-quarters of an hour. It was preceded by a terrific explosion. No extra charge was made upon tourists at Karuizawa for this added thrill.

Autumn Fashion Parade

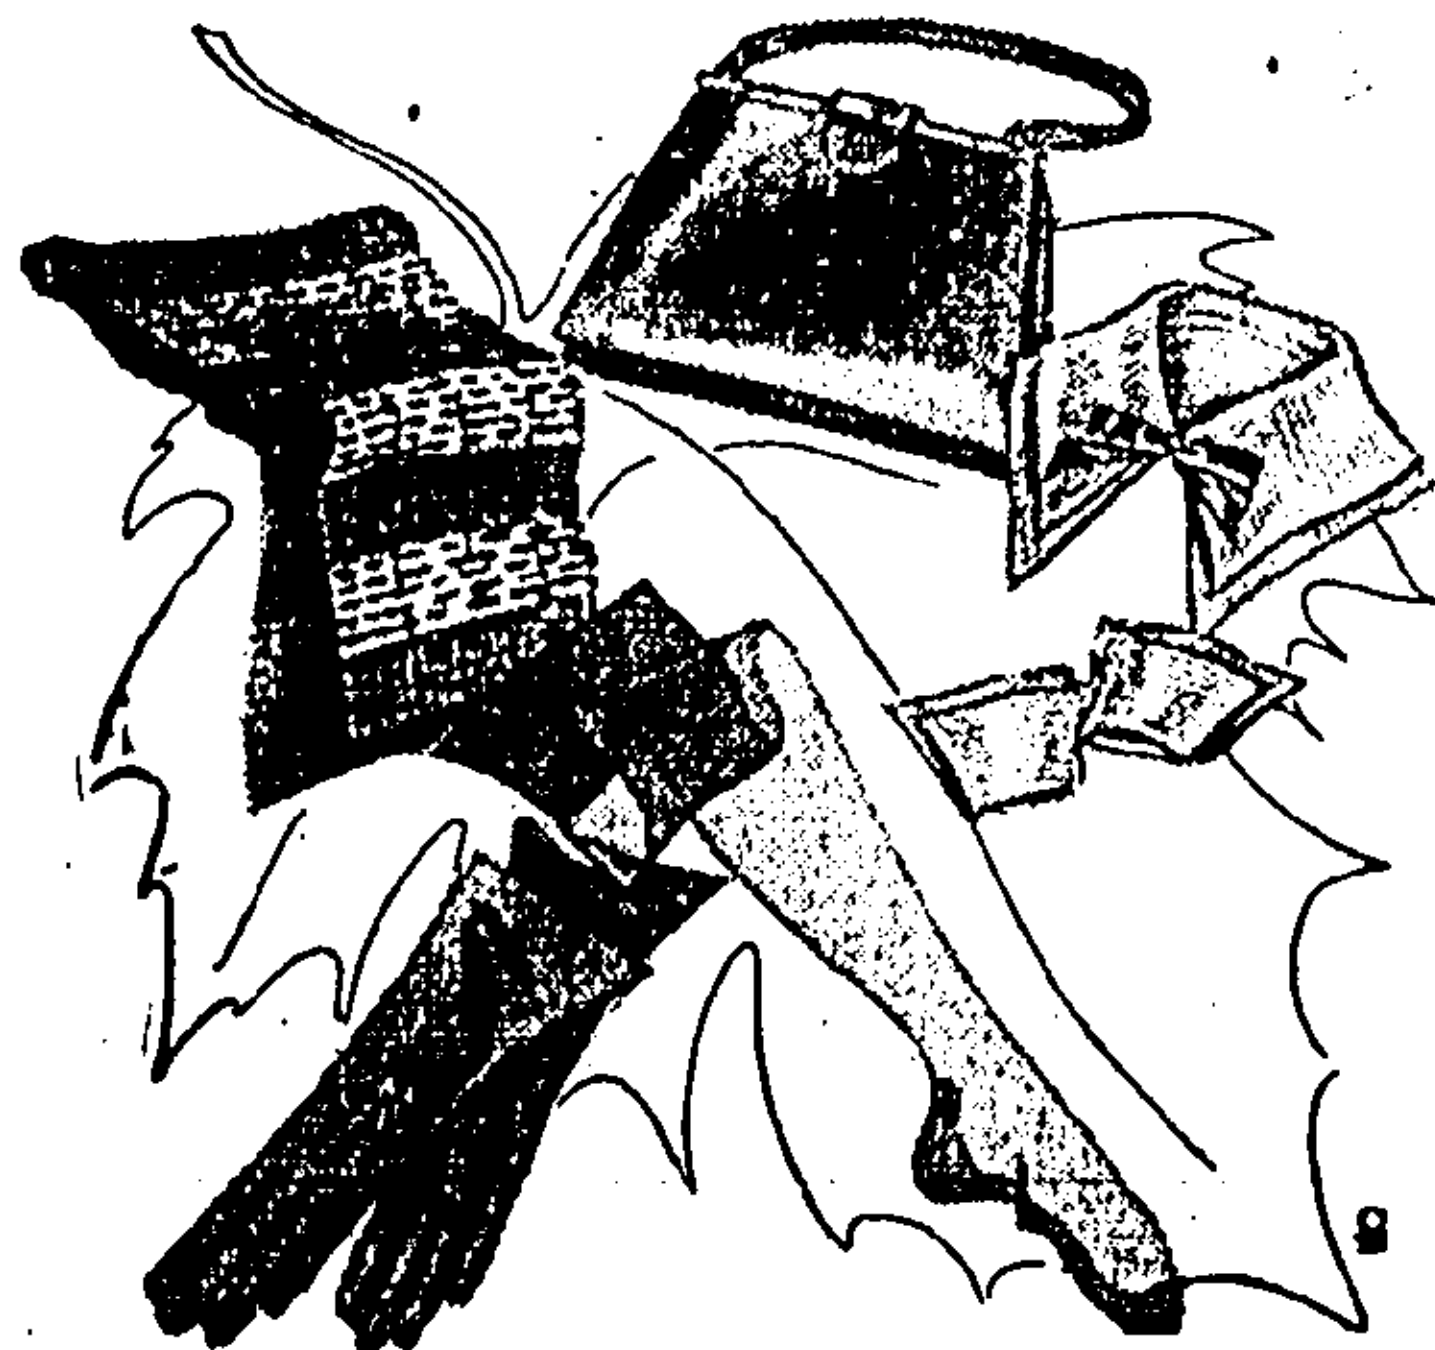

New Autumn Fashions Are Chic . . .

This Autumn you'll be able to tell the new and the smart in clothes a block away. New because their silhouette is different, smart because they come from Lane, Crawford. You'll see a fuller, freer swing to the skirts; a new, square breadth to shoulders; the jutting, broken line of tunics and the smooth-flowing line of the princess silhouette. You'll see those uneven high crowned hats with shooting feathers or flowers, surprising veils, slightly mediaeval or slightly Spanish. Hats that are really high drama. Coats that are magnificent in bulk, the flaring skirt, the waist-high pockets. And the real aristocrats—the furs, infallible at any hour, any place, or with any colour.

The only trouble is—for me, not for you—that Lane, Crawford has such an extraordinary range—they have everything. So where do I begin? . . . They have the most trimly tailored frocks, squared-off lines and broad shoulders—just what you'll want for the street. Afternoon frocks young and decorative, with swinging skirt, brand new tunic, or simply cut on straight and narrow lines. In the words of a top-notch fashion photographer, "A woman should have not only the new thing in fashion—more important than that, she should have the true thing." That's the thing about Lane, Crawford—so wide is their range that you are fitted and styled until you cannot help but find the true thing.

But what tops everything, I think, are their evening gowns and coats. All you need to dine, dance and have cocktails in. Some stiff, swishing taffetas with checked tunics, or—lovely!—lacquered taffeta jackets. Beautifully smart and chic. There are all sorts of other spectacular wraps that would make you the envy of every woman—some are quite surrealist dream objects.

As for shoes—well probably your footsteps already take you to Lane, Crawford's automatically. But I can't possibly give you an adequate idea of the styles—quite beyond my meagre pen. The only solution is a personal visit. And then the accessories. Gloves that make your hands look incredibly slim and that simply invite graceful gestures; handbags that give the last detail of smartness to your ensemble; gorgeous posies and brilliant pendants; the subtlest of perfumes, and—not least—the Elizabeth Arden Beauty Preparations.

NEW BRITISH COLLECTIONS

As usual, there were no eccentricities, and no fashion exaggerations, in the new British collections shown at the British Industries Fair this year. The policy of most London designers remains unchanged, in that every model is primarily intended to add to the attractiveness of its wearer.

Shorter Skirts

THE skirts of all costumes are shorter and tighter than last season, and many designers are featuring the short bolero coat, and the odd jacket in a contrasting colour and fabric to the skirt.

Pleated skirts have quite surely come into their own again (they are as numerous as in the earlier part of the present century), but pleats are now used in bodices and sleeves, as well as in skirts.

New Coat Styles

COATS worn over flowered silk dresses are lined with matching silk, and allowed to hang loosely; but, generally, the full-length coat is still displaced by the three-quarter "swagger" type, which is more slim-fitting than hitherto.

Some specially interesting examples of swagger coats were shown at the B.I.F., the most attractive of all being, perhaps, one made of shaded grey flannel, with an inverted pleat down the centre-back, and a deep, turn-down collar.

Empire Lines At Paul Rennet's

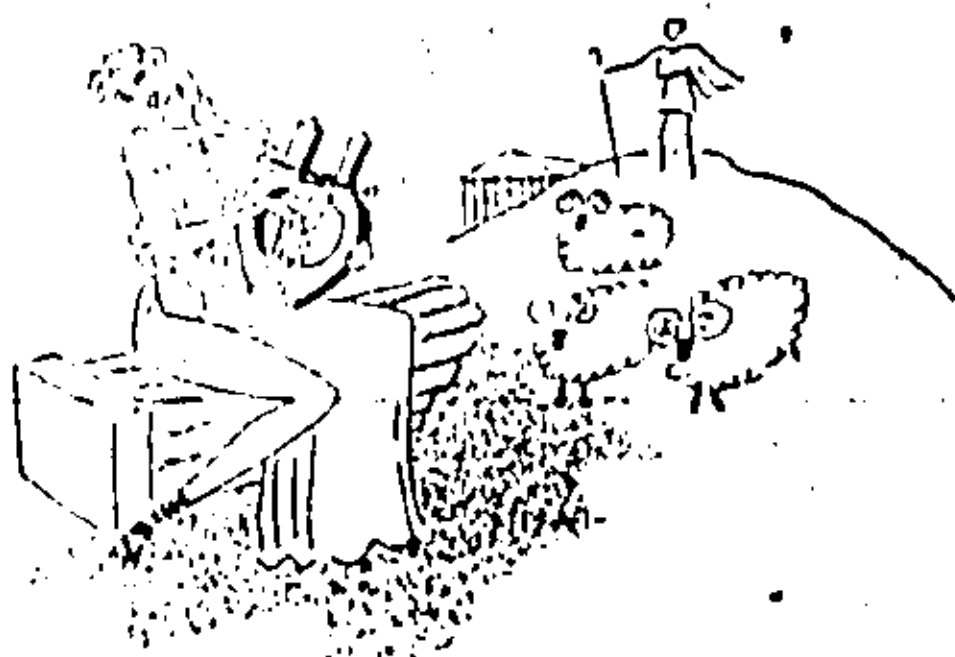

Fashion forecasts come by wireless from Paris, New York, Hollywood, and we draw our conclusions as to the general trend: a special emphasis on the Directoire period inspires the majority of the new costumes. Pre-Revolution gallants lend their flaring coats with braided flap pockets, their long brocade waistcoats with jewelled buttons, their lace ruffled wrists and jabots, their tricorne and cocked hats. Two-piece dresses with masculine Directoire tops are universally favoured for morning. Feminine little flaring basque tops appear for afternoons. But the smartest evening frocks are nonchalant and easy with their long sweeping lines, their tunic coats.

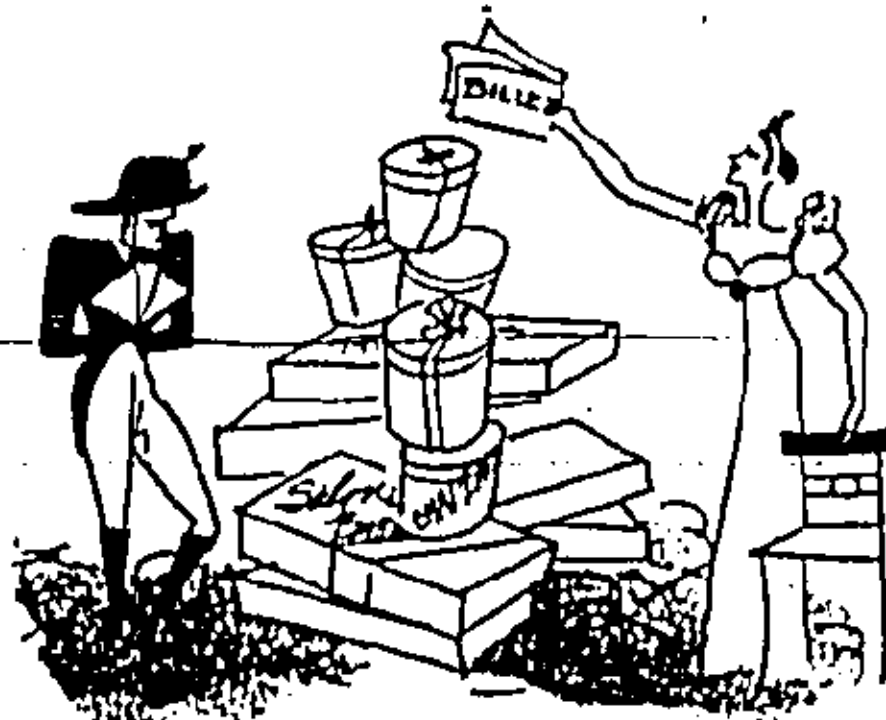

All these trends and many others are illustrated in Paul Rennet's Autumn and Winter selection. There you have cock-tail or dinner frocks with the fashionable tunic coat—as simple or as lavish as you might desire. Evening frocks in lovely fabrics cut on modish Empire lines. I saw a graceful and wonderfully flattering silver moirée gown, a gorgeous red crepe robe de style with tremendous red flowers at the throat, a most unusual pink and brown tunic for the poised and gracious hostess. I saw many others, but how to tell you of them all? And still the hats and the costumes!

Go High Hat says Paul Rennet — and quite rightly. Insist on colour, height, and superfeminine trimming. First on the list are small-brimmed hats with high crowns. All possible shades of wine are favourites. There are new purplish-reds the colour of the grapes when they are first pressed. Harvest tones follow a close second. Tawny pumpkin, squash, Autumn-leaf colours; bare-earth browns; diled wheat and popcorn before it's popped. Russets, chamolish-shades, a new vivid blue. . . . Black hats are almost invariably trimmed with colour. There are lots of high quill trims—condor-feathers; pheasant-plumes; and glycerined ostrich quills. Sometimes the crown is punched by a feather, or a hat-pin with decorative head of coloured wool-yarn and feathers. Or else there are all sorts of variations of twisted fabric toques — imagine one in divine red velvet rising in a cyclone twist on one side. And Paul Rennet's are well-known for the extraordinary smartness of their hats as well as their gowns.

As to the costumes; magnificent tweeds and flares of wool; sometimes almost classically simple, but one and all have the silhouettes and the details that make them unmistakably new. Their shoes are no less intriguing — and enormously smart. And aren't you conscious of your height!

FASHION FOIBLES

IN Athens, after a number of long foreign wars had killed off a great many of the eligible men, the state decreed that all women's tunics should be split from the hip down in order to allure the male.

NAPOLÉON'S first wife, Empress Josephine, spent 1,570,000 francs on dress in six years. That's the equivalent of twelve million to-day. Josephine had 200 pairs of gloves at the same time. At Napoleon's court no one appeared in the same costume twice.

ONE MORNING YOU WILL BE SAYING—

I'LL WEAR MY TWEED SUIT.

But is it really in fit condition to wear? It would be wise to have a look at it now, as well as your other winter clothing, and should they require cleaning & smartening up send them right away for Zoric Odourless Drycleaning.

STAINING FLOORS

POLISHED floors have a charm all their own. If you are staining for the first time, these hints will help you. To get the best results, first of all rub the floor with coarse emery paper to ensure a smooth surface, then sweep and wash. Do not start staining until thoroughly dry. Of course, it may be necessary to fill up any holes or dents with wood-filler obtainable for light or dark boards from any oil-shop. Choose a reliable strain. Colron, for instance, an excellent wood dye which can be obtained in a variety of oak, mahogany and walnut shades. Apply evenly with a large brush or a clean cloth pad. Apply just as much as the boards will readily absorb, and work to a width of three or four boards or rows of blocks at a time . . . with the grain. When thoroughly dry, polish with Ronuk . . .

THE most economical way to remove stains from saucepans, both inside and out, is to rub them with damp ashes.

NEVER polish pewter. It spoils it. Let it remain dull; when dirty, take a soft brush, and wash with warm water and soap, and dry with a clean cloth.

WHEN making pickles, always use glass jars, never stone, as the acid in the vinegar dissolves any lead which may be present, and this is dangerous.

BANKNOTES TO BE FORGED?

Man Arrested With Plates

FOUND IN FAKE BOTTOM OF TUB

Remarking that the Court must exercise its power to protect the public, especially neighbouring Governments and countries, Mr. E. Himsaworth imposed a fine of $400, in default six months' hard labour, on a 41-year-old unemployed, Si Man-kam, who was found guilty of possessing two engraved plates with the intention of forging $5 notes of the Kwangtung Provincial Bank, yesterday.

Acting Sub-Inspector A. Kinnear, appearing for the prosecution, stated that at about 4.45 p.m. on September 21 last, Mr. Chu Chi-po of the Chinese Maritime Customs was searching the passengers who were about to board the 5.05 p.m. express for Canton. Defendant approached the iron barrier and was searched. He was carrying a wooden tub containing fruit. The tub was emptied and on tapping the bottom of it the officer found it hollow. When it was opened the two plates, wrapped in paper, were found between the real and false bottoms.

Reply To Charge

Defendant was taken to the Water Police Station and, on being charged, replied that a man named Leung Kwai-sing requested him to carry the plates and to deliver them to him personally on arriving at Canton. Leung told him that the plates were trade marks for "unreal" medicines. Sub-Inspector Kinnear continued that $845 in Canton currency was found in defendant's pocket when he was arrested, and he asked the magistrate to take a serious view of the case.

Mr. F. I. Zimmern appeared on behalf of the defendant and pleaded for leniency, stating that the defendant had a wife and three children who were dependent on him.

In sentencing the defendant, Mr. Himsaworth said that he was of the opinion that the man, Leung Kwai-sing, must have taken advantage of defendant's position, knowing that he was earning his living by carrying goods to and from Canton. He would, therefore, give him the option of a fine. An order was made for the confiscation of the plates and tub.

COUNTERFEIT MONEY

Chan Ting, a married woman, was yesterday morning sentenced to six months' hard labour for possession of 22 counterfeit 10-cent pieces of the old issue by Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy. Defendant, who was still under a bond for a similar offence, was sentenced to a further six months' imprisonment for breaking her bond.

WINTER SEASON OPENS

Dancing Till Early Hours Of Morning
TWO SUCCESSFUL GALAS

The winter season in Hong Kong was ushered in last night in a most elaborate manner, two gala dances marking the occasion. The Hong Kong Hotel was open until 3 a.m., while dancing at the Gloucester Hotel continued until 2 a.m.

In addition to these two functions there was a dinner dance at Repulse Bay Hotel and the usual fortnightly Royal Engineers Old Comrades Association Dance, while there was a Grand Carnival Dance at the Hotel Cecil.

The Hong Kong Hotel

Always a very popular place, the Hong Kong Hotel was crowded to capacity. The orchestra was in its happiest mood and as a result those attending were infected by the happy spirit and a grand time was had by everybody present.

Mr. J. A. Andrew and Miss Pat Sykes gave exhibitions in the course of the evening and so splendidly did they perform that they were not allowed to leave the floor until they had given repeated encores.

It is a notorious fact that all good things come to an end very soon, but strangely enough there was a continuous round of good things at the "Gripps" last night.

After Andrew and Pat Sykes, Bob and Bert Hellmann entertained on the piano and it is sufficient to say that they, too, "brought the house down." A word of praise must be given the management who, with unfailing courtesy, found room for even the very late comers.

The Gloucester

With the improvements done to their dance floor, the Gloucester Hotel dances during the season promise to be very popular, as witness the capacity crowd that attended last night's gala. "Pop" Gollman's Gloucester Cossacks, who have come to Hong Kong with a big reputation, certainly lived up to all that has been written about them, while the two Mexican dancers, Nina and Jose showed in no uncertain way that they were not called Mexico's dance marvels without reason.

Already in a good humour with the opening dance numbers, patrons of the Gloucester were given an even bigger treat as the evening wore on, for Kaili's Hawaiian Troubadours, with Queenie and her beautiful hula girls, Miami, Mary and Millie, gave one of the best exhibitions of hula-hula dancing seen in Hong Kong for many a long day.

The Gloucester was packed to the limit, but the late arrivals found the management ever courteous and accommodation was found for all, the evening's entertainment coming to an end at 2 a.m.

LOCAL SHARE MARKET

Nervousness Caused By Northern Crisis

TENSION RELAXES AT CLOSE

In an interview with the Sunday Herald yesterday, Mr. C. A. L. Rickett, secretary of the Hong Kong Sharebrokers' Association, said:

"The political situation in the North has been causing a certain amount of nervousness on the market during this week and the prices of all local stocks have displayed a much easier tendency. At the close, however, the tension in the north relaxed and the market reacted most satisfactorily. China Lights, one of the most versatile counters, had receded to $14.00 for cash and $14.60 for December delivery, but became firmer with buyers at $14.50 for cash and no forward shares offering. Other utility stocks showed a similar reaction and buyers who came forward at the lower prices were unable to execute orders.

"Of the Philippine Gold Mining shares there is not much worth recording. There was a fair turnover at prices which showed little variation, with the exception of San Maurice which rose to $6.50 during the week, but eased slightly at the close.

WOLF CUB HIKE

Kowloon Pack's First Winter Activity

Under the supervision of A. C. M. Smith, the Fourth Kowloon (Garrison) Wolf Cub Pack went to Lai Chi Kok, yesterday afternoon on their first winter hike.

On arriving at Lai Chi Kok the Cubs played several games and engaged in outdoor work. Badges were competed for, and they had also to pass through tests to obtain the stars which are usually worn on their hats.

The following were those who took part in the hike:—A. C. M. Shaw, Sea Scout V. Saunders, Cubs J. Harman, D. Hayden, P. Hopkins, W. Stoppard, R. Holmes, P. Hampson, H. Day, M. McComie, J. McComie, S. Petty, A. Day, R. Clark, P. Tyler and P. Venables. The party returned at 7 p.m.

GENERALISSIMO'S PLANE

"$50,000 Will Soon Be Reached"

Several local Chinese organisations are showing their patriotism by coming forward with substantial subscriptions for the purchase of an aeroplane which will be presented to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek on his birthday.

The Chinese Labourers' Union held a meeting yesterday at the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce and discussed the collection of subscriptions from the various Labour Clubs.

The Chinese Engineers' Union have selected several trustworthy collectors, who have been authorised to send the money direct to Nanking through the Bank of Communications. The Union itself subscribed $10,000.

Chinese banks, money-lenders and money-changers have already collected a total of $24,000, and, according to one responsible official, the $50,000 mark will soon be reached.

R.E.O.C.A. DANCE

The first of this season's dances of the Royal Engineers Old Comrades' Association was held at the China Fleet Club last night, and, in spite of other counter-attractions, was well attended, there being over 150 persons present. The dance music was supplied by the band of the Royal Welch Fusiliers by kind permission of Major L.A.A. Alston, D.S.O., M.C. and Officers, while the duties of Master of Ceremonies were performed by M.S.M. Chapman.

cale-Gumaus and for Demonstrations. The market was quiet at the close.

Detective-Sergeant Pilkerton said that the defendant was seen near a manhole, the cover of which had been removed. There was another man in the sewer, and they were there in the hope that by taking up the silt, they would be able to find gold dust from the filings of goldsmiths' shops nearby.

Mr. Wells of the P. W. D. said that the manhole was situated almost in the middle of the street and these coolies went down the sewer at considerable risk, besides being a nuisance to traffic. The defendant said that he had been engaged by the man in the sewer to carry away the dirt that was brought up.

PISTOL AND FOUR ROUNDS

Unlawful Possession Alleged

THREE MEN CHARGED

Charged with the unlawful possession of one automatic pistol and four rounds of ammunition, three Chinese, Kwu Cheung Ching, Kwok Fat and Lee Kang-yin, were remanded to appear in Court at 2.30 p.m. on Tuesday next by Mr. Q. A. A. MacFadyen at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday morning.

In answer to the charge the first and third defendants stated that they had nothing to do with the affair. The second defendant pleaded guilty, stating that the other two defendants were innocent and that he alone was guilty.

Detective-Inspector A. H. Elston, the prosecuting officer, explained how the pistol was discovered on a hillside, and remarked that the police possessed evidence which would show that all three defendants were connected in the control of the automatic pistol and ammunition.

Another Case

Wu Ting, unemployed, also charged with the unlawful possession of one revolver and four rounds of ammunition, was remanded for a week.

SIGNOR GRANDI'S FUTURE

Rome, Yesterday.—The rumours that the Italian Ambassador to England, Signor Dino Grandi, is about to be recalled are taking pronounced form, and the probability is that Signor Grandi will again be called upon to take over the Secretary-Generalship of the Fascist Party. In that case the present holder of that post, Signor Starace, would become Minister of Interior.—Trans-Ocean Service.

"HEAD OF SPANISH STATE"

GENERAL FRANCO TAKES OATH OF ALLEGIANCE

FESTIVE CEREMONY ATTENDED BY ENTHUSIASTIC CROWDS

Burgos, Yesterday.

General Franco was invested yesterday with the office of "Head of the Spanish State" during a festive ceremony, with the oath of allegiance being administered by the President of the National Junta, General Cabanellas. General Franco swore "to protect the unity of the Spanish nation, and defend the honour and happiness of the Spanish people."

Following the ceremony of investiture, General Franco greeted an enthusiastic crowd from the window of the headquarters of the National Junta, and made a short address, in which he declared: "Our 'insurrection' was that of people determined not to perish. At the same time, however, we have rescued the entire civilisation of Europe from the Red terror. Our Government will be one of authority and will be for the welfare of the people."

In a radio address given the same evening, General Franco discussed the relations to foreign powers, and said that the National Government is willing to conclude trade agreements with other countries, foremost with those with a non-antagonistic national policy.

After the occupation of Madrid, which will take place within two weeks, the National Government will set about the task to rebuild Spain, and will then demand recognition from the foreign Powers as the sole representative of Spain.

The diplomatic places in foreign countries will be refilled and new representatives despatched to the League of Nations.

COUNCILS ESTABLISHED
One of the first acts of General Franco as head of the State was the foundation of a "Technical Council of State," composed of committees for Finance, Justice, Commerce, Industry, Agriculture, Public Education, Labour and Communications.

A General Secretariat was also formed for Foreign Affairs, for the purpose of maintaining contact with the Consuls and the Diplomatic Corps.

The Council includes moreover a Press and Propaganda department, the director of which is responsible directly to the head of the State.

INCIDENT IN ROME
Rome: The former Spanish Imperial flag, which has been adopted by the Nationalists as their emblem, was suddenly seen to fly from the entrance gate of the Spanish Embassy to the Vatican yesterday. A crowd of spectators soon gathered and thought that the Nationalists had definitely won a decisive battle. It was, however, soon found out that, the Ambassador to the Holy See being on vacation, some junior member of the Embassy staff, sympathising with the Nationalists, had hoisted the flag.

In this connection it was pointed out in official quarters that Italy has not yet recognised the new Government in Burgos or their established representations either to the Vatican or the Quirinal.—Trans-Ocean Service.

M. LEON BLUM AT GENEVA

To Help Settlement Of Many Questions

Paris, Yesterday.

In many Paris papers the view is expressed that the visit of the Premier, M. Blum, to Geneva will hasten the settlement of many questions. The Intransigant points out that M. Blum's presence will serve to accelerate the preparations for the Five-Power Conference on the one hand, and will relieve a certain mistrust of going to the Conference on the other.—Trans-Ocean Service.

NEUTRALITY TREATY

Proposals Outlined By Washington

DRAFT SUBMITTED TO LATIN-AMERICA

Washington, Yesterday.

The United States Government has presented to the representatives of the Latin-American nations at Washington a draft of a far-reaching neutrality treaty, imposing a pacific settlement of disputes and, in the event of war, recognising the right of neutrals to curtail trade with the belligerents.

The prohibition of the sale of arms to belligerents and a financial embargo against both sides would be mandatory on the signatories, except when an American State was involved in war with a non-American State.

The treaty will be submitted to the Inter-American Peace Conference at Buenos Aires in December.—Reuter.

DEVALUATION OF SWISS FRANC

Legal Gold Cover Not Modified

DESIGNED TO AVOID RISE IN COST OF LIVING

The devaluation of the Swiss franc presents itself mainly as an operation of alignment with the leading world currencies. The legal gold cover is not modified and will remain at 40 per cent. The limits of the devaluation have been set between 34.5 and 25.94 per cent. It is considered that the new level, which in fact stands provisionally at 30 per cent. under the precedent parity, will allow the Swiss cost of production, formerly too high, a sufficient adaptation to the world situation to enable the revival of business and bring new impetus to exports.

No Restrictions

Banking activities and dealings in gold or in securities will be in no way restricted, as the monetary situation remains very solid while the reserve of gold is maintained at its very high level; the Government's persistently prudent financial policy and the sound budgetary situation furnish, on the other hand, the strongest guarantees. All the necessary measures have been taken to avoid a rise in the cost of living.

IMPORT BAN LIFTED

Chinese Tea Allowed Into N. Zealand

Shanghai, Yesterday.

It is announced here that the ban on the import of Chinese tea into New Zealand has been lifted.

Another report states that the British Government is planning to increase the import duty on Chinese silk and satins, but the Ministry of Industry has requested the Foreign Office to take the matter up with the British authorities.—Union News.

OLD ALHAMBRA TO GO

London, Yesterday.—The newspapers report the conclusion of negotiations, as a result of which the Alhambra Theatre in Leicester Square, the old-time music hall and later the home of ballet and variety, will be pulled down and a cinema erected on the site.—British Wireless Service.

EIGHT ISLANDS ANNEXED

Britain's Action In Pacific

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Berlin, Yesterday.—The evening papers give much prominence to the formal annexation of a group of islands in the Phoenix Archipelago by Britain, an action which, it is pointed out, seems to have been taken in view of increasing Japanese actions in those waters.

The Phoenix Islands are situated about 600 miles north of Samoa but are still south of the Equator, and consist of eight islands with a total population of 60 persons and a total area of 80 square miles. Hitherto no Power had officially claimed sovereignty, although their flanking position to

NEW £2,000,000 CHAMBER

Inaugurated At Geneva

FORMALLY OPENED BY LEAGUE COUNCIL

Geneva, Yesterday.—The £2,000,000 Council Chamber was formally inaugurated last evening at a special sitting of the Council. The hall is a very handsome room, considerably wider than it is long, with dull brass panelings relieving a pale marble background. The chief glory of the room is the frescoes by the famous Spanish artist Jose Maria Fort, symbolizing human achievements. The ceiling is particularly magnificent, with high figures representing the continents joining hands in unity and peace. Disarmament yesterday again became a living issue when the Third Commission, which had not met since 1932, was revived. It will examine the ground for convening the Disarmament Conference Bureau.—Router.

THE AIR RACE

Two Race Competitors Still Going

London, Yesterday.—Two competitors in the Johannesburg air race who had fallen by the wayside have decided to continue after all. Clouston, who was delayed at Khartoum, arrived at Entebbe at 6 p.m. yesterday, and was to have left at dawn today. He hoped to reach Johannesburg this evening. Victor Smith completed his repairs at Salonika and re-started immediately, with the hope of completing the course before the time-limit expires at 6.30 a.m. tomorrow.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

Important bigger islands gives them great strategic value.—Trans-Ocean Service.

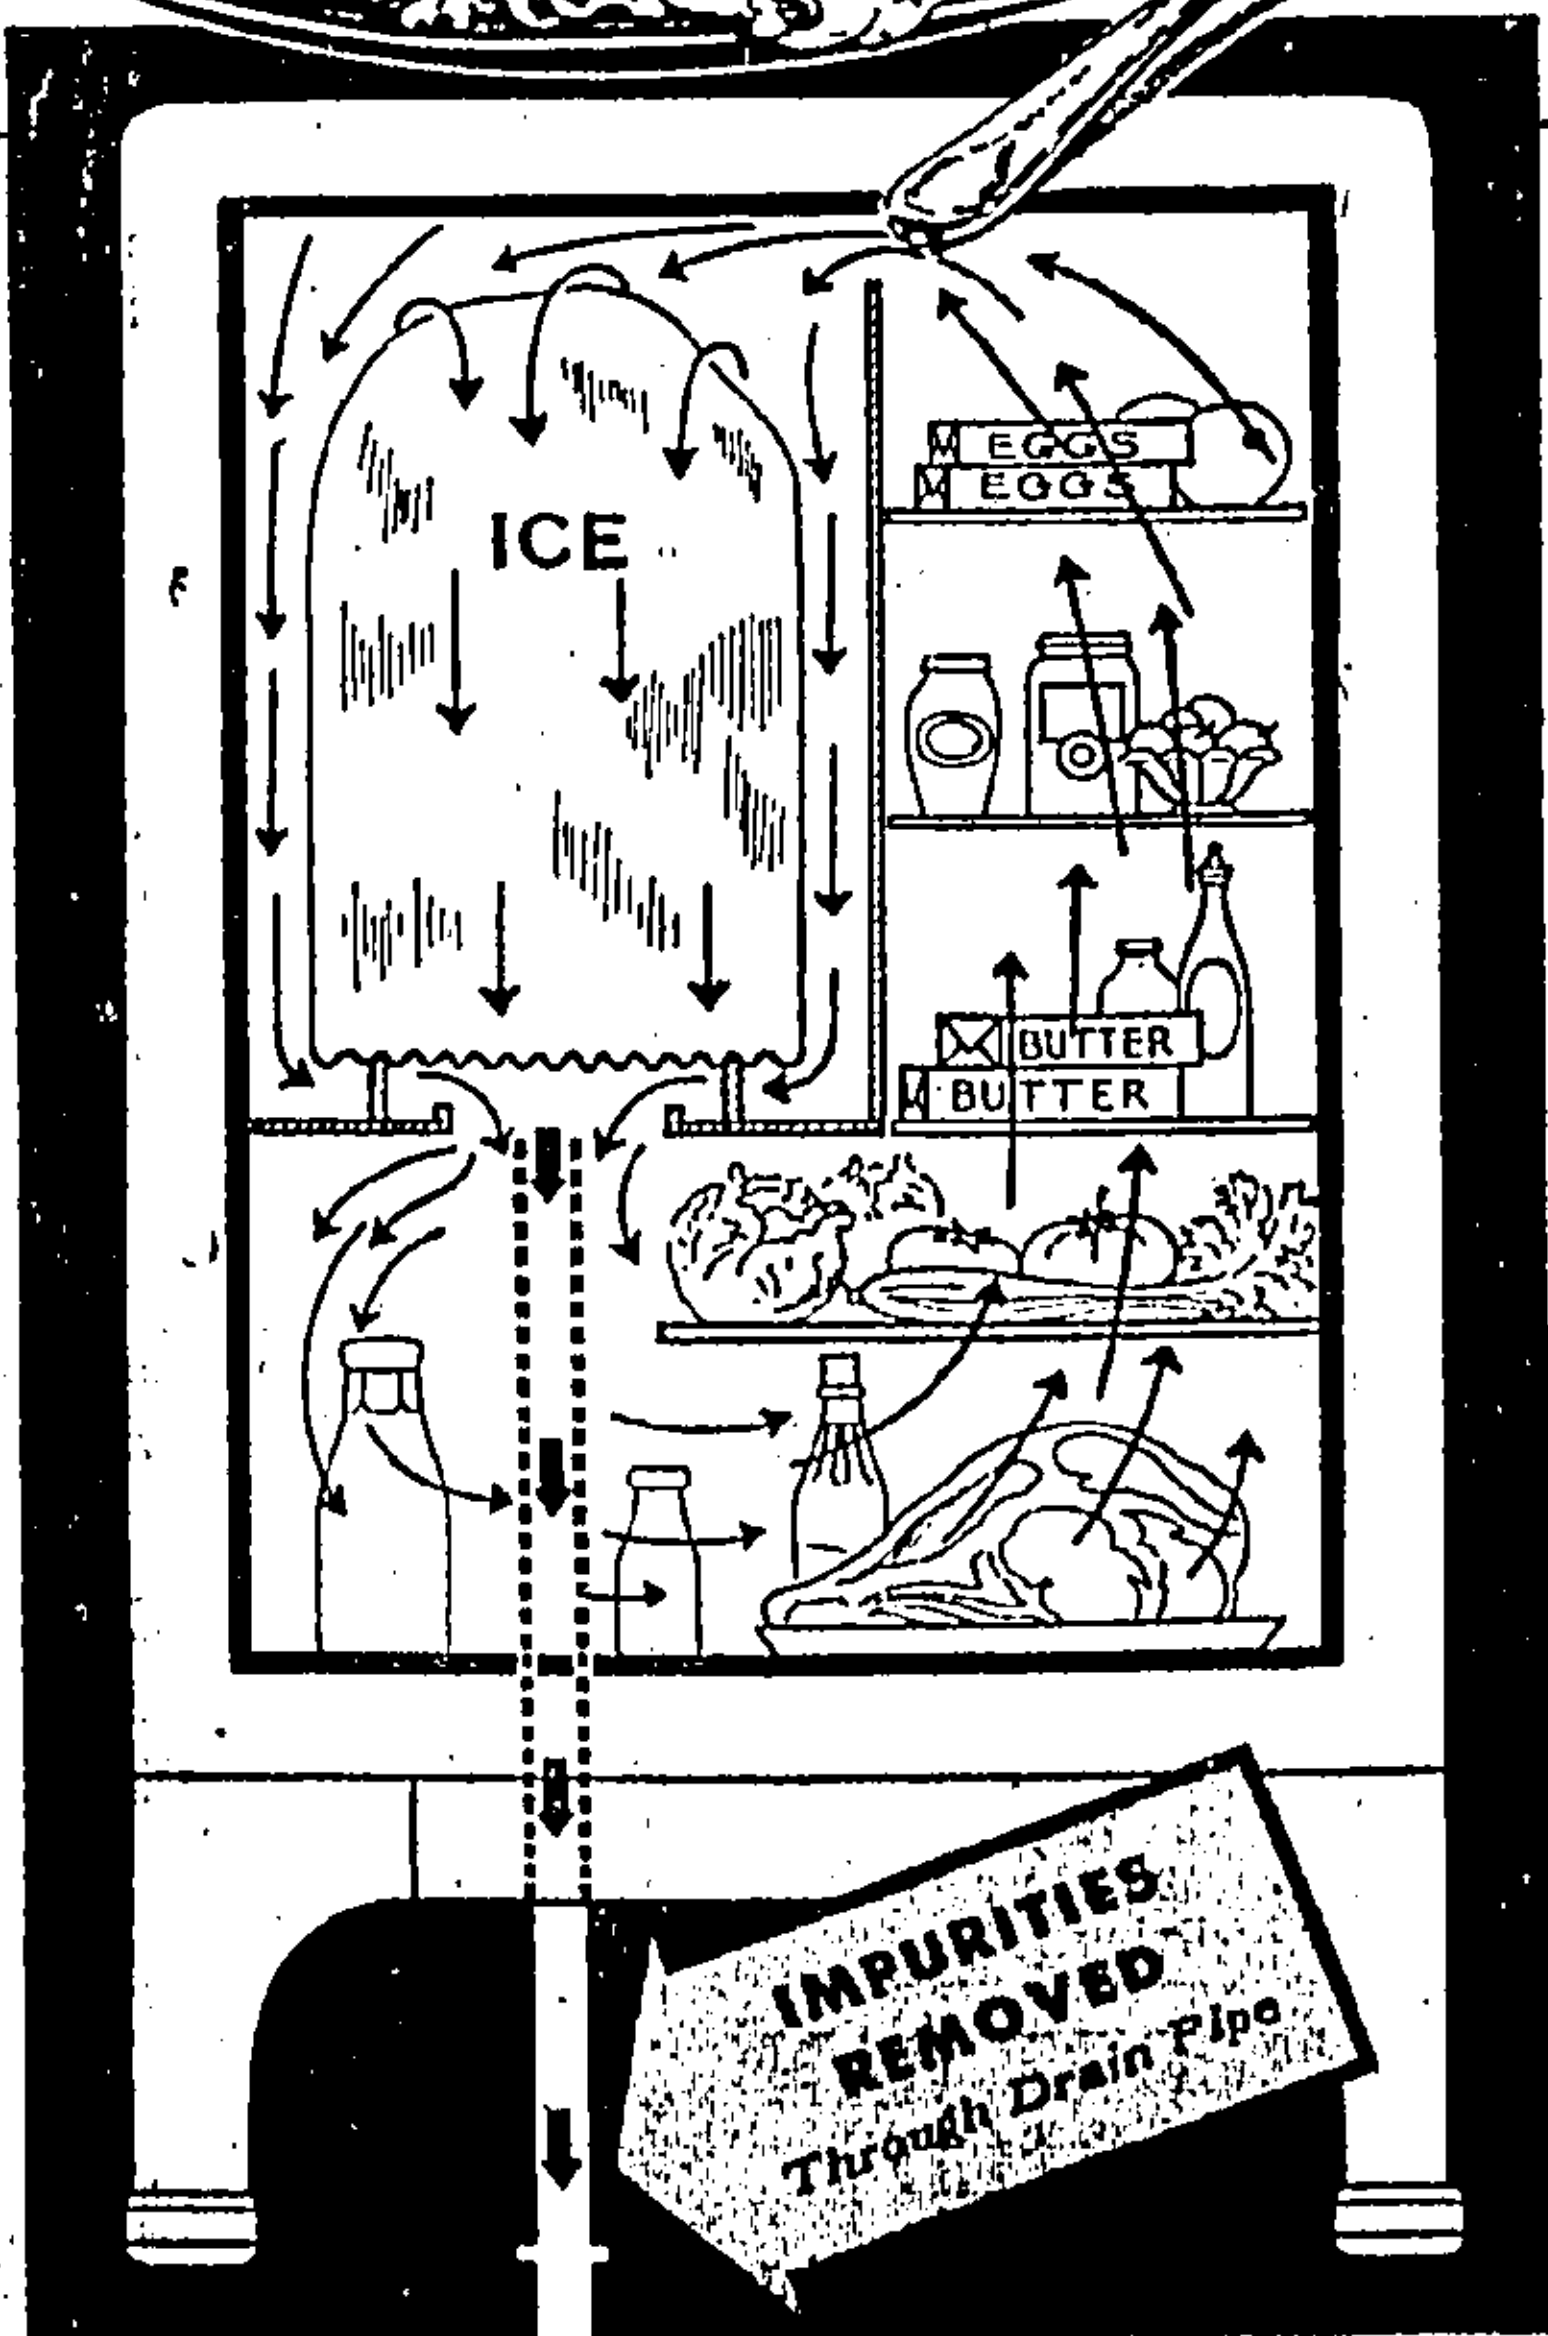

LAST WEEK'S SOLUTION

FOOD "WASHED" WITH PURE AIR

Constantly Circulating

in the Modern Air Conditioned Refrigerator

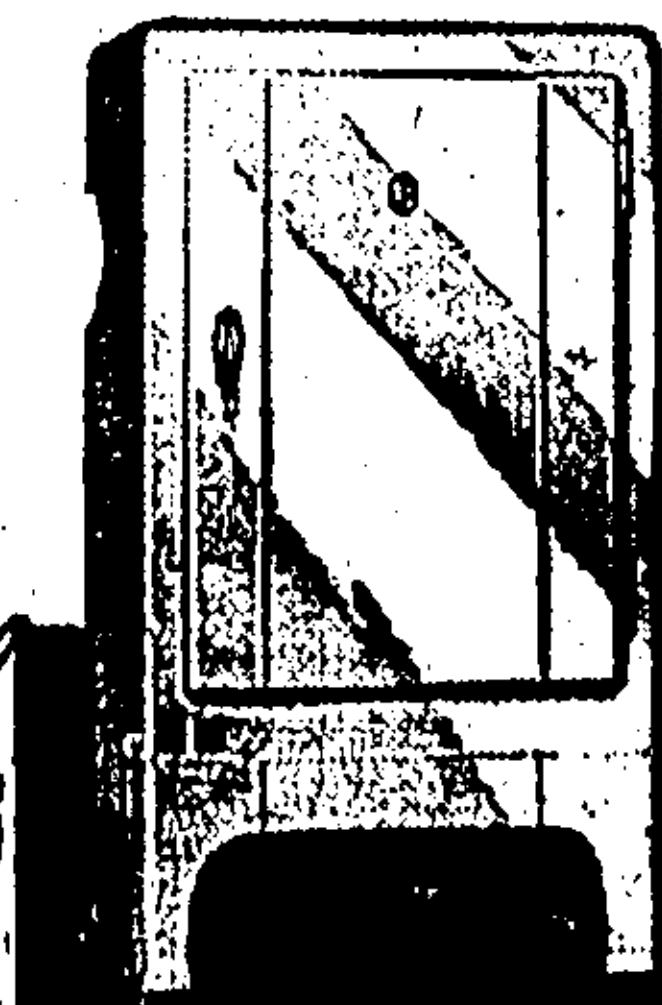

Certain stored foods pass off impurities, unpleasant in odor, which are quickly absorbed by other foods. Thus food, to remain impurity-free and to prevent decay, must be kept in air that is constantly purified as well as chilled. Cold alone is not enough!

The new OLYMPIC Ice Refrigerator, utilizing SIX-SIDED REFRIGERATION, keeps vitalized fresh air constantly circulating around your food. It "picks up" odors and impurities, carries them to the melting ice film, where they are absorbed and eliminated through the drain pipe. Food odors cannot interchange!

Too, the new OLYMPIC Air Conditioned Refrigerator maintains the correct balance of moisture in the air, preventing foods from drying out. Foods retain their natural flavors, juices and vitamins.

Our Ice Service Man will gladly demonstrate the new OLYMPIC Refrigerator.

Feeling Tired?

You can feel fit
again—and so easily too!

Listlessness and fatigue, in nine cases out of ten, are caused by nervous trouble, and when you take Sanatogen you drink in pure strength.

Heat, worry or overwork — these are just some of the many reasons why you are suffering from over-strained nerves. Unless you find extra strength to withstand the strain, loss of youth and health is bound to be the result.

Sanatogen was made to strengthen the nerves, to revitalize tired, run-down people. To thousands, the use of Sanatogen has meant a new lease of life.

Here is the opinion of a lady, who suffered for years:—

"It is years, since I felt so well and happy. I was full of pain and depression through indigestion and nervousness, but now, through Sanatogen, the world and all that is in it, is brighter and more cheerful."

— writes Miss G. H.

Think of how much better life would be if you could once more enjoy that priceless feeling of youthful health, and if you were again full of energy and cheerfulness. And such health is really within easy reach. You need not go to a lot of trouble. Simply start taking Sanatogen three times a day and you will soon pick up.

You will notice how quickly Sanatogen satisfies the starved nervous system, how it conquers that run-down feeling. You will feel better and you will look better. You will feel a new woman, full of youthful vitality, and your friends will tell you "How well you look."

C.R.C. WORTHY OF WIN RECREIO SURPRISE TEAM OF YEAR U.S.R.C. PAIR HEAD THE PARTNERSHIPS

"A" DIVISION LAWN TENNIS LEAGUE STATISTICS

(By The Sports Editor)

THE Chinese Recreation Club again won the "A" Division of the Lawn Tennis League—for the fifth year in succession—and they fully deserved the honour. Without Lee Wai-tong for any of their matches and deprived of the services of Tsui Wai-pui, the Colony champion, for a long period owing to illness, they were unbeaten in their seven matches.

The Recreio were the surprise team of the year, and next season will see them in a strong challenging position for their first premier title. In J. Gonsalves and A. V. Remedios they have a pair good enough to beat the Colony doubles champions in a match of no more than 12 games. South China, promoted after their success in the "B" Division, cut a sorry picture, though they beat the C.R.C. second string, who, in turn, beat the I.R.C.

Kowloon Cricket Club fared disappointingly after a promising start, while the Club and U.S.R.C. were well below normal strength.

In all there were 68 different partnerships in this division, made up as follows: South China 9; Indian R.C. 15; Chinese R.C. "A" 6; United Services R.C. 8; Hong Kong C.C. 5; Kowloon C.C. 5; Recreio 5; and Chinese R.C. "B" 15.

LITTLE NOTES of Great Importance

Every season we think frocks lovelier than before, but this season's bewitching styles have an all time high. You'll agree—when you've visited MAIZEE'S, our own American shop. Their new cocktail dresses are stunning affairs, whether in black velvet topped by a contrasting crepe or metallic tunic, or a lovely dull crepe embroidered in nail heads. And with these semi-formal frocks go the dressy hat: a gay twisted toque of the finest antelope. MAIZEE'S new hats are definitely chic. Whatever the trimming, whatever the slant the classic appearance of simplicity is still attained.

The EMA Fruit Butters, Marmalades, Jellies, Jams are superb. . . . And we mean just that. . . . Once you've tasted their delicious flavour and seen how appetising they look in their neat glass jars, you won't think of ordering another brand. Mention PAUL RENNET'S afternoon frocks—and there's little more to be said. They are the last word! Anyway, they certainly are for the most discriminating woman. Beautifully smart lines and lovely rich materials. I saw some smart frocks there in the new wine shade, and others in the fashionable blues and browns. And you can choose the correct shoe right there as an integral part of your costume. As you know, PAUL RENNET'S shoes all bear the famous Bally mark. And remember they'll take your orders too . . . anything from a street frock to a trousseau.

Baby's an adorable wee thing—and it's your very special job as mother to see he does nothing but grow in grace and loveliness. But he's got a very small and delicate digestive system that is easily overloaded. There's really a very simple and effective remedy—WATSON'S BABY WATER—I wish every mother in Hong Kong had it at hand. It corrects and relieves griping—the thing which makes baby cry a great deal, puckering up his little face and clenching his fists. You've only to give a dose two or three times a week to keep Baby healthy, happy and strong. Only 25 cents a bottle.

LITTLE NOTES of Great Importance

The ideal for 1937 is a new model Zenith Radio in every home! Perhaps you'll start with a small one and pave the way for the greatest attraction of all—an All Wave World Wide Automatic Radio-Gram. Let the INTERNATIONAL RADIO SALES AND SERVICE, 27 Hankow Road, Kowloon, help you in your choice. They keep a complete line in stock, each marked by "Selectivity," "Sensitivity" and "Tone Quality." And then you have servicing and guarantee after a purchase from them—something that is usually neglected in the Colony, — and the servicing is carried out by qualified British Technicians! Cash or terms to suit individual needs.

Once again the tight kid gloves of pre-War days come into our lives; gloves that are cut to follow the contours of the hand, decorated perhaps with nought but a tiny frill . . . gloves that you'll find at LANE, CRAWFORD'S. Theirs is undoubtedly the largest and most varied selection of gloves in town. Neo-pigskin gloves laced up the side and made ornate with a stamped design; fine new suedes, plain, in black, brown, navy, beige and gray; the smart leather gloves you simply cannot do without. There isn't a woman who doesn't enjoy the smartest and most original gloves; she knows how completely they do or undo the success of her ensemble.

Luckstone . . . doesn't it sound as if it holds a secret well worth knowing? It does! Luckstone Beauty Secret is a celebrated powder and skin food combined which instantly beautifies the complexion. The Luckstone Cold Cream is an absolute necessity for a sensitive skin; it both cleanses and purifies. The Hand Lotion is invaluable for keeping the hands soft and white, and Luckstone Rubifint is what you've always been looking for—a natural invisible colouring that achieves the charming glow of perfect health. And all to be found in the very centre of the town—at the GRAND DISPENSARY.

Newest of fur stories to-day is the tunic-coat, cunningly handled to give you a lean and lovely waist! To such I have the pleasure of introducing you . . . at DOLLY VARDEN'S. Coats in Squirrel, in Krummer Lamb, and shorter ones in Ponyskin with Fox collars. The ones to spell with capitals . . . Coats as sane as they are striking and ready to go a dozen places in a single day. Their hats are good to see; tailored felts in all the fashionable shapes and colours—and of surprisingly moderate price. Sports hats, too, in mixed felt and angora—they're always smart and easy to wear.

You'll be happy to hear that the "Complete Poems of Keats and Shelley" have been published together in one fat edition (Modern Library). It's no sale at BREWER'S BOOKSHOP along with a lot of others that are new. Among the number is "Great Britain—Empire and Commonwealth 1888-1936," by J. A. Spender. This review of our country is not a mere summary of leading events, but personal observations upon them by one who has been in the forefront of publicists during that period. Also a beautifully illustrated book on "Ball and Angkor" by Geoffrey Gorer, and, for the really serious-minded, "A Model of the Universe" by P. D. Ouspensky.

CONSERVATIVE CONGRESS ONE RESOLUTION DEFEATED

London, Yesterday.

A resolution was moved yesterday at the Conservative Party Conference at Margate urging the Central Office to do all within their power to bring into one association at the earliest possible moment all the elements which support the principles of the National Government as at present constituted. The resolution was defeated by an overwhelming majority.—British Wireless Service.

WINS FOUR EVENTS AND BREAKS TWO RECORDS

FIVE MARKS BETTERED DURING AFTERNOON MISS GROSE WINS LADIES' TITLE

LAU PO-HEI, the Colony and Interport back-stroke swimming champion, was featured in some extraordinary swimming yesterday afternoon, when he practically swept the board at the Hong Kong University's annual aquatic championships setting up two new records, using the back-stroke! Lau won the 220, 440 and 880, the 50 Yards back-stroke, was second in the 100 Yards and third in both the 50 Yards sprint and the Throwing the Polo Ball event. In all Lau scored 34 of the 40 points garnered by Morrison Hall to take second place in the Inter-Hotel Championship. An amazing performance!

Altogether six new records were established, Lau Po-hei bettering his own time in the 50 Yards back-stroke by 9-10 secs., and the quarter-mile mark of 6 mins. 29 8-10 secs. by H. L. Ozorio by 2 8-10 secs. L. Oliveira, fresh from the Shanghai-Tientsin Interport series, broke his own 50 Yards mark by 1-10 of a second in 26 3-10 secs., while Samuel Ling, the 'Varsity breast-stroke champion, twice lowered his last year's 100 Yards mark by clocking 80 9-10 secs. in the championship event to beat his previous best by 2 5-10 secs. and 79 3-10 secs. in the handicap event, which followed soon after!

Oliveira equalled his own mark in the 100 Yards free-style when he clocked 61 4-5 secs., while he set up a new 'Varsity record in the Throwing the Polo Ball event, when he reached 66 ft. 4 ins. to better E. L. Gosano's previous best effort by 3 ft. 4 ins.

Altogether, the standard of swimming was excellent and a great improvement on last year's performances. The gala was witnessed by a very large gathering including the Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotewall, and Mrs. Kotewall, who later distributed the prizes; and the Vice-Chancellor of the Hong Kong University, Sir William Hornell.

A pleasing feature of the programme was that the ladies entered their two events, the 50 Yards free-style championship and the handicap event. Miss P. V. Grose won the championship title from Miss C. J. Anderson by a touch, while Miss J. Choa won the handicap event.

The first event on the programme, the 50 Yards sprint saw Oliveira, Ozorio, Lau Po-hei and A. Ozorio take the plunge simultaneously, with the first named taking a head's lead. Oliveira and H. L. Ozorio reached the turn together with Lau Po-hei right behind, and the second length almost saw a sensational upset as Lau forged ahead only to falter over the last yard or two for Oliveira and H. L. Ozorio to beat him. The times were extraordinarily close, Oliveira clocking 26 3-10 secs. while H. L. Ozorio and Lau Po-hei were tied at 26 6-10 secs. and 26 7-10 secs. respectively.

Lau In His Element

The 50 Yards back-stroke saw Lau Po-hei in his element and, although he had previously swum a strenuous race, he streaked away to a new record, beating Oliveira by a body's length.

Samuel Ling amazed the spectators when he swam the first 25 yards of the 100 Yards breast-stroke championship underwater, coming up at the turn for a breath several yards in front of Tang Hon-chui. Ling easily retained his lead to the end and bettered his own record by an appreciable margin.

The 100 Yards free-style open to the Colony drew only four entries, and A. A. da Rosa, of the V.R.C., won easily in 59 secs., followed by Rfm. Hamilton. Lawrence, who was supposed to have swum, was suffering from a sore throat.

Change Of Stroke

The Quarter-Mile saw Ozorio take an early lead from Lau Po-hei, while E. H. Koh followed several yards in the rear. Lau changed from the crawl to the stroke at the first turning and a noticeable change was then seen. He gradually crept up on Ozorio and at the 8th turn was leading. He gradually widened the gap between himself and Ozorio and finished a good winner on his back in a new record time!

The Ladies' 50 Yards championship had its amusing side as well as its serious side. Miss Grose, who was leading by two yards with only another five or six to go, took a mouthful and stopped. In the meantime Miss Anderson passed her, but Miss Grose, however, recovered from her unfortunate mishap to snatch victory by a touch!

Oliveira's Triumph

The 100 Yards free-style saw Oliveira assume an early lead, which he maintained till the end, but Lau Po-hei sprang a surprise when he overtook H. L. Ozorio at the 50 yards mark to take second place!

The 220 Yards free-style was a repetition of the Quarter Mile, Lau Po-hei romping home an easy winner from Ozorio, who tired quickly after the first 100 yards.

The 200 Yards Invitation Relay saw only two teams take the plunge, the V.R.C. and the East Lancashire Regiment, and the former won by almost three-quarters of a length.

The Inter-Hotel Relay, which brought the programme to a conclusion, was won by Ricci Hall, who won the race on the last man—L. Oliveira, who overhauled the opposition to win by several yards.

Winners Congratulated

After the gala, tea was served in the West Lounge, following which Mr. H. L. Ozorio, President of the H. K. University Union Swimming Section, congratulated the record-breakers and winners and thanked the officials for their share of the success of the meeting.

Sir William Hornell associated himself with the Presidents remarks and said that the question of a swimming pool had cropped up and they had everything but the funds!

The Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotewall thanked the University for the honour they had bestowed upon Mrs. Kotewall in asking her to present the prizes and said, in regard to the swimming pool, that although he had no money, he had a tongue which he would use to the advantage of the Swimming Section. This was greeted with loud applause. Following the presentation of prizes, Miss J. Choa handed Mrs. Kotewall a bouquet of flowers.

Results

The following were the detailed results:

880 Yards free-style championship: 1. Lau Po-hei, 2. E. H. Koh, 3. Wong Kam-nok, 4. J. Silva. Time 13 mins. 32 7-10 secs.

50 Yards free-style championship: 1. L. Oliveira, 2. H. L. Ozorio, 3. Lau Po-hei, 4. A. Ozorio. Time 26 3-10 secs. (Record).

COPYRIGHT OF FILMS

Important Questions Discussed

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL Berlin, Yesterday.

The important decision was taken yesterday at the International Congress of Authors, that an international commission should be set up to study all questions of the copyright of films.

This Commission is to be composed of six members of the authors' and composers' organisation and an equal number of film producers and industrialists.

The Commission's task will be to regulate all the difficulties arising between film producers and authors.—Trans-Ocean Service.

Osaka reported five cases of smallpox during the week ended September 26, and Phnompenh and Hong Kong one each. Calcutta reported 11 cases of cholera.

NATIONAL DAY OF PORTUGAL

COUNTRY'S CAREER AS A REPUBLIC

TWENTY-SIX YEARS OF PROGRESS

To-morrow, October 5, Portugal and her eight colonies will celebrate the 26th anniversary of the foundation of the Republic in 1910 which marked the initiation of a new and brilliant era for her peoples. This was the ninth period of her history since she emerged from an obscure border fief in the Kingdom of Leon into an independent State in the eleventh century. In her Hall of Fame are inscribed the names of those men who, by their patriotism and determination to further the territorial expansions of the motherland, adventured into unknown lands and over strange seas. This period of discovery was the most illustrious and picturesque chapter in her history, beginning early in the fifteenth century and extending for some 85 years.

CRICKET TRIAL AT H.K.C.C.

Promising Talent Available

There were three cricket matches yesterday afternoon, two of them being in the nature of intra-club trial games, while the third was a friendly between the second teams of the Civil Service Cricket Club and the Police Recreation Club.

The game on the Club ground produced some lively cricket and the form shown by most of the players promises well for the Club this season. The teams were captained by H. Owen Hughes and A. W. Hayward respectively, the result being a draw.

Mr. Hayward's XI: 158 (Comdr. Haytor 31; A. W. Hayward 29; J. H. Davis 2 for 8, R. L. D. Wodehouse 3 for 33).
Mr. Owen Hughes' XI: 144 for 5. (H. W. Balnes 34, R. M. King 42 not out; Comdr. Haytor 2 for 20, R. S. Holden 2 for 22).

26 On View At I.R.C.

An intra-club cricket match was played on the Indian Recreation Club ground—yesterday between teams captained by A. H. Rum-jahn and A. K. Minu, the game ending in a draw. Twenty-six players in all took part and everybody was given a chance with either the bat or ball.

Mr. Rumjahn's XI: 144 (J. S. A. Curreen 28, A. R. Saffad 28; Y. e) Arculli 2 for 9).
Mr. Minu's XI: 143 for 9 (Y. e) Arculli 28, F. D. Pereira 26, M. e) Arculli 20; A. Baker 2 for 20).

C.S.C.C. Out For 45

On the Civil Service Cricket Club ground, the Police R.C. beat the home team by 7 wickets in a friendly cricket match.

C.S.C.C.: 45 (F. Harner 12; C. Pope 5 for 15, B. G. Baker 4 for 20).
Police R.C.: 138 for 9 (Hunt 21, B. G. Baker 18; F. J. Ling 3 for 20).

MONACO AND FRANCE

Line Of Distinction Drawn

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL Paris, Yesterday.

A clear line of distinction was drawn between France and the Principality of Monaco by the Minister of State, M. Bouilloux-Lafont, at a press reception arranged to clear up any doubts which may exist about the matter.

The Minister pointed out that the sovereignty and independence of Monaco was guaranteed by France in the Treaty of 1918, and this was ratified by all other signatories of the Treaty of Versailles. Foreigners, so the Minister said, were often tempted to regard Monaco as an inseparable part of France. The comparison the Minister then made between France and Monaco did much to enlighten the point, the Minister stating that in Monaco there were no taxes, no trade unions, the interests of the foreigners were guaranteed, and there were no strikes.—Trans-Ocean Service.

One case of diphtheria was reported to the local Health authorities during the 24 hours ended on Friday.

The modern history of the country began 26 years ago with the proclamation of the Republic on October 5, 1910, after a short revolution, when a provisional Government was established, with Dr. Theophilo Braga as the Provisional President. Following him there were eight duly elected presidents and on March 19, 1933, the Estado Novo Constitution (providing for a Dictatorship on a corporative basis) was adopted, this Constitution providing for a President to be elected for seven years.

Present Leaders

The present President, General Antonio Oscar de Fragoze Carmo, began his career as the country's ruler on November 29, 1926, and has since been twice re-elected to the position. The present Cabinet, under Dr. Antonio de Oliveira Salazar, has perhaps achieved more for the country than any other past regimes through the genius of its leader, who, as Prime Minister and Minister of Finance, has had almost an equal share with General Carmo toward shaping the destiny of present-day Portugal.

The efforts of the leaders of the Republic in recent history show a concentration upon the development of the resources of the country and her colonies. It is significant that Portugal, almost alone among the nations of the world, has had a balanced budget since 1930-31, resulting in the steady development of agriculture and industry. She has taken her appointed place among the modern hegemony of States, having also been duly elected to a permanent seat on the Council of the League of Nations. Among the features of her modern developments may be counted her activities in all the fields of construction, social, communication and scientific work. In her social work she has afforded protection to mothers and children, invalids and the unemployed.

Local Celebrations

From 11.30 o'clock to-morrow morning an official reception will be held at the Club Lusitano, presided over by Mr. Alvaro B. Laborinho, Consul for Portugal, at which His Excellency the Governor, Sir Andrew Caldecott, will toast the health of his country's oldest ally. In the evening, commencing at 9.30 o'clock, will be held the annual ball to commemorate the occasion.

At Macau the celebrations will take place with the usual military parade in the morning, while the residents will gather to celebrate the occasion at the Grand Ball to be held at the Governor's Palace in the evening.

Exhibition Of Photographs

Throughout the day, and for one week afterwards, there will be displayed in the Club Lusitano a collection of 100 photographs of Macau, the work of Mr. J. N. Catein, of the Macau Tourist Bureau. The pictures were all taken with a Leica camera and enlarged, and portray the various angles of life and scenery in the Portuguese colony. During the succeeding days, from October 6, this exhibition will be open to anyone who would like to view it at the Club Lusitano. A great number of these "still" portraits were forwarded to the National Geographic Society in the United States as illustrations for an article on the terminus for the China Clipper planes.

SLUM PROBLEM SAME AS 20 YEARS AGO VETERAN ARCHITECT INTERVIEWED

DRASTIC ACTION BY GOVERNMENT ONLY SOLUTION

"I HAVE had many schemes to rebuild on old lots, including those on the slum areas, and the authorities were willing to make certain concessions in that they were prepared to allow an extra floor, provided the landowners were ready to sacrifice part of the depth of the houses in order that the roads may be widened, but these offers were turned down," said one of the oldest architects in the Colony, when interviewed by the Sunday Herald in regard to slum clearing in Hong Kong.

Our informant went on to say that the landlords gave the explanation that the extra floor would serve no useful purpose insofar as revenue was concerned as tenants objected to having to climb higher than the third floor.

Dealing generally with the scheme, this gentleman said that it was all a matter of finance and that "you cannot do it without Government help. Part of the trouble is that, as a general rule, nearly all slum properties are paying propositions. Part of the reason why so good revenue is derived from the old buildings is that the owners do not spend so much on repairs and keeping the building in good, clean order.

"The owner of any building in these quarters, therefore, will not be all too willing to give it up voluntarily, and they will not part with their property either, unless a ridiculous sum is paid for it, and if the Government were to pay this fabulous amount, then it would be a losing proposition from the word go."

The speaker said that the present position was not unlike the problem with which the authorities were confronted some twenty years ago when they wanted to widen Queen's Road East and make it more suited to the then growing increase in traffic.

Realising that they were on a good wicket, the landowners there refused to part with their property except for absurd prices, and although some lots were secured, it has resulted in that place being an eyesore, what with some of the houses jutting well into the road and the others a good ten feet back.

"It is a good thing," said our informant, "that most of the traffic, apart from the buses, travel along the routes on the reclamation, for if Queen's Road East were the only one used, some of the older houses would be rendered dangerous places to live in."

Poverty Main Cause

Like so many of our prominent residents who have already given their views on the matter, this gentleman also stated that the crux of the whole matter is the utter poverty of the people. There are a number of well-ventilated and newly-built houses, but the people are too poor to pay the rent wanted. Another thing is that the slum population are forced to live in the congested areas in order that they may get to their work easily. If they were to take a cubicle or a bed space in a house that is far away from their work, the money they would have to spend on transportation would almost come to what they have to pay as rent in the congested areas.

Continuing, our informant said that "the only hope is that the Government will deal very drastically with buildings which can be dealt with under the Dangerous Structures Ordinance. The Urban Council or Sanitary Department should get them condemned and then the landlords will either have to build according to the requirements demanded by the new Ordinance, or revert the property to the Government.

"In case of rebuilding, the houses must be of a limited height and the roads wider. The original shapes of the lots sold, as far back as 60 years ago, were all wrong. There were far too many deep sites with narrow frontages. When the houses in the slum quarters were first built, they were as much as 100 feet deep. The regulations now do not allow for a depth greater than 35 feet, and because the sites do not permit it, unless the whole block of houses are taken down and then remodelled and rebuilt, it would be impossible to rebuild, on an economical scale, on any single site."

GREAT CHARITABLE INSTITUTION

CONVENT OF SISTERS OF THE PRECIOUS BLOOD FOUNDATION-STONE OF NEW CLINIC LAID BY BISHOP VALTORTA

That the work of the Chinese Sisters of the Precious Blood Convent deserves public support, since they have sacrificed their whole life ministering to the poor and needy, the sick and the unfortunate, asking no reward or compensation, was one of the statements made by the Right Reverend Bishop H. Valtorta when he officiated at the laying of the foundation stone of the new Children's Hospital in the Precious Blood Convent grounds at Shumshuipo yesterday afternoon.

After the speech of Mr. Tse Yung-kwong, the Chairman of the Children's Hospital and Orphanage, Bishop Valtorta laid the foundation stone, on which is inscribed: "To the Glory of God this Foundation Stone was laid by His Excellency The Right Reverend Bishop H. Valtorta on October 3, 1936." The Bishop was then presented with a silver trowel by Messrs. Sum Tai and Co., the contractors of the new hospital.

Chairman's Speech

In his welcoming speech the Chairman said:—
"My lord Bishop, ladies and gentlemen.—On behalf of the Hospital Extension Building Committee and the sisters of the Precious Blood Convent I take the greatest pleasure in welcoming Your Lordship to be present here this afternoon to lay the foundation stone of the new hospital."

"This building which is under construction is expected to be completed in 10 months' time and by then it will be boon to the Peninsula."

"The reason that we have not been afraid of encountering great hardship in raising funds for the cost of erecting it shows its great importance to the poor people.
In view of the rapid development of the industrial districts on the mainland, the work being done in the Children's Hospital and Clinic increases beyond any conception. As has often been repeated since its inception in the year 1931, the need of expanding the hospital, which is at present housed, and in a small measure run, in a part of the Convent building, has been keenly felt by the Sisters and the doctors. In short, a more spacious and better equipped institution should have been in existence long ago to cope with the situation. But the cost of erecting the desired hospital requires a good deal of money, and it is very difficult for the Sisters and the small Hospital Committee to embark upon such a big scheme."

Special Committee Formed

"Nevertheless, as the state of things and the huge crowd daily crowded in the hospital roused the pity of the committee, while the good care and kindnesses shown by the doctors to the sick and their poor mothers impressed them so deeply, they, after having thought the matter over and over again, came to an unanimous decision that the good work of the noble doctors should not be check-ed from expanding by difficulties in getting money for putting up the building."

"With this object in view a committee was separately formed on June 5, 1934, for the raising of funds, while the success of the scheme was greatly due to the valuable assistance of His Lordship, who obtained from the Governor-in-Council (Sir Wm.
Peel) permission to use the site next to the convent for the purpose of building a hospital."

"Thanks to the generosity of the community and the hard work of the energetic committee we have now in our possession a sum of about $25,000 and a promise of about another $5,000, to be paid at a later date. It is a pleasure to mention that whilst we were in difficulties about raising enough funds, Mr. Fred. Kow came to our assistance and kindly consented to help us to undertake the supervision of the building work."

"It is hoped that before long the children of the poorer class will have a better chance to free themselves from suffering when the modern hospital is completed."

HARVEST FESTIVAL AT GERMAN CLUB

Almost Unbelievable Transformation

At 9 o'clock last night the doors to the top floor of the German Club were thrown open. The sight that met my eyes was startling.
I was no longer in Hong Kong; I was in the midst of a little German village, far away from places where they wear dress-suits and evening dresses.
In a little village, just at the climax of a country fair, I passed a little bearded, where two old peasants, dressed in their Sunday attire, were discussing the results of their harvest, wearing next to the Precious Blood Convent in Castle Peak Road.

The basement will be for the use of outdoor patients, but part of it will accommodate servants and hospital stores.

The general wards will be on the ground floor, which will include a sitting room, consultation room, clinic, dispensary, matron's room and general offices. On the second floor 10 private wards are to be built, besides a general ward and duty-room for the nurses.
Maternity cases will be accommodated on the third floor, which includes 10 private wards, an operating room and nurses' duty room. The third floor is to be utilised as a laundry, kitchen and servants' quarters. Each floor will be equipped with hot and cold water baths and flush toilet rooms.
The estimated cost of the building, including furniture, is approximately $50,000.

Bishop Valtorta Opens Annual Bazaar

"Open the strings of your purse and spend freely, for this is a cause which is indeed worthy of your patronage," appealed the Right Reverend Bishop H.
Valtorta at the Precious Blood Convent in Shumshuipo yesterday, when he declared open the bazaar, which was organised in aid of the Children's Clinic and Orphanage.
The bazaar, which is a yearly function, opened at 3.30 p.m. There were lucky dips, games of skill, embroidered hand-work, toys, sweets, cakes, fruit, refreshments, and many other articles, on sale;
and within an hour of the opening of the bazaar over $200 had been realised.

at the popular Phoenix Ballroom

The function, which was voted a great success, was attended by over 300 persons, all of whom en-

The gala decorations with scene. The centre of attraction was at the band-stand, in front of which flags were hung; coloured lights were fitted all round, while a huge, valuable painted portrait of His Majesty King Edward VIII was hung in the centre.

With music supplied by the Dance Orchestra of the Royal Ulster Rifles, by kind permission of Lieut. Col. R. M. Rodwell and Officers of the Regiment, the dancing, which started shortly after 8.30 p.m., went with a swing and what proved great attractions to the audience were the following novelties:—Spot Dances, Carnival Numbers, Statue Dances and Cinderella Dances.

Prize-winners

During the evening the prizes won in the different dance competitions were presented by Mrs.
H. A. Hole, wife of Bandmaster

The Drums Of Ancient China

Religious And Ritual Ceremonial

Significance Of Music In Olden Times

(By PHYLLIS JUBY)

THE masters of the arts of fire, the smelters, were the first aristocrats of China. Indeed, their emblems became royal emblems. A personification of the forge is called the Dragon-torch; and this Dragon-torch, also an owl, bears in addition the name of Drum. The owl, which was also the drum, was the emblem of the Xin, the second royal dynasty, uniting the genius of the forge and the bird of the thunderbolt. Again he is the symbolic double of Huang-ti, the Master-Smelter, the god of the thunder and the first sovereign with whom all the royal lines are connected, for Huang-ti was born of a flash of lightning upon a hill whose sacred bird was the owl. Huang-ti, who fed upon owls, knew how to identify himself completely with his emblem.

Huang-ti was thunder. He was also identified with a celestial Leather Bottle, under the name of Ti-hong. The leather bottle Ti-hong is a drum as well as a bag made of skins and a bird. There is even an owl (his name is Drum-of-the-Night) who is a bag, and from whom thunderbolts and arrows will rebound. And finally, there is a drum who is an owl, producing the wind when he breathes. Completely red and with immovable eyes, he represents a forge and its bellows. The Celestial Leather Bottle that was hung to represent the sky was a drum, and not far from China, lived a people, in these ancient days, who every year sacrificed a man whom they called the "Celestial Lord." On the occasion of these festivals, it was customary to suspend a drum from the top of a wooden pole fixed to the ground.

Significance Of Sounds

The drum has no peculiar relation with the five principal notes of music, but without the drum the five notes would not be in perfect harmony. Its sounds represent the earth. It is said: "The clear and distinct sounds represent heaven; loud and powerful sounds the earth; the beginning and ending of pieces the four seasons; the evolution of the pantomime wind and rain." Music was of supreme importance in ancient China: its purpose was to rule the feelings. When, in 2000 B.C., the Five Sovereigns laid down their rules, Kwel, master of music, said: "At the foot of the steps, the flutes and drums blend their accents. They cease when the musical tiger gives the signal. Organs and bells play in the intervals. Birds and quadrupeds quiver with joy. The Nine Odes are sung and the male and female phoenixes poise softly in elegant style." The bells, drums, shields, and war-axes were used to regulate the times of rest and the times of pleasure.

In pantomime the drum played its part. Pantomime in China was not just an amusement, a series of pictures to be watched as entertainment. The Emperor himself participated. It was music: each sound and each gesture was music.

Drum Gives Signal

The stringed instruments and the mouth organs waited for the drum to give the signal: each time an ode was sung the drum was beaten to attract everyone's attention. If the pantomime was military, the drum was sounded to announce the approach and the withdrawal in good order of the troops. "The great sages invented the hand drum and the ordinary drum, two instruments which give the signal at the beginning and end of pieces, the egg-shaped clay whistle, the flute: these instruments gave the sounds that incite to virtue. The former kings used this music when they worshipped their ancestors and when they offered the cup to their guests. The sound of the drums is very noisy. A noisy sound produces excitement. Excitement creates enthusiasm. When a wise prince hears the sound of drums, he remembers his general-in-command and other generals."

The drum was always associated with battle. Huang-ti, whose emblem was the owl or the drum, was god of battles. It was the duty of the chief to sound the drum in battle. Ki-K'o commands the central legion of China; Chang-hou is his charioteer. At the beginning of the battle (588 B.C.), "Ki-K'o was wounded by an arrow: the blood ran down to his shoes: he did not cease to beat his drum. (But at last) he said: 'I am in pain!'"

Chang-hou said: "The eyes and ears of the army are turned towards our flag and our drum. From them they take the word to advance or to retire. This chariot of ours will be able to fulfill its task as long as there is a man to drive it! Because you are in pain, would you lead the great work of our master to destruction? He who puts on a breastplate and takes up arms must march forward without faltering, even to death. You are suffering, but not unto death. My lord, conquer your suffering!" Then Chang-hou, gathering the reins into his left hand, took the drumstick in his right, and beat the drum.

Liang Incident
An incident occurred in the Liang dynasty (A.D. 502-557), which shows the role of the great drum at that time. A mandarin was falsely accused by his superior officers of misdeeds, for which he was thrown into prison and condemned to death. His son, a lad of fifteen years of age, determined to save him by the sacrifice of his own life. He accordingly proceeded to the capital, and striking the great drum, which was suspended at one of the city gates, he was led at once into the presence of the Emperor Wu Ti, who asked him what urgent matter had made him take the liberty of beating the drum instead of going through the formal process of law which was the common way and open to every citizen who had any complaint to make or grievance to be redressed.

The lad replied that his case was one that would brook no delay. His father, he said, had been condemned to death, and would soon be executed. He had come here to offer himself as a substitute for him, and wished the Emperor to accept him and order the stay of proceedings against his father. Wu Ti, deeply moved, at once ordered the father to be released.

It appears that the drum at the gate of the capital was analogous to that which was found at the entrance to every prominent mandarin's court in the last century. In cases of great urgency, where immediate aid was required from the magistrate, and where delay would cause great loss and suffering, men were allowed to strike this, when their cases were at once attended to. But it was only in extreme circumstances that the mandarin might be summoned to his court.

FORD V-8 AGAIN SUCCESSFUL

Wins At Scottish Rally

Ford V-8 entries in the Scottish Rally again lived up to this car's reputation for providing "super" performance, securing both first and second places in their class and capturing The Motor Trophy. The successful competitors were G. M. Denton (698.1 marks) and J. G. R. Watson (691 marks).

It is noteworthy that although the Scottish Rally course, with its stretches of narrow, twisting lanes, added considerably to the difficulties of drivers of large, closed cars, the performance of the successful Ford V-8's was better than that of the majority of sports cars.

took his way to the Pond that was full of gamboling fish. "Face boards with tops of finest tracery he reared, large drums and bells hanging free. How harmonious was their sound. How joyous the circling pool. The crocodile skin drum resounded softly, the blind musicians did their part." There is an ode describing the instruments of the blind musicians in the Temple Court of Chou:

'ASPRO'

THE old idea that a dozen medicines were needed for a dozen complaints—that laying up for indefinite periods was necessary—that it was also necessary to take dangerous drugs and narcotics—was an illusion. 'ASPRO' has dispelled it. For it is the medicine that takes the place of a dozen medicines, because, after ingestion in the system, it is an internal antiseptic—an anti-pyretic or fever reducer—an anti-periodic—a powerful germicide, and a solvent of Uric Acid, and, therefore, banishes the causes of numerous complaints. That's why ASPRO banishes headaches in five minutes. It's the time test for quick action, and it stands the test of time. 'ASPRO' soothes the irritable—brings sweet sleep to the sleepless—relieves rheumatism in one night—smashes colds and influenza at inception. Furthermore, 'ASPRO' does not harm the heart or the stomach. It can be taken by all, from child to parent, anywhere, any time. The price is within the reach of all.

Dear Sir,

It gives me great pleasure to say these lines of appreciation for the wonderful benefit I have derived through taking your 'ASPRO' Tablets. I continued taking two after every meal, and can now say, with confidence, that I am free from any pain, either Rheumatic or Neuralgic. You will, therefore, quite understand the pleasure I derive in recommending such a wonderfully simple medicine to other sufferers.

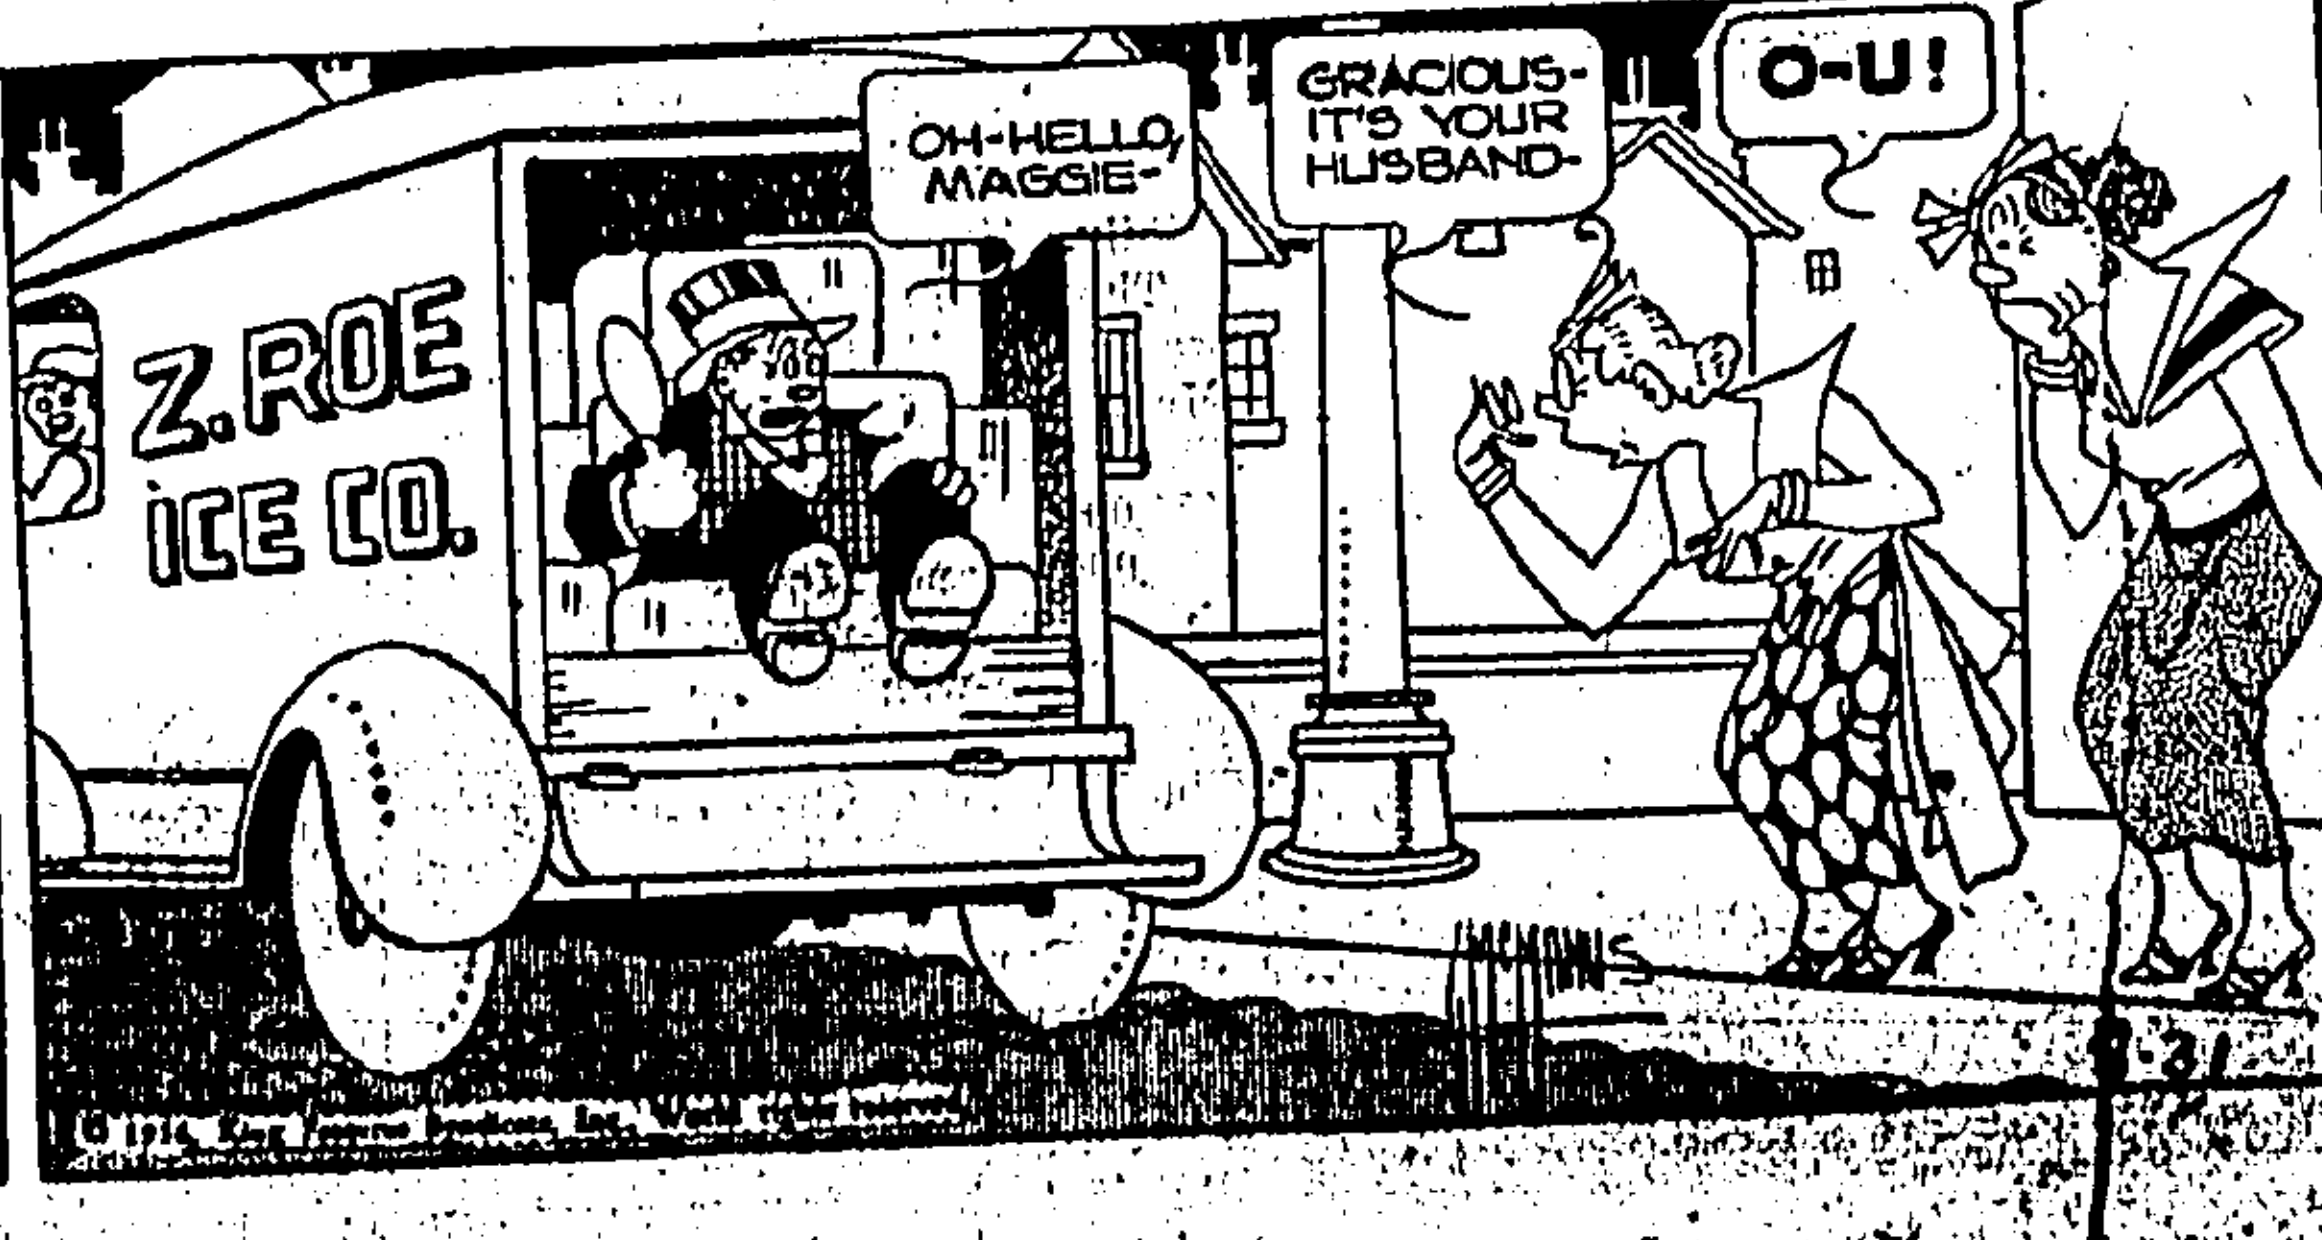

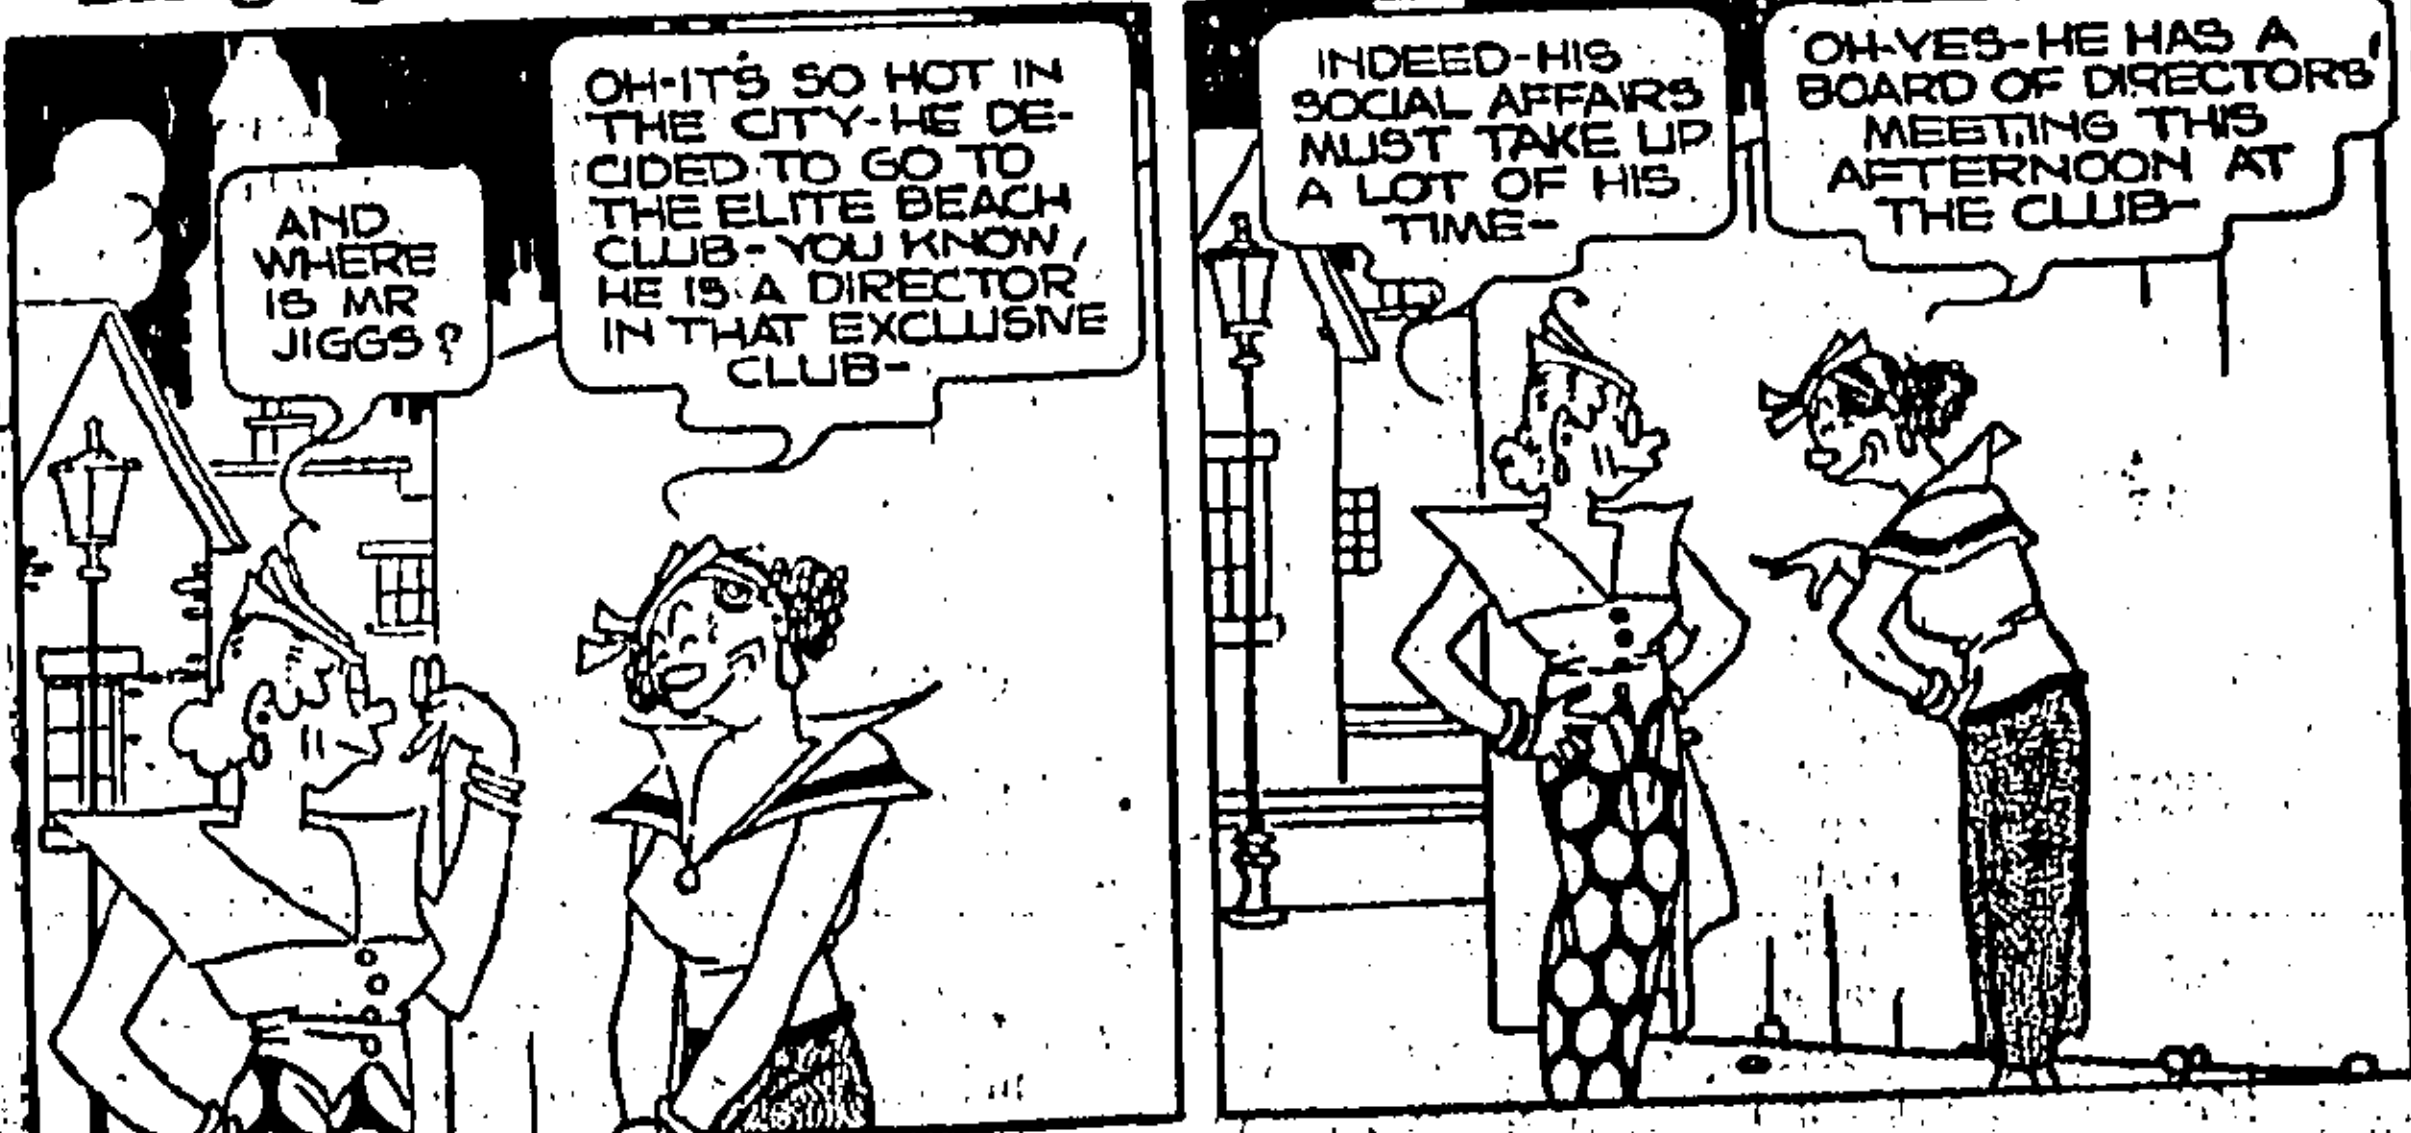

I remain,
Yours faithfully,

BRIDGE NOTES

By ELY CULBERTSON

A SACRIFICIAL SLAM

INTELLIGENT sacrifice bidding to prevent the opponents from getting the full value of the big hands which they have been dealt will pay big dividends in the long run. How pleasant it is to save a rubber for 250 or even 450 points, or to save the first game for 250 or less! And, in addition, every once in a while a bolt will strike from the blue and the team which has bid up to a game or slam contract, expecting fully to go down one or two tricks, will find itself, through some lucky break or bad defence, fulfilling its contract.

On to-day's hand North and South, despite the fact that the West player seemed to be interested in a slam, deliberately risked pushing East and West to the slam in order to take what they thought would be a paying sacrifice at six clubs. Both North and South felt reasonably certain that they could defeat an opposing-slam contract if it was bid and knew that they could not be badly hurt at their own slam contract. When the opening lead was made and the Dummy went down, Declarer knew immediately that he had a play to fulfill his contract, and he finally succeeded in making it, despite a very fine defensive play by East.

West was faced with quite a problem on his opening lead. He finally decided—albeit erroneously—that there was a better chance of winning tricks in the spade suit than in the heart suit, and he accordingly led the spade Jack. South won the trick with the Ace in Dummy and led the club Queen. East did not cover, hoping South would play for a drop, but from the bidding the Declarer realised that the finesse seemed indicated. After the club Queen held the trick, the diamond 8 was led from Dummy. East very brilliantly went up with the diamond King, knowing that if he ducked and his partner's Ace was forced out his own diamonds would drop on the second and third rounds and some discards would be set up for Dummy's losing hearts or spades.

After winning the trick with the diamond King, East shifted to a heart, which South won with the low diamond in Dummy, and returned to his own hand with the club Ace, naturally dropping the King. Despite East's fine play of the diamond King at the third trick, South knew from the bidding that West was marked with the diamond ace. His only hope of fulfilling the contract was therefore to set up two diamond tricks on the next lead. He had two possible plays: one was to lead a low diamond, hoping West's Ace would drop, but this play South immediately discarded, as he knew that East, with four diamonds to the King or the King-Jack, would not have jumped up. The other play offered a better chance of success. If West had the guarded Ace, East could very well hold the lone Jack. South accordingly led the Queen of diamonds from his own hand. West's play, of course, was immaterial. Actually West covered, the trick was ruffed in Dummy, and East's Jack dropped. South now had the good ten and nine of diamonds left and on these two cards discarded Dummy's two losing hearts and was then able to claim the balance of the tricks. Instead of being on the wrong end of a one-to-three trick penalty, North and South suddenly found themselves with 240 points below the line and 500 above.

at irregular hours by the use of this drum. If it was found that the drum had been struck without any adequate justification severe punishment was at once the consequence.

Ancient Drums
The most ancient of drums, in the time of the Five Sovereigns, were made of baked clay, filled with bran and covered with tanned skins. They were beaten with cloths. Later there were wooden drums varying from five inches to several feet in diameter, some richly ornamented with silk, some very simple and unadorned.

THE HONG KONG SINGERS

Most Successful
Rehearsal

GREAT THINGS PROMISED AT COMING CONCERT

The Hong Kong Singers on Thursday last held a most successful rehearsal for "King Olaf" in the theatre of the China Fleet Club. The occasion was important, as this was the first rehearsal in the theatre and also the first at which both choir and orchestra have been present together.

The unfamiliar surroundings, and still more the very rich and involved orchestration, might have been expected to distract the choir to a certain extent. The Singers, however, are by now veterans who always rise to an occasion, and the preliminary work had been so well done by their indefatigable conductor, Mr. J. Anderson Miller, and Bandmaster Yule, that considerable sections of the work could almost have been publicly performed just as they stood. This is a most gratifying position with the concert still a fortnight distant, and it will enable the conductor to attain an even higher level of interpretation than that reached in previous performances by the Singers.

Noble Accompaniment

All those present on Thursday were delighted with the noble accompaniment which Elgar has written for this work, and it might almost be said that the beauty of the orchestration surpasses that of the vocal parts. The orchestra assembled for this concert will certainly do full justice to it. On Thursday they played with immense enthusiasm and complete technical mastery of the florid and intricate score. The soloists, Mrs. Anderson Miller, Mr. H. B. Warner, and Mr. A. V. Sanders, were also in excellent voice, and had plainly been putting in a great deal of work rehearsing their long and difficult parts.

The choir also spent a short time going through the four Elgar part songs, "Feasting 1 Watch," "Evening Scene," "Weary Wind of the West," and "Death on the Hills" which will be included in the programme. These have not been quite so long in rehearsal as "King Olaf," and need some more work to reach the very high standard of detailed subtlety necessary for unaccompanied part singing.

Promising Performance

Nevertheless, the performance was most promising and some of the singing unusually beautiful. The contraltos in particular, who are often the weakest point of a good choir, have a remarkably strong and mellow tone.

Altogether, there seems no doubt that October 15 and 17 will see an exceptionally fine concert. Those who intend to be present should lose no time in booking their seats at Messrs. Anderson's, or in obtaining coupons either from a member of the Hong Kong Singers or the St. John Ambulance Association, in whose aid this concert is being performed.

There was a drum suspended in a frame by four rings and beaten on the upper surface with two sticks, richly ornamented and painted with birds, dragons, and flowers. It stood on the east side of the Moon Terrace in the Confucian Temple.

The Po-fu was a small drum resting on a richly ornamented table a foot high. There were two in the Confucian Temple—one on the left, the other on the right side of the hall. In playing the performer held it on his knees and beat with his hands. Another, the Tao-ku, has a handle passing through the barrel. Two balls are suspended by string from the barrel and when the drum is twirled they strike against the heads. Anciently, the Tao-ku used in ritual music was composed of several small drums hung together upon a frame. The Pang-ku is a small flat drum, with a body of wood, the top covered with skin and the bottom hollow. It rests on a wooden tripod. You will see it in the theatre, used for beating time and accompanying songs and ballads.

ADJUSTMENTS TO DEVALUATION

Cobdenite Decrees In France

TO AVOID "ANY UNJUSTIFIED RISE IN PRICES"

Paris, Yesterday.
Cobden must have turned in his grave, but this time with delight, on the publication in to-day's Journal Officiel decrees the establishment of a French Customs Commission for the control of prices "in order to avoid any unjustified rise in prices by means of the introduction of greater quantities of competing foreign goods in the French market."

The importance of this measure, viewed in the proper light as a step towards international free trade, is stressed by the announcement that the scope of the commission will include recommendations for the lowering of the import duties, taxes and licences and the relaxation of quotas, even perhaps of their abolition in certain cases.

Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Paraguay and Argentina have particular reason to congratulate themselves since another decree abolishes, effective from October 10, the compensatory exchange taxes applied to goods produced by these countries or coming from them.
The "maximum compensatory tax" applied against China and Japan, of 10 per cent., is effective on October 10.

Numerous other decrees concern the reduction of Customs duties on raw material by 20 per cent., semi-manufactured goods by 17 and manufactured goods by 15, while the general rate of taxes on the imports of goods which are subject to a quota will also be reduced by 20 per cent., effective on October 10.

It is to be noted that the present devaluation by 30 per cent.
itself acts as an additional tariff barrier for French industry, and that therefore any reduction of duties up to that limit is nothing but a readjustment to the altered currency basis. — Reuter.

PARIS WAITERS ON STRIKE

Small Cafes Not Affected

Paris, Yesterday.
All the large cafes are closed owing to a strike of waiters, who are parading the streets wearing red paper caps and singing. The smaller cafes are not affected.

The strike originates from discussions on wages and collective contracts. — Reuter's Bulletin Service.

N.E.I. EXPORT DUTY ON NATIVE RUBBER

Batavia, Yesterday. — The Netherlands East Indies' export duty on native rubber, effective from October 4, is 50 guilders per 100 kilograms dry weight, except at Palembang, where the duty will be 45 guilder.

DELICATE SITUATION IN FRANCE

Demonstrations By Rival Groups

TROOPS CONCENTRATED IN PARIS

Paris, Yesterday.
About 6,600 Mobile Guards, that is about one-third of this famous body of troops, were concentrated by the Minister of Defence in Paris during the recent special session of Parliament, since the authorities feared that the devaluation of the franc would be followed by protest demonstrations and disorders, according to press reports here, which add that the Minister, who originally intended to send the Mobile Guards back to their garrisons in the provinces immediately after the conclusion of the special session of Parliament, decided to let the troops remain in Paris for the time being, in view of the serious tension which exists between the Social Party, the former Fire-Cross organisation, and the adherents of the Popular Front.

The presence of the troops in the capital is considered necessary by the authorities, particularly in view of the fact that the Communist Party will hold a large demonstration in Prince's Park to-morrow. Following the Government's refusal to permit the Social Party to hold a meeting in the Palais d'Hiver last evening the leader of the Social Party, Colonel de la Roque, notified his adherents that a counter-demonstration against the Communist mass meeting will be held by the Social Party tomorrow.

The authorities consequentially fear that the demonstrations of the two hostile groups may be followed by clashes in the streets and have therefore determined to be prepared for all eventualities. — Trans - Ocean Service.

FATE OF MADRID IN BALANCE of Cordoba. A group of Nationalist detachments has therefore now been formed to clear these regions of Red troops, whose continued presence on the flank of the attacking Nationalist army might become a serious threat in certain circumstances.

The operations of the new group began with the occupation of the towns of Azuaga and Granja de Torre Hermosa in the southern part of the province of Badajoz.
Yesterday the Nationalist troops reached Fuente Vejana in the northern part of the province of Cordoba, after the occupation of which they continued their advance in the direction of Pennarya. All these towns are situated on the northern slopes of the Sierra Morena, which is economically extremely important since numerous coal and lead mines are found in this region. — Trans-Ocean Service.

PLENTRY OF AEROPLANES
Madrid: The Spanish Government is now supplied with plenty of aeroplanes, according to Colonel Rubio, commanding the Government forces on the Toledo front. Interviewed by Reuter, he stated that the morale of his troops had improved and that his forces were at present enjoying themselves in complete tranquillity.

Last night insurgent planes bombed the outskirts of Madrid, with the object of destroying the Government military aerodrome.

Although the night was favourable for an air raid little damage was done by the insurgent planes, which were later driven off by

ARMAMENTS AND DEFENCE

Resolution Tabled By Labour Party

London, Yesterday.
The following resolution on defence and armaments has been tabled by the National Executive of the Labour Party for discussion at next week's party conference at Edinburgh:—

"That in view of the threatening attitude of dictators, which are increasing their armaments at an unprecedented rate, flouting international law and refusing to co-operate in the work of organising peace, this conference declares that the armed strength of the countries loyal to the League of Nations must be conditioned by the armed strength of the potential aggressors. The conference therefore reaffirms the policy of the Labour Party to maintain such defence forces as are consistent with the country's responsibilities as a member of the League, the preservation of the people's rights and liberties, the continuance of democratic institutions, and the observance of international law.

"Realising the relationship between foreign policy and armaments and having regard to the deplorable record of the Government, the Labour Party declines to accept responsibility for a purely competitive armaments' policy. It reserves its full liberty to criticise the rearmament programme of the present Government and declares the continuance of vested interests in the private manufacture of arms to be a grave contributory danger to the peace of the world." — British Wireless Service.

perial Produce Stakes was run

There were 11 starters. Lovers' Path won by threequarters of a second and third horses.—Reuter.

Animal Day, according to the "Industrial and Commercial Daily Press."

craft guns.—Reuter's Bulletin

FIRM FRONT BEING OFFERED

A Council meeting will also be held in Shanghai to-day. They are going to discuss their attitude towards the present tense situation in the Hongkew district.

TENSION RELAXED

Shanghai, later: The Japanese marine patrols and sentries in Hongkew were greatly reduced this morning. The tension has relaxed. Political circles express the opinion that a breathing spell has been given as a result of the decision in Tokyo to send Mr. Kuwashima, the Director of the East Asia Bureau of the Foreign Office, to China in order to convey fresh instructions to Mr. Kawagoe, the Japanese Ambassador to China. The envoy is arriving at Shanghai on Monday.—Reuter.

OBSCURE STATEMENT

Tokyo, Later: Mr. Kuwashima, en route to Kobe to catch the Nagasaki Maru, interviewed, talked at length about the Sino-Japanese situation. He brought a somewhat obscure statement to a conclusion by saying: "The proposals Japan has submitted to China do not constitute demands. The proposals aim at the readjustment of the Sino-Japanese relations in a sincere way. There can be no mutual concession by either side.
If the Chinese side does not understand this fundamental principle there can be no negotiations."

He stated that important items in the forthcoming negotiations include not only the eradication of anti-Japanism but the settlement of China's recognition of Japan's special position in North China.—
Reuter.

IMPORTANT MEETINGS

Nanking: Mr. Kao Tsung-wu, Chief of the Asiatic Affairs Department of the Foreign Office, who recently interviewed Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek at Canton and later at Kuling, this morning called on Mr. S. Kawagoe, the Japanese Ambassador to China, the interview lasting an hour.

Mr. Kuwashima is expected here on Monday, and will be staying four or five days. After his arrival Mr. Kuwashima will interview Mr. Kawagoe, conveying the Japanese Government's instructions, and he will later call on Mr.
Chang Chun, the Minister for Foreign Affairs.

While there will be a preliminary exchange of views between Mr.
Kuwashima, Mr. Kawagoe and Mr.
Chang Chun, it is understood that the most important stage of the present negotiations will begin after October 10.—Reuter.

BODY FOUND ON ISLAND

Police Pursuing Enquiries

Tseung Tai Cheong, aged 52, a boatman of the Chiu Kang Village, Shataukok, left the village on the morning of September 15, in the company of a foki, with a load of firewood which they intended taking to Shauiwan for sale.

Days passed and the two men still did not return to the village.
Tseung's son became anxious and made enquiries but with no result.
Two days ago, however, someone told him that there was a dead body on Crescent Island and suggested that he should go there and take a look at it, as it might be that of his father. The youth did as he was told and on arriving at the spot identified the body, by the girdle, as that of the missing man. He then went to make a report to the Police, who are now pursuing enquiries.
